Life

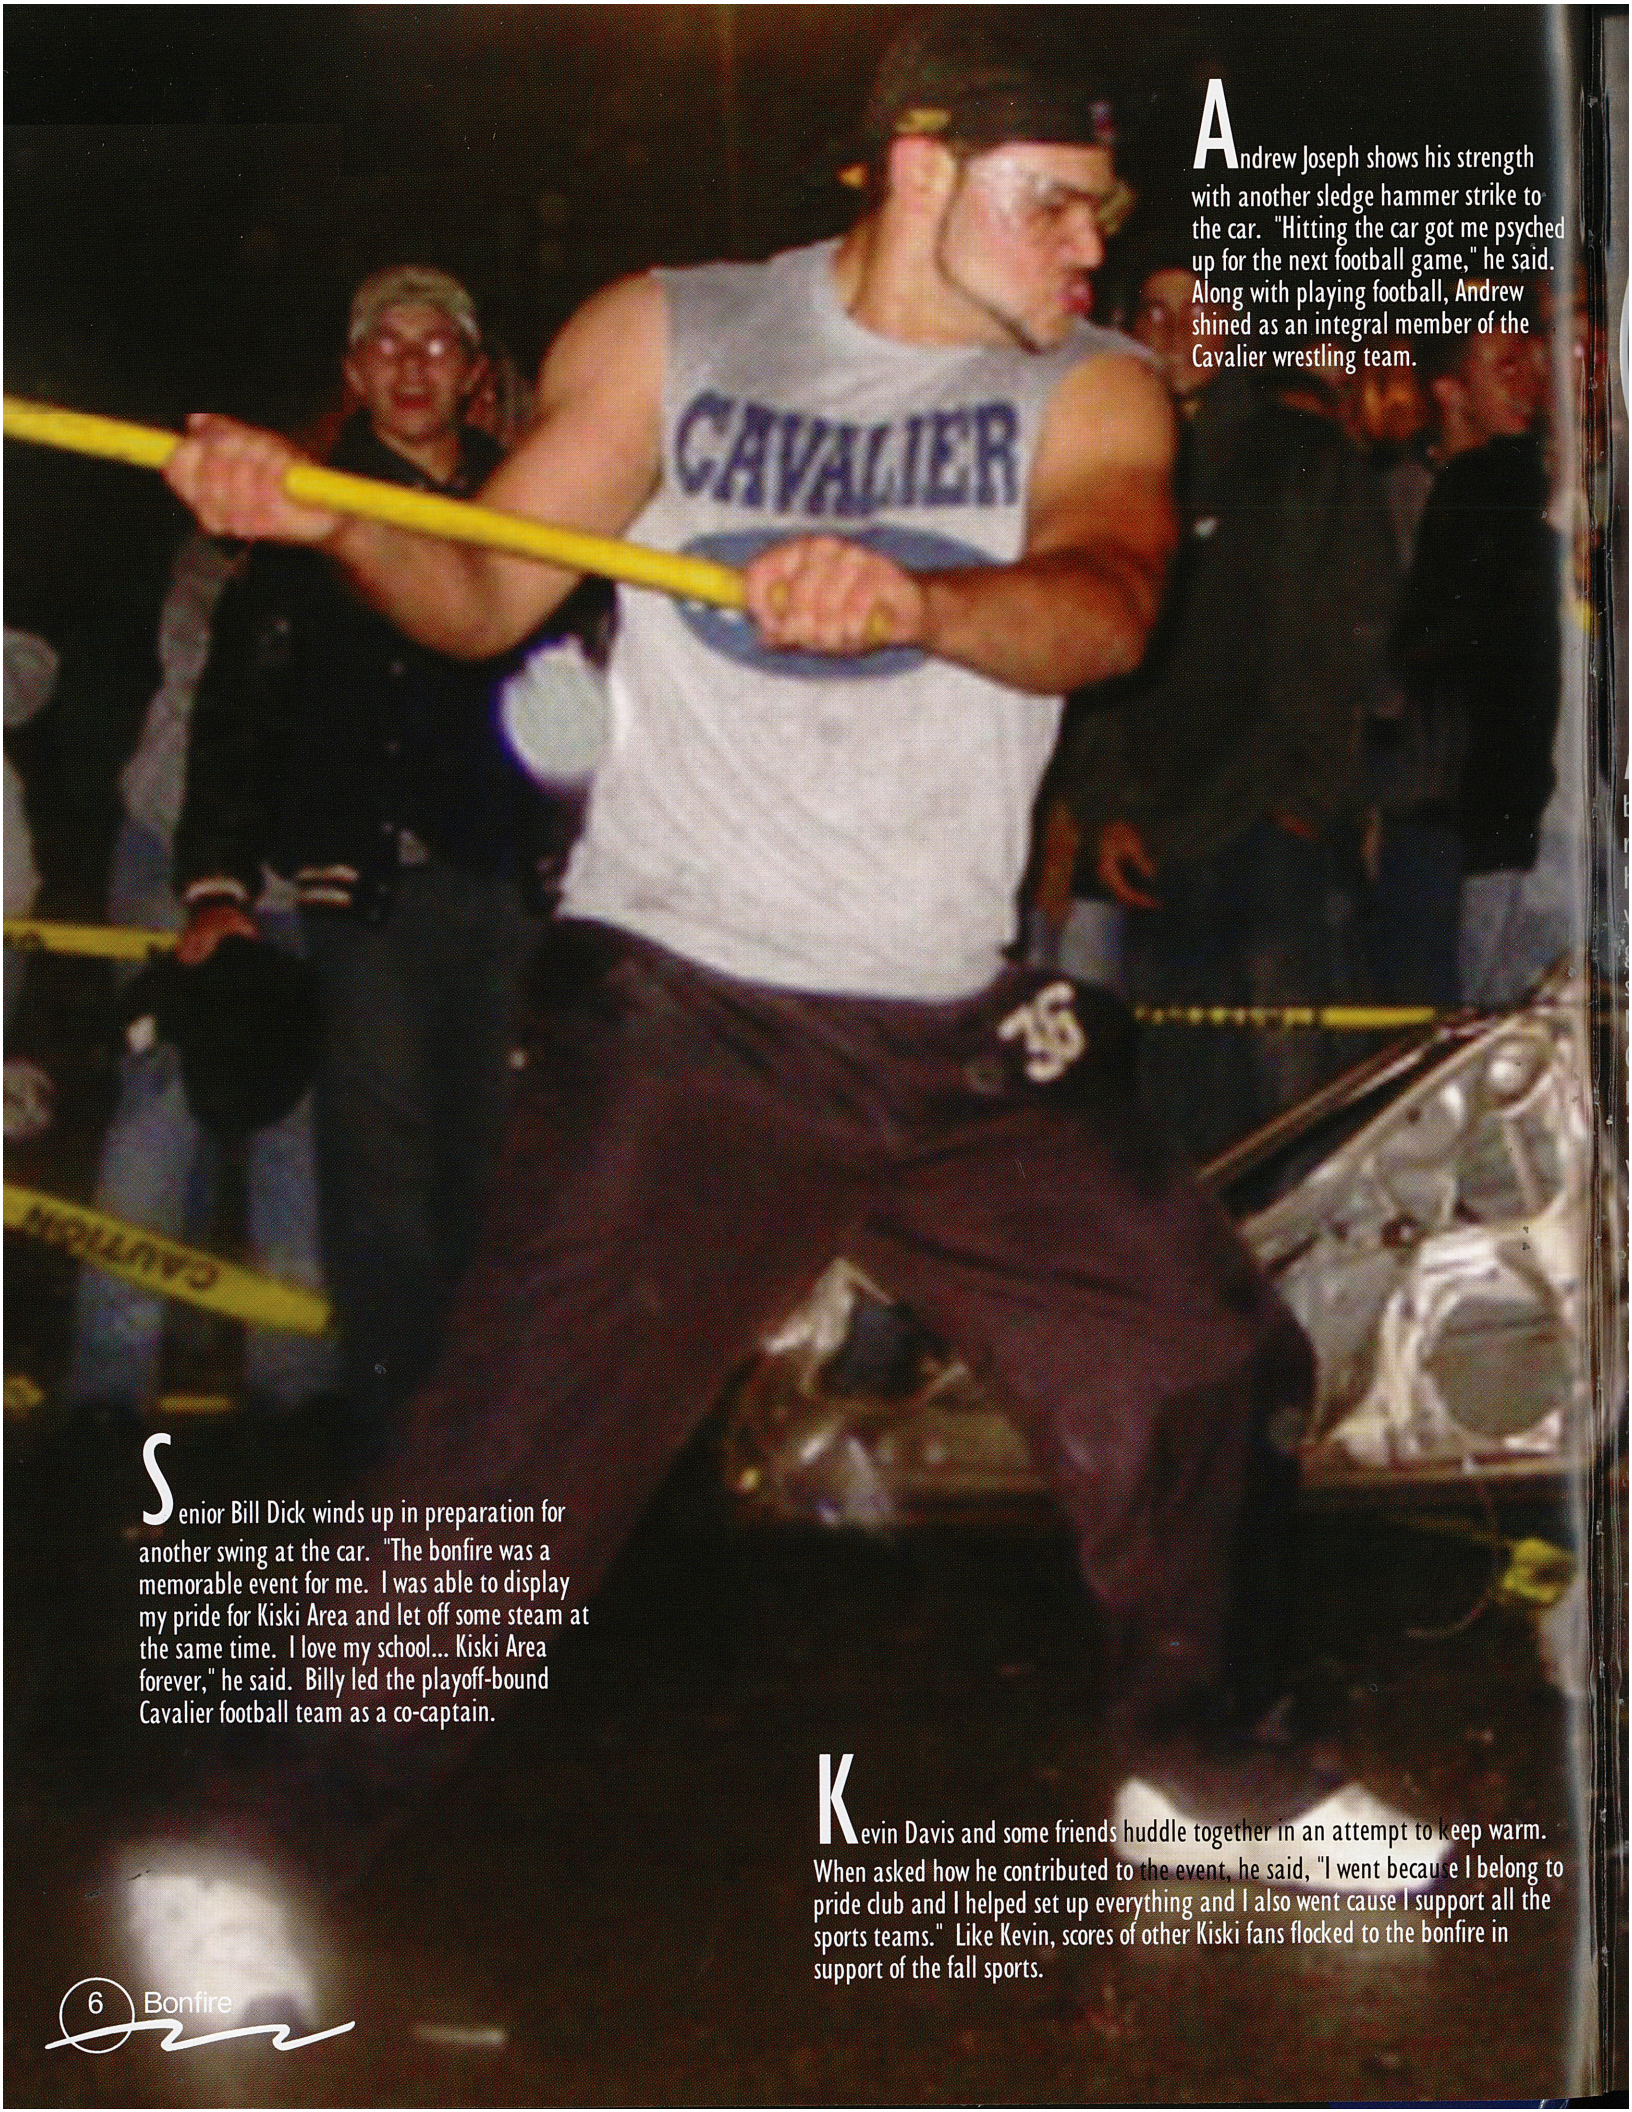

as a teenager in this day and age proved nothing short of extreme, and Kiski Area High School remained no exception. "I do everything I want to do first. Then, if I have time left, I may consider doing my homework," said senior John Roman comically. After classes and homework, it seemed amazing that students had adequate time to join clubs or play sports. Many students also enjoyed involvement with the musical or drama, both of which required countless hours of rehearsal and months of preparation. To cover the necessary expenses of teenage life, several of Kiski's students worked a part-time job, and sometimes even two part-time jobs in the area. Senior Billy Briscoe commented on how working affected his social life: "It was miserable. I got used to spending money all the time and it took away from the time I had to hang out with my buddies." Although teenagers today held more on their plates than in the past, at Kiski, the young Cavaliers have achieved a perfect balance between work and play.

Andrew Joseph shows his strength with another sledge hammer strike to the car. "Hitting the car got me psyched up for the next football game," he said. Along with playing football, Andrew shined as an integral member of the Cavalier wrestling team.

Senior Bill Dick winds up in preparation for another swing at the car. "The bonfire was a memorable event for me. I was able to display my pride for Kiski Area and let off some steam at the same time. I love my school... Kiski Area forever," he said. Billy led the playoff-bound Cavalier football team as a co-captain.

Kevin Davis and some friends huddle together in an attempt to keep warm. When asked how he contributed to the event, he said, "I went because I belong to pride club and I helped set up everything and I also went cause I support all the sports teams." Like Kevin, scores of other Kiski fans flocked to the bonfire in support of the fall sports.

pride on fire

Autumn Eve Sets School Pride Ablaze

Notorious for filling the school with liveliness, the Pride Club ignited student morale for all who attended the annual bonfire. On October 21, 2003, over 100 Cavalier fans engulfed the back parking lot of the high school, transforming the pavement into the pinnacle of pride.

Headed by Mr. Christie, the Pride Club worked diligently to turn the back parking lot into the perfect location for the festivities. The club knew its efforts paid off by the flaming turnout. Activities heated up the environment, making the evening even more memorable. A small sum of pocket change equaled an extremely large thrill when the students stood face to face with an old car and sledgehammer. Students had the opportunity to demolish the car for one dollar, all proceeds benefiting the Pride Club.

Although the sounds of crushing metal stole most students' attention, many also enjoyed huddling around the warm glow of the bonfire with friends. Sophomore Krista Badac said, "This year's bonfire was the best yet!" Nourished by food and drink, the students lit up the parking lot with more than just warm bodies. With a backdrop of billowing flame, the bonfire sparked the soul in Cavalier spirit.

days gone by

Campus Yields to Dust, Debris and Development

With school right around the corner, students held their breath as preparations for the first day went underway. Rumors flourished throughout every neighborhood about large plans calling for building eruptions around the high school campus. Opinions concerning the traditional courtyard, demolished to ruins to provide room for new science labs and a spotless gymnasium, deemed the school as quite immortal. The legendary walkway reduced to rubble as bulldozers and pickup trucks filled the circle beside the area where the former administration building once stood.

The smell of heavy construction hovered in the hallways as large numbers of students intertwined with construction workers. However, smiles never left the faces of those in the school. Classes progressed, sports teams competed, musical ensembles performed, and students socialized. In fact, most school functions ran as smoothly as any other year. Everyone simply adjusted. As senior Alicia Fitzgerald said, "As long as I got to class on time, I was okay. Still, sometimes even the rain used to feel good after gym class."

When asked about traveling outside between classes, junior Angie Palermo said, "I liked going outside when it was sunny - plain and simple." The absence of the courtyard walkway left many students with long distances to travel between classes.

Homecoming Ceremony Swept to Saturday

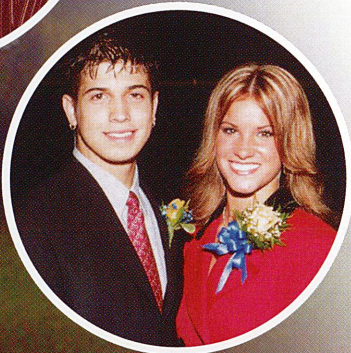

Following last year's torrential reign of Isador, Hurricane Isabel challenged the crown as her rains and gales invaded the Court on the fateful Friday evening of September 19. The apprehension of Isabel's deluge swept the homecoming game to the following night for the first Saturday football game in a long stretch of the school's history.

Fortunately for the Cavaliers, Davis Field escaped most of Isabel's wrath, allowing the game to proceed without a hitch. And proceed they did, surging into an early lead against the Indiana Indians that lasted entirely throughout the game. By the end of the first half, the excitement of Kiski fans rose to a height worthy of the announcement of the Homecoming Court and Queen. The 2003-2004 Court included of Melissa Kownacki, escorted by Derek Scalzott; Koree Kurkowski, escorted by Jordan Skwirut; Shawna Montgomery, escorted by C.J. Confer; Kelly Schaeffer, escorted by Dave Herbeck; Adrienne Tallarom, escorted by Joe Intrieri; and Lena Tobin, escorted by Bill Briscoe.

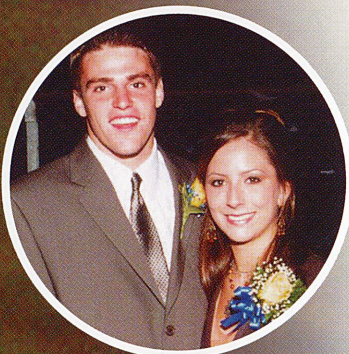

The entire stadium held its breath as the girls, their escorts and their parents assembled on the field. After a long pause, silence gave way to thunderous cheers as the name of Lena Tobin blared over the loudspeakers. "When they announced my name I was just amazed and overwhelmed," Lena said. Even though there became only one homecoming queen, every girl on the court enjoyed the experience. "I had such a fun time," said Shawna. She further said, "It was an experience that I will never forget. I was very excited for my best friend to win." The event created memories for all involved as Lena, the 2003-2004 Homecoming Queen, stole the thunder from Hurricane Isabel.

rally in the alley

Football Fans Feast on Pregame Fun

As Davis Field loomed, proudly awaiting the arrival of busloads of Cavaliers and their rivalries, the aroma of barbecue and the sound of Kiski spirit from about seventy football fans filled Hancock Avenue from the Rally in the Alley. Established by masterminds Joe Intrieri and Jarid Kovalcik, the Rally provided a convenient hangout for pre-home game rituals such as cooking out on the grill and burning opposing team jerseys. "I thought it would be cool to have a little cookout before the games like they do before college games," Joe said.

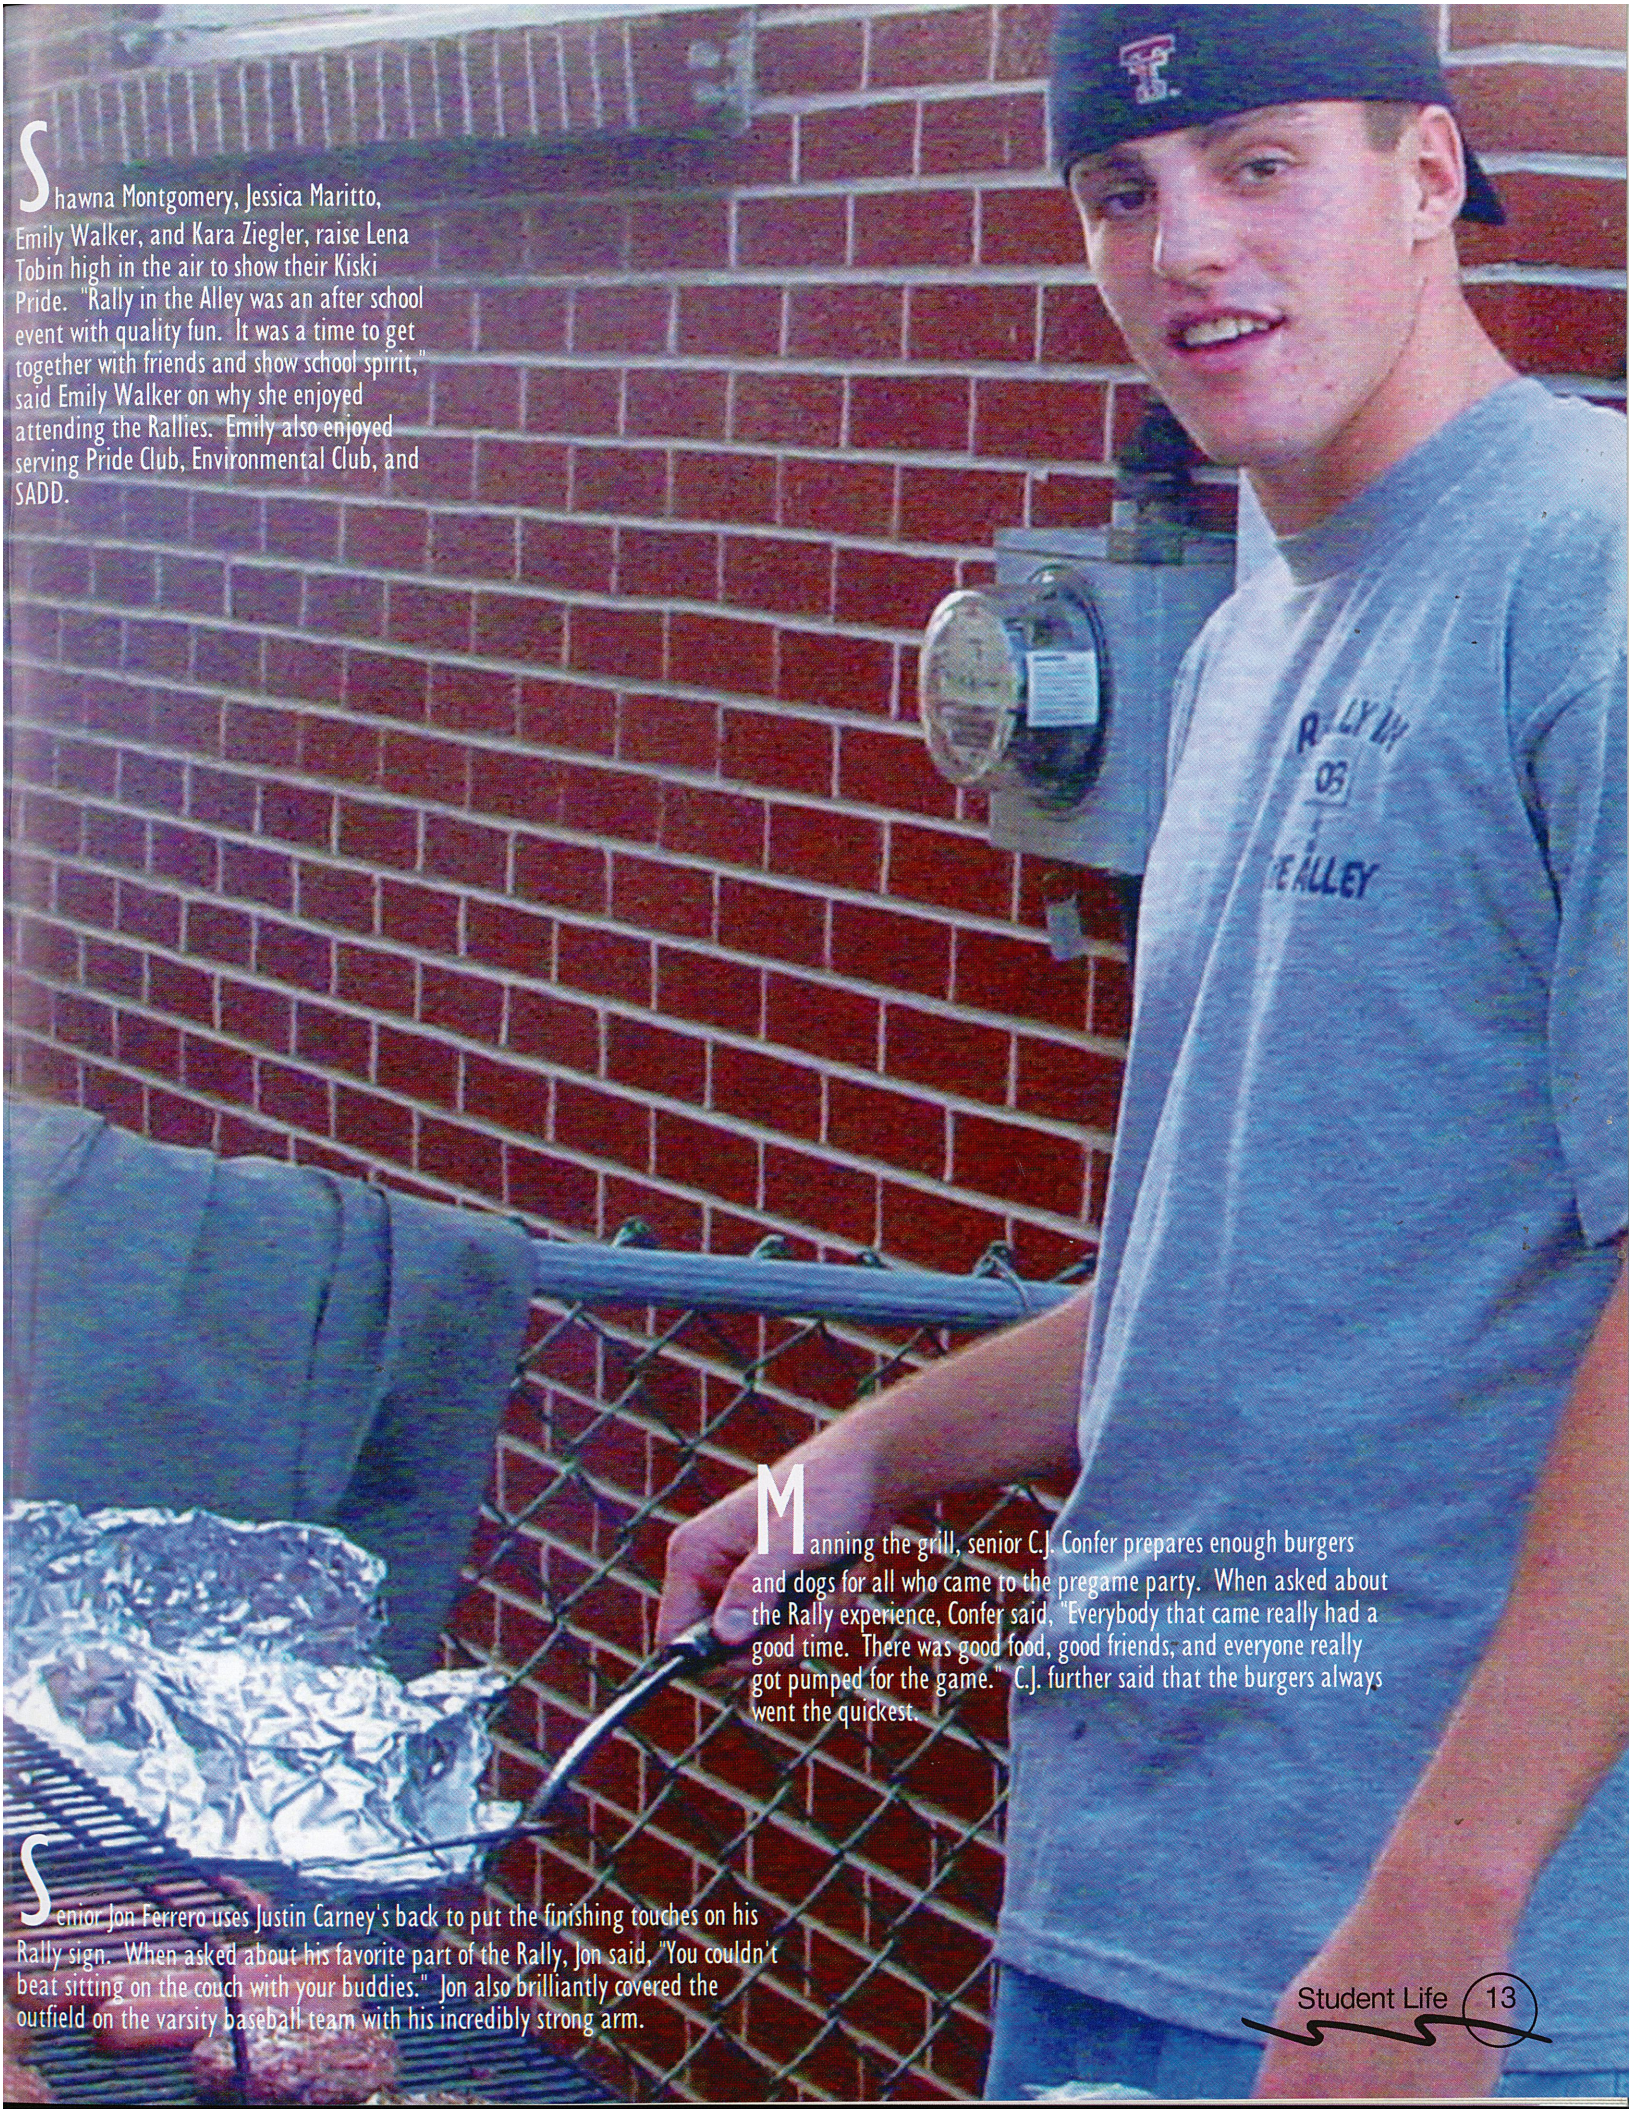

Despite the opposition of such pre-game parties as Tailgate at the Gate and Bungle in the Jungle, the Rally grew from a modest 30 guests to an astounding crowd of 80, including not only students but also faculty and administration. The avenue swarmed with dozens of supporters, each sporting a custom-made gray shirt which bore a sketched navy Cavalier, compliments of Shawna Montgomery's artistic talent. Over 200 shirts reached the backs of over 200 Kiski Cavalier fans, all because two teenagers took the initiative to promote school spirit in the best way they knew how: an alleyway cookout in the core of Vandergrift open to all.

- Amanda Pepler

Eric Weaver, Derek Scalzott, Brad Garrone and Amy Shellhammer relax before the big game against Baldwin. "It was a great place to get pumped for the game," said Brad about attending the Rally. Garrone also further said that he has attended the rallies for two years.

Shawna Montgomery, Jessica Maritto, Emily Walker, and Kara Ziegler, raise Lena Tobin high in the air to show their Kiski Pride. "Rally in the Alley was an after school event with quality fun. It was a time to get together with friends and show school spirit," said Emily Walker on why she enjoyed attending the Rallies. Emily also enjoyed serving Pride Club, Environmental Club, and SADD.

Manning the grill, senior C.J. Confer prepares enough burgers and dogs for all who came to the pregame party. When asked about the Rally experience, Confer said, "Everybody that came really had a good time. There was good food, good friends, and everyone really got pumped for the game." C.J. further said that the burgers always went the quickest.

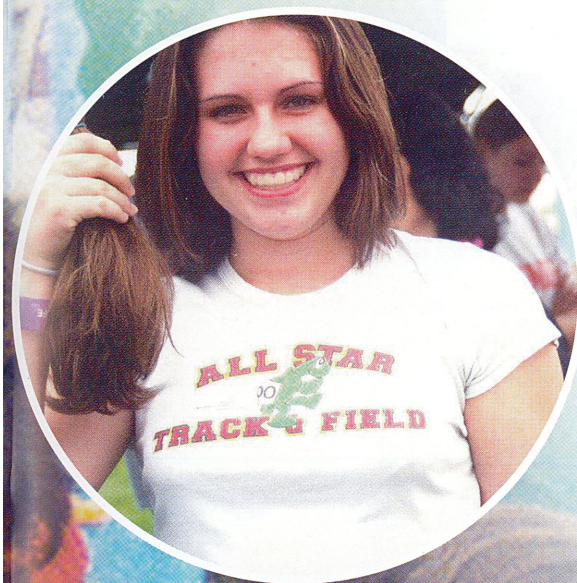

Senior Jon Ferrero uses Justin Carney's back to put the finishing touches on his Rally sign. When asked about his favorite part of the Rally, Jon said, "You couldn't beat sitting on the couch with your buddies." Jon also brilliantly covered the outfield on the varsity baseball team with his incredibly strong arm.

Elyse Skowronek proudly shows off her recently cut hair. "I donated my hair because there were people at Relay for Life who lost theirs to cancer and could really use mine," she said. Elise's team, Maggie's Cherubs, consisted of a group of Kiski's finest and raised money in hopes of finding a cure for cancer.

Many Kiski students gave to the cause by donating locks of their hair. The charity organization Locks of Love fabricated the hair into wigs and distributed them to patients of chemo-therapy. Graduate Becca Ehalt said, "I let my hair grow all school year. It was a pain, but in the end, it was worth the hassle." Donating hair represented one of many ways in which Kiski students supported the event.

A candle-lit message lights the way for cancer survivors. Danielle Pugliese, a Relay for Life veteran, said that she participated in the event because her "family and friends have been touched by cancer." Charity events like the Relay for Life gave family members of survivors a chance to come together and work toward a cure.

Cavaliers Collaborate to Cure Cancer

Sophomore Jena Gardone displays her acrobatic skills at the Relay for Life. When asked how she passed the time at this year's event, she said, "I mostly just played around with my friends and walked on the track." In school sports, Jena completed her first cross country season and contributed to the swim team.

Hope brought a glow to the night air on May 30 as the trek toward a cure for cancer began with a 400-meter journey around Apollo Ridge High School's track at Relay for Life 2003. The atmosphere saturated with the sweet sounds of oldies music and the pleasant aroma of baked goods. Peeking around every corner, devoted teams raised tents and trailers to provide shelter in the event of inclement weather. Despite the continual downpour of rain, the luminaries still shined on, as did the convictions of each participant that rounded another bend of the track.

Nearly a dozen teams from Kiski unified toward the common cause. "When you spend 24 hours sleeping in the mud and walking around all day in the pouring rain with ten of your best friends for a cause, you come out of the experience feeling differently. I've developed a new respect for my friends and the hard work they put in. I definitely feel that this has brought us closer together," said Tia Klazon, senior.

As the announcer read the names of each cancer survivor and victim, all who attended could not attach to one solitary emotion. Tears of sorrow and tears of joy intermingled to form a sea of somber reverence.

beat the heat

School Start Brings Hottest Days of Summer

Students found themselves rattling off comments like "Whew - It's a scorcher out there" an incalculable number of times at the start of school. It seemed like the first week brought on all of the heat that felt absent from the entire summer vacation. Everyone had to find a new method to work around the high temperatures, caused by the lack of air-conditioning, inconvenient renovations and new hallway patterns. Many of these methods adjusted normally into students' lives, while others conflicted with everyday life.

Senior Ryan Mechling said, "I just kept thinking this was going to be my last year, thank goodness." Both Ashley Thall and Melissa Cline felt that wearing short sleeves and keeping their minds on a cooler situation helped beat the heat best. Mrs. Mika believed that her method acted as more of a hindrance than an aide to the dilemma. "I had to take breaks, which was not what I normally like to do because I love teaching!" Junior Shaylyn Croyle simply said, "I just grinned and beared it." Luckily, even the hottest days did not obstruct the students' ability to have fun.

- Courtney Petrina

Stephen Porter cools off under the mouth of a sliding board at Chris Shuss's house. When asked how he beat the heat in school, Porter said, "I stayed cool in school by chilling with my G's at the lockers." Temperatures during the first two weeks of school represented the hottest of the entire summer.

Mrs. Schaeffer and her husband, Joel, enjoy Lewes Beach in Delaware. When asked about how she kept cool the first week of school, Mrs. S. said, "I wore a ponytail and kept the fan running." The Schaeffers welcomed their son, Jacob Matthew, to the family on September 29.

To help beat the heat, Mr. Fantaski trusts the steady hands of young Dylan Ryman for a quick trim. When asked about how he kept cool in school, Mr. F. said, "I kept a fan under my desk and spent free periods in the air conditioning." Mr. Fantaski enjoyed one week last summer along the outer banks of North Carolina with his fiancée Ruth and her family.

Band members Corey McCullough and Ken Miller wage war in a heated towel-snapping frenzy. When asked about who won the contest, McCullough said, "I won because I hit him in the face a few times." Ken disagreed. Frequent water breaks and a huge canopy helped to keep the "Head, Hands, and Feet" of the band camp goers cool.

Dressed as the Village People, Jon Golembiewski, Joe Intrieri, Frank Ily, C.J. Confer, and Jarid Kovalcik perform one of their show stopping dance moves. When asked how they prepared for their in-school performances, Indian Frank Ily said, "We prepared for dances to the YMCA and Macho Man by giving each other back rubs." The Macho Men never failed to please the crowd on Halloween.

Miranda Bier, Tia Klazon, Mara Iverson, Chris Shuss, Bennett Golden, Kimberly Higgins, Morgan Gengo, and Lindsey Spang cast their spells to initiate a Happy Halloween. When asked about why he loved Harry Potter, look-alike Golden said, "To be honest, I don't really like Harry Potter, but I do like Hermione, so I just went along with my friends." The group spent hours preparing their costumes.

Searching for his ultimate enemy Darth Vader, Andy Klingensmith halts for a quick snapshot with Amanda Peppler, also his twin, Leia. Aside from using the force, Andy lived with his real sister, Kaitlin, in Hyde Park and enjoyed dominating on video games.

Perfect Potion for Halloween Hyjinx

The opportunity to transfigure into another entity only presents itself once a year. On All Hallows Eve, October 31, 2003, Luke Skywalker, Rubeus Hagrid, sumo wrestlers, leprechauns, hobos, Eminem, the Village People, the Peanuts gang and Cher stalked the corridors of Olde' Kiski High. Students joined forces to conjure some themed costuming fun. "Halloween was cool because you got to be somebody different for a day," said junior Carly Humes.

Students collaborated to design ingenious group themed outfits to don on hobgoblin day. For instance, not since the 70's had the creativity of five psychedelic seniors brought the disco era to life again, if only for a day. Not forgotten in the rush to the YMCA, other students brandished their wands as Harry Potter characters. Spells and incantations summoned magical childhood memories as muggles walked in wizards' robes. Halloween 2003 reminded students that dressing up remains a thrill, regardless of age.

- Mara Iverson

Annie Stasenko and Joni Palermo open the psychiatric help station up for business. Annie, who dressed as Peanuts' Lucy, said, "I loved watching Peanuts as a kid. My favorite episodes were the Christmas specials." Annie served students nutritious lunches for eight years.

Actors Light Up Holiday Season

"The Butterfinger Bar, Hold the Nuts, and the Murder of Some Carols by a Tree?" Junior Danielle Howard and many other classmates struggled to recall the title of the 2003 Annual Fall Drama. Although nearly impossible to say, the title The Butterfingers Angel, Mary and Joseph, Herod the Nut and the Slaughter of 12 Hit Carols in a Pear Tree only contributed to the real confusion behind the drama. The plot, parodying the story of Christmas, fueled some debate pertaining to the suitability of such a topic in school. Despite controversy, administrators approved the show to the delight of the hardworking cast.

Ms. Halterlein, Ms. Slater, Mrs. Jacobs, cast and crew dedicated countless hours to preparing the show for its November debut. However, no planning in the world could have prevented the surprise received when the generator turned off mid-performance. "Right around the middle of the play - the stage went black," said Alyssa Bruno, "I would've died if we lost the mics!" With such hullabaloo, The Butterfingers Angel, Mary and Joseph, Herod the Nut and the Slaughter of 12 Hit Carols in a Pear Tree secured an unforgettable place in Kiski history.

- Samantha Trimmer

"I think the first night was best because we had a lot of energy and it was really exciting."

- Britney Herbeck

"Thursday night was the best night because the crowd reacted well and everything ran perfectly."

- Nick Artman

"I'd say the first night was best because I got to pull a cookie out of my bra."

- Mike Madden

"The final night was so much fun because we had no inhibitions left."

- Liz Wright

"Thursday night because we weren't as nervous as on opening night and we were able to have a lot of fun."

Erica Froncek and Ian Toy swoon the crowd in a heartfelt performance of "Almost Like Being in Love." "Performing in front of an audience was the biggest high. There was no greater feeling than hearing the applause from the audience," said Erica about performing in the spring musical. In addition to performing in the musical, Erica participated in the honors choir and worked in a recording studio.

"The Sword Dance - Nick and I got to prance around for my mom in the front row."

- Zak Kennedy

"The funeral scene - because I liked to share the bagpipes with the world."

- Jim Young

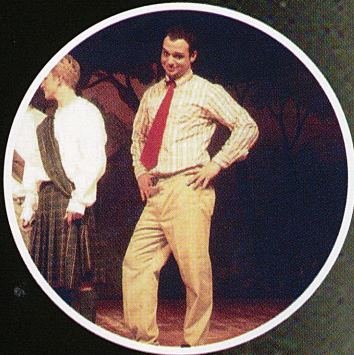

"The Chase - because Jonathan smashed the rock over Zak's head, hitting Mr. Wozniak."

- Bethany Bollinger

"The chase for sure - I got to run all through the auditorium chasing Jonathan Kummick."

- Josh Humphrey

"McConicky Square - because I thought that the music was good and the audience responded well."

Brigadoon Reappears in Cavalier Country

he saying, "Practice makes perfect," described the preparations for the 2003 musical, Brigadoon. Starting in January, rehearsals ran for three hours per night, five nights a week. Music rehearsals occupied the first half of January, and then the cast learned to block and dance in the show. Mrs. Ellen Rupert, the director, led the cast in music and blocking, while Mrs. Kimberly Clark taught all of the dance. Cast members of Brigadoon practically lived in the chorus room and the auditorium for three months.

As opening night approached, rehearsals became quite animated. Perhaps the most difficult aspect involved the Scottish brogue. Sounding British first, and then a bit of cockney, the cast finally mastered the Scottish accent. Stage crew spent hours constructing and painting while the pit band devoted their time to perfecting the music with Mr. Wozniak. After much preparation, on March 19, 2003, the curtain opened into the magical hills of Scotland. Practice obviously "did make perfect."

Students March in War Against Cancer

Reinz Field assumed the role of a battlefield on October 1, 2003 as over 4500 warriors marched to support the fight against leukemia, lymphoma and myeloma in the 5th Annual Light the Night Walk. The collaborated efforts of approximately 200 teams earned over $200,000 for the financial aid of local patients and research funding toward developing cures for leukemia, lymphoma, myeloma and Hodgkin's disease. "When I stood in the middle of the sea of lighted balloons and all of the people walking, it hit me how big and meaningful this really was," said senior Erin Bargerstock.

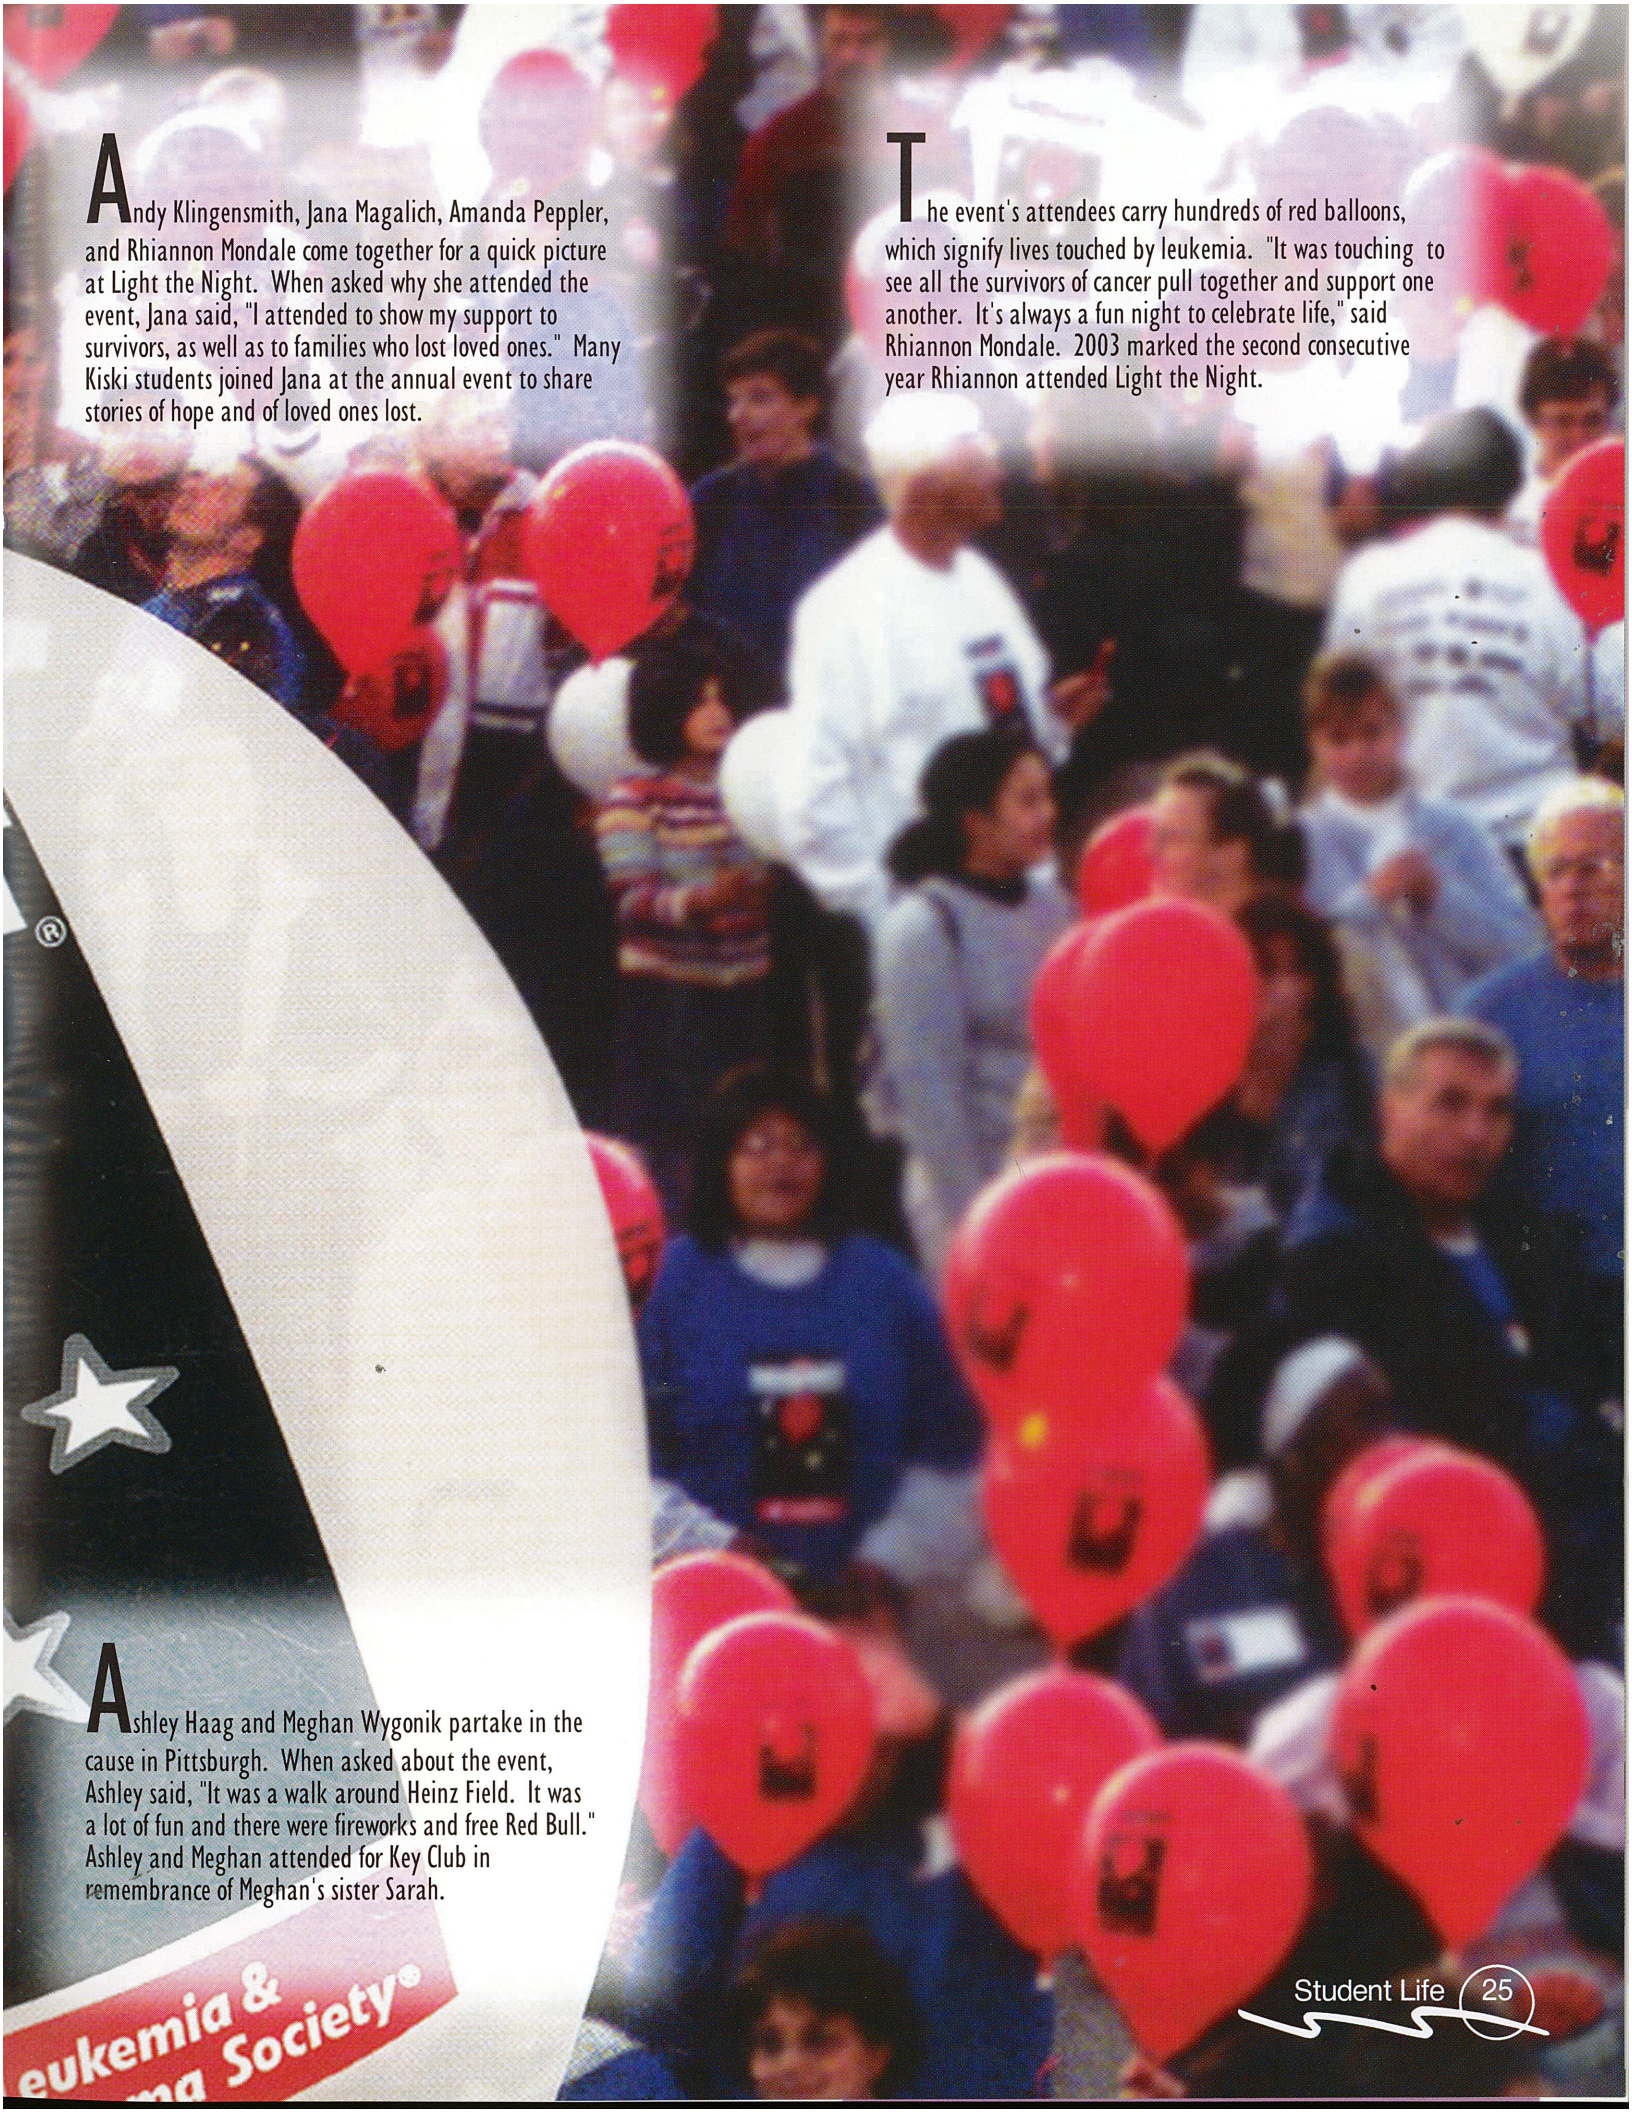

Erin fought alongside a dozen Kiski students in Team Hope in 2003 under senior Captain Amanda Peppler. Sarah Wygonik, whose body surrendered to leukemia on June 25, 2002 despite her mental conquering of the illness, originally started the team a few years ago and thus introduced Kiski to the cause. The tradition continues as the Cavaliers contributed to the onward march toward a victory against this foe.

- Amanda Peppler

Sarah Wygonik founded Kiski's Light the Night team and served as a symbol of hope that kept the luminaries lit through the stormy weather that evening. "The thing I remember most about Sarah is her never-ending determination and uplifting spirit," said Adam Haag. Sarah touched the lives of countless people.

Andy Klingensmith, Jana Magalich, Amanda Peppler, and Rhiannon Mondale come together for a quick picture at Light the Night. When asked why she attended the event, Jana said, "I attended to show my support to survivors, as well as to families who lost loved ones." Many Kiski students joined Jana at the annual event to share stories of hope and of loved ones lost.

The event's attendees carry hundreds of red balloons, which signify lives touched by leukemia. "It was touching to see all the survivors of cancer pull together and support one another. It's always a fun night to celebrate life," said Rhiannon Mondale. 2003 marked the second consecutive year Rhiannon attended Light the Night.

Ashley Haag and Meghan Wygonik partake in the cause in Pittsburgh. When asked about the event, Ashley said, "It was a walk around Heinz Field. It was a lot of fun and there were fireworks and free Red Bull." Ashley and Meghan attended for Key Club in remembrance of Meghan's sister Sarah.

OF THE YEAR..ENJOY!

The high school not only made the top list of changes, but also encountered a new legacy of young men and women. Kiski's seniors spent the last nine months adjusting to the quality of gurus, counselors, and leaders of the pack. "When you were so used to looking up to everyone else, it was hard to get used to being looked up to," said senior Bethany Bollinger. "We couldn't get any higher on the school scale." As seniors, the responsibility for organizing several activities fell into their hands, especially as officers and leaders of clubs. According to senior Jessica Attinger, "It was kind of scary to think that after commencement our lifestyle would change so dramatically and we would have to live up to real standards." Dreaded since ninth grade, the senior research paper added much stress. As graduation approached, the soul-searching began. Students set goals and made life-altering decisions. As this 42nd year came to a close, the 2004 class held many unique memories of their final year.

SUPER SCOUTING TRIO SERVES COMMUNITY

EVERYDAY PEOPLE PARTICIPATE IN ACTIVITIES THAT AIM TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE IN OTHERS' LIVES. THE KEYSTONE TALL TREE GIRL SCOUT COUNCIL EXCELLED IN MANY SUCH SERVICING INTENTS. MIRANDA BIER, CHRISTYNA RUMBAUGH AND JACLYN MULVANY FILLED THREE SPOTS ON THE COUNCIL RANGING FROM TEN TO 15 YEARS IN GIRL SCOUTS. THE LADIES SPENT MANY LONG HOURS YEAR ROUND WORKING FROM THE GOODNESS OF THEIR HEARTS FOR THE COMMUNITY AND OTHER VARIOUS CHARITIES.

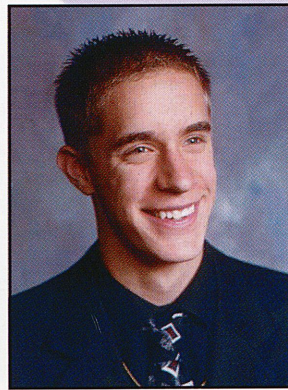

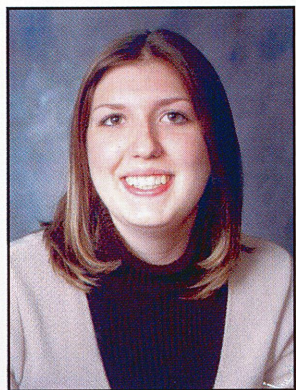

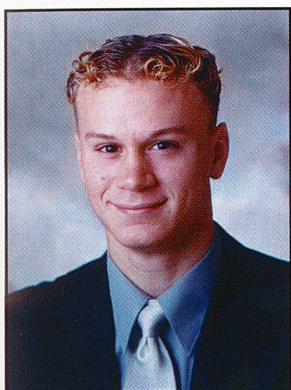

MIRANDA AND CHRISTYNA BOTH

COLLABORATED THEIR EFFORTS INTO EARNING THE GIRL SCOUT SILVER AWARD, WHILE JACLYN DID THE SAME ON A SOLO PROJECT. THE GIRLS ALSO OBTAINED AWARDS SUCH AS THE COMMUNITY AND GIRL SCOUT SERVICE BARS. FROM HARD WORK AND MUCH PERSPIRATION, THEY LEARNED BASIC PRINCIPLES OF SELF-DISCIPLINE, SELF-ESTEEM, TEAMWORK, PROBLEM SOLVING AND FIRST AID, ALL LESSONS VALUABLE TO A SUCCESSFUL LIFE. MIRANDA SAID, "I'VE LEARNED THAT BUILDING FIRES FOR THE YOUNGER CAMPERS WASN'T JUST ABOUT

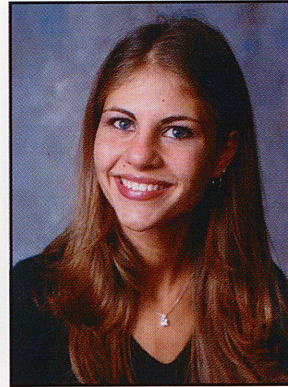

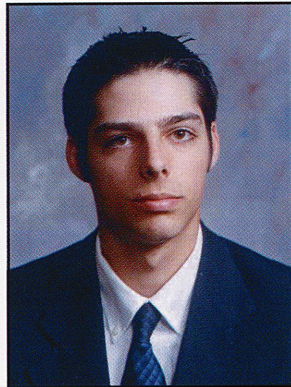

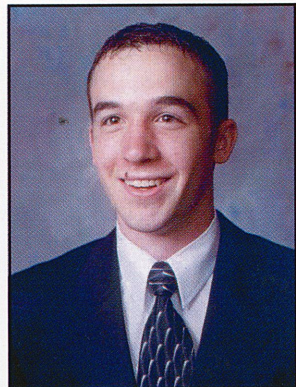

COOKING FOOD AND STAYING WARM. IT WAS ALSO ABOUT THE COMPASSION YOU HAD FOR YOUR SURROUNDINGS AND THE LOVE FOR SUCCESS."

ALL THREE GIRLS REALIZED THE GRATIFYING ASPECT OF GIRL SCOUTS. CHRISTYNA RUMBAUGH SAID, "WE HAD SO MANY GOALS TO ACHIEVE AND CHALLENGES TO FACE. WE LEARNED SO MUCH!" THE GIRL SCOUTS BROUGHT A WHOLE NEW MEANING TO THE WORDS PRESTIGE AND HARD WORK.

THREE GLAMOUR GIRLS GRACE RUNWAYS

VUNWAY LIGHTS EVENTUALLY FADE OUT FROM THEIR FACADE OF SHIMMERING GLAMOUR. HOWEVER CHARISMA AND BEAUTY ALWAYS TOOK PRECEDENCE WHEN SHAWNNA MONTGOMERY, ASHLEY RAY AND ERIN BARGERSTOCK STOLE CENTER STAGE. THROUGH THE CORRIDORS OF THE SCHOOL, ALL THREE GIRLS STRODE AROUND LIKE NOTHING OUT OF THE ORDINARY, BUT WHEN PLACED UNDER SPOTLIGHTS AND CAMERAS, THE THREE TRANSFORMED INTO THE EXTRAORDINARY.

SHAWNNA MONTGOMERY FIRST TOOK INTEREST IN MODELING BECAUSE OF HER SISTER MELISSA. "MELISSA AND I ATTENDED THE MODEL SEARCH AMERICA CONVENTION IN WASHINGTON D.C. ABOUT TWO SUMMERS AGO. ON REQUEST, WE BOTH THEN WENT TO AKRON, OHIO TO AUDITION FOR PRO-MODEL AND TALENT.

THEY LOVED US BOTH AND PROCEEDED TO SIGN US," SAID SHAWNNA. MISS MONTGOMERY HAS ALSO DONE PROMOTIONAL JOBS, INCLUDING ONE AT WAL-MART IN ROBINSON TOWN CENTER FOR CENTRUM PERFORMANCE VITAMINS.

ANOTHER STRIKING FACE AT KISKI, ASHLEY RAY, CAPTURED A SIX-MONTH CONTRACT WITH JOHN ROBERT POWERS WHERE TWICE A MONTH SHE AUDITIONED FOR CASTING DIRECTORS AND AGENTS FROM NEW YORK CITY AND LOS ANGELES. "MODELING IS SOMETHING I HAVE WANTED TO DO SINCE I WAS LITTLE. I WENT TO A RUNWAY EXPO WITH LOTS OF AGENTS IN CHICAGO AND LOVED IT," ASHLEY SAID ABOUT HER MODELING EXPERIENCES.

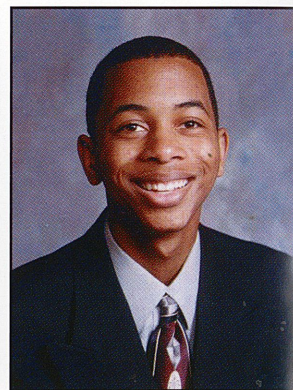

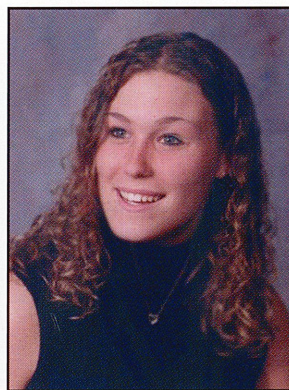

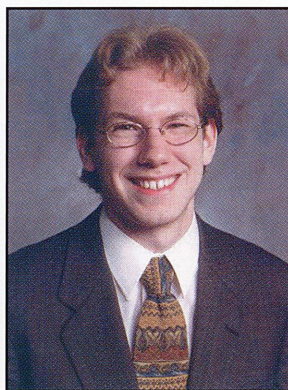

WITH NUMEROUS AGENTS, ERIN BARGERSTOCK

OBTAINED PORTFOLIOS FROM AGENCIES SUCH AS MILLENNIUM AND PRO-MODEL AND TALENT, FROM CALIFORNIA TO ITALY. FOR ERIN, THE MOST AMUSING MAKEOVER OCCURRED DURING A PHOTO SHOOT FOR FRIGIDARE. "I WAS TO BE DRESSED UP AS A WOMAN FROM THE 50'S, SO I HAD STRONG MAKEUP, INCLUDING BRIGHT RED LIPSTICK, IN ADDITION TO GIANT CURLS."

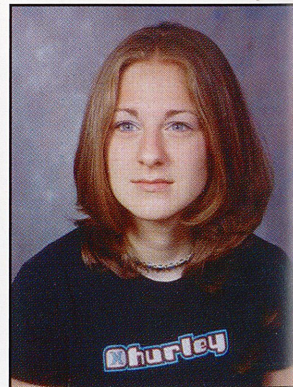

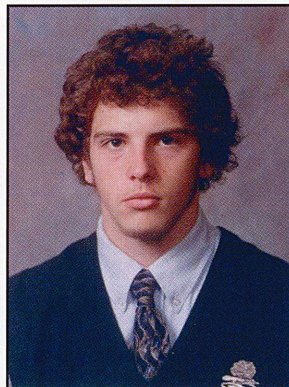

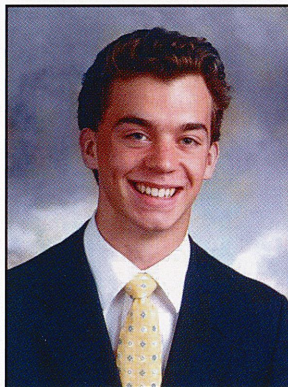

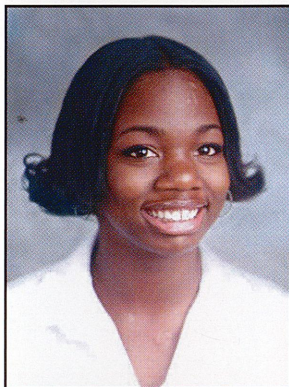

TRAVELING THE NATION TO GAIN EXPOSURE, THE THREE HAVE CERTAINLY BROUGHT THE BEAUTY OF WESTERN PENNSYLVANIA TO DISTANT LIGHTS. PERHAPS SOME DAY, THE 2004 CLASS MEMBERS WILL CLAIM THAT THEY "KNEW HER WHEN."

FRIENDS AMBER GROSS AND STACY LLOYD SHOW THEIR CONCERN FOR THE CAVS AT A FRIDAY NIGHT GAME. "SOCIALIZING WITH AS MANY PEOPLE AS POSSIBLE WAS THE KEY," SAID AMBER ABOUT THE MOST IMPORTANT SPECTATING ASPECT OF THE GAME. AFTER EACH GAME, AMBER AND HER FRIENDS DINED AT THE KING'S RESTAURANT IN LOWER BURRELL.

Do you plan on residing in the Kiski School District after graduation?

"I ACTUALLY WOULD LIKE TO COME BACK TO KISKI AS A GYM TEACHER. IT WOULD BE PRETTY SWEET TO SEE THE SCHOOL THROUGH THE EYES OF A TEACHER INSTEAD OF A STUDENT."

SHANE HELSEL

"I'M READY TO MOVE ON TO BIGGER AND BETTER THINGS. KISKI HAS SERVED ITS PURPOSE IN MY LIFE. BUT, NOW, I WANT TO SEE THE WORLD AND EXPERIENCE THINGS THAT THIS AREA CANNOT OFFER ME."

McKENNA SNYDER

"YES, AFTER COLLEGE, I WOULD LIKE TO STAY IN THE KISKI AREA SCHOOL DISTRICT. MY FRIENDS AND FAMILY ALL LIVE IN KISKI AND I HOPE I CAN LIVE HERE AFTER COLLEGE GRADUATION."

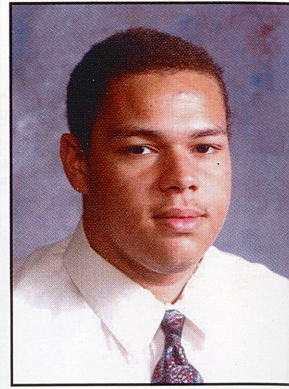

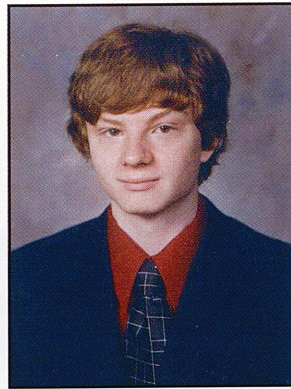

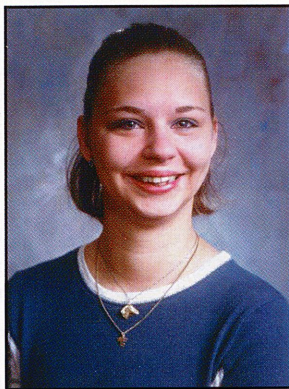

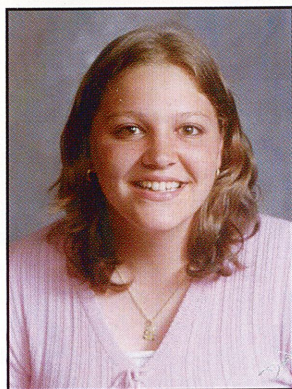

PAUL HENRY

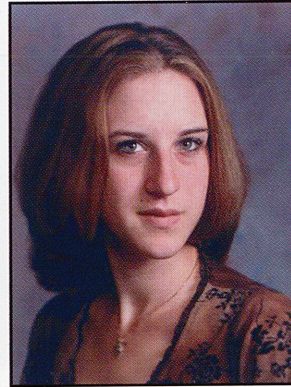

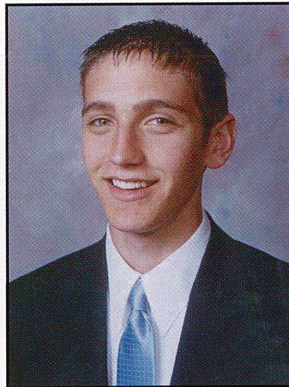

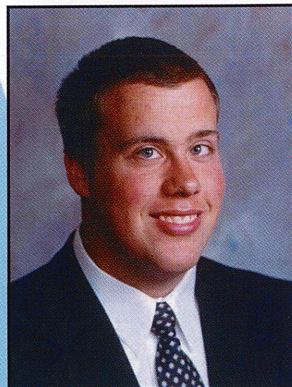

On the Fence...

JACK GRANT CATCHES A FEW PLAYS OF THE GAME WHILE WAITING FOR FRIENDS TO ARRIVE. "THROUGH MY FOUR YEARS AT KISKI, I HAVE ONLY MISSED A FEW OF THE CAV'S GAMES. I WILL REMEMBER THOSE FRIDAY NIGHTS FOREVER," SAID JACK. IN THE BATTLE FOR NICEST SENIOR CAR, JACK FINISHED A CLOSE SECOND BY A FEW VOTES.

Batter's Up JARED SHAFFER SLIDES INTO GRAND SLAM SUCCESS

JARED SHAFFER STARTED HIS SENIOR YEAR WITH A LINEUP OF GRASS, ALUMINUM, LEATHER, STRING AND RAW TALENT AS PRACTICE BEGAN FOR THE LAST OF SIX BASEBALL TEAMS HE PLAYED FOR IN 2003. DEMONSTRATING A SUMMER BATTING AVERAGE OF .453 WITH FOUR HOMERUNS, A 60-YARD DASH TIME OF 6.8 SECONDS AND AN 88 MILE PER HOUR INFIELD THROW, IT CAME AS NO SURPRISE THAT HE QUALIFIED FOR SUCH ELITE TEAMS AS THE ALL WEST ALL STAR TEAM AND COMPETED AT WAKE

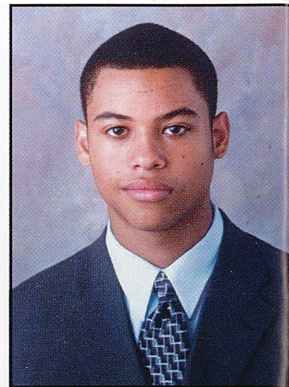

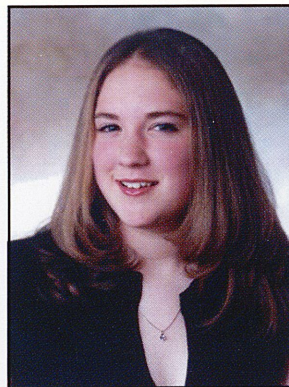

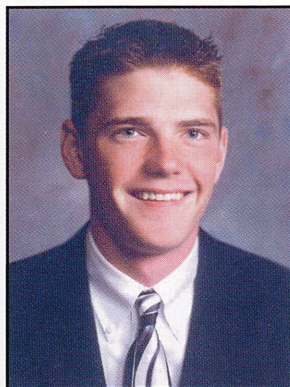

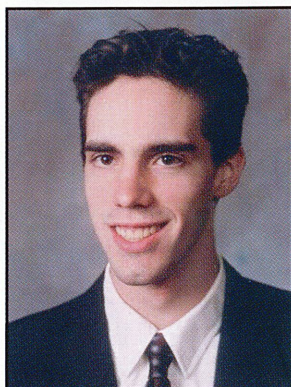

FOREST UNIVERSITY FOR THE TEAM OF PENNSYLVANIA SHOWCASE, THE BLUE GREY CLASSIC. JARED'S OVERWHELMING CAPABILITIES AS SHORTSTOP, SECOND BASEMAN AND PITCHER PREDICTABLY CAPTURED THE ATTENTION OF COLLEGES LIKE GEORGE MASON UNIVERSITY, COASTAL CAROLINA UNIVERSITY AND DUQUESNE UNIVERSITY.

REGARDLESS OF HIS UNDENIABLY FRANTIC SCHEDULE, JARED FOUND AMPLE TIME FOR SCHOOLWORK AND FAMILY

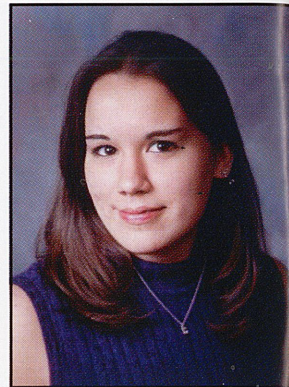

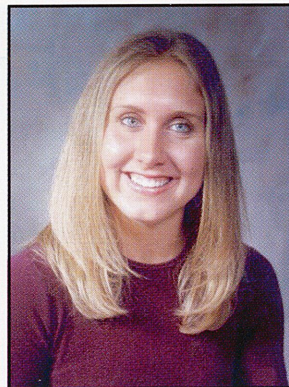

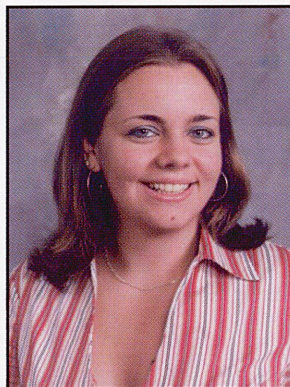

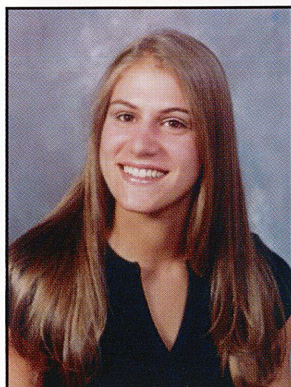

ACTIVITIES. "EVEN THOUGH BASEBALL IS A MAJOR PART OF MY LIFE, IT'S JUST ONE OF MY TOP PRIORITIES, NOT THE TOP PRIORITY," JARED SAID. BASEBALL MAY COMPOSE A HARD-HITTING FACTOR IN JARED'S AGENDA BUT IT MERELY REPRESENTED ONE MORE PLAYER IN HIS ROSTER OF LIFE. JARED CARRIED KISKI PRIDE TO THE WORLD OF BASEBALL, AND PERHAPS THE WORLD SERIES MAY SOMEDAY BOAST THAT IT PLAYED HOST TO THIS KISKI ALUMNI.

GREG PETRILLA AND McKENNA SNYDER DISCUSS THE DAY'S EVENTS AT THE HOMECOMING PEP ASSEMBLY. WHEN ASKED ABOUT WHAT ACTIVITIES HE ENJOYS OUT OF SCHOOL, GREG SAID, "I ENJOYED GOING ON VACATION AND SPENDING TIME WITH FRIENDS AND FAMILY." GREG RESIDED IN WASHINGTON TOWNSHIP WITH HIS FAMILY.

We've Got the Beat . . .

SENIOR AMANDA WADDELL STUDIES BEFORE HER NEXT SHOW CHOIR PERFORMANCE. "CHORUS HAS ENABLED ME TO PARTICIPATE DAILY IN ONE OF MY FAVORITE ACTIVITIES: SINGING," SHE SAID. WHILE AT KISK, AMANDA NOT ONLY PARTICIPATED IN THE MUSIC DEPARTMENT BUT SHE ALSO SPENT TIME MANAGING THE CROSS COUNTRY TEAM.

What homework do you always do last and why?

"I ALWAYS LEAVE PHYSICS FOR LAST BECAUSE IT IS THE HARDEST AND MOST BORING HOMEWORK. IT TAKES TOO MUCH EFFORT AND BY THE TIME I'M DONE, I DON'T WANT TO DO ANYTHING ELSE."

MEREDITH HOMZE

"I ALWAYS LEAVE AP PHYSICS FOR LAST BECAUSE I CAN COUNT ON ASHLEY HAAG'S ANSWERS IN HOMEROOM."

LYRICAL VOICE GAINS PRESTIGIOUS HONORS

EVERYTHING IS MUSIC AND MUSIC IS EVERYTHING. THIS SENTIMENT EFFECTIVELY REPRESENTED THE THOUGHTS AND EMOTIONS OF DRIVEN SENIOR STEPHANIE RIDDLE THROUGHOUT HIGH SCHOOL. STEPHANIE PARTICIPATED IN THE MUSICALS OKLAHOMA, BARNUM, BRIGADOON, AND HELLO DOLLY. BECOMING A MEMBER OF CHORALE, KALEIDOSCOPE SHOW CHOIR, AND JAZZ ROCK ENSEMBLE IN 10TH GRADE. STEPHANIE EARNED A GOOD DEAL OF VOICE

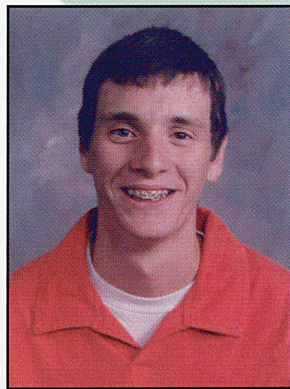

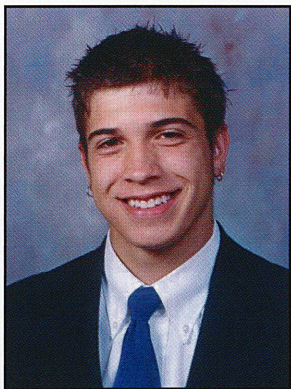

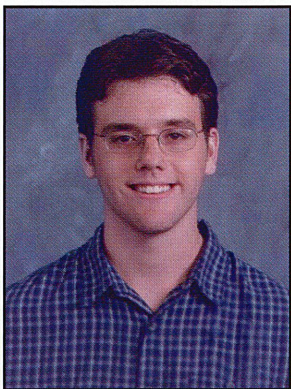

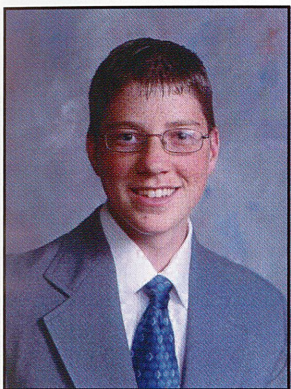

RECOGNITION. THE TALENTED MISS RIDDLE OBTAINED ACCEPTANCE TO HONORS CHOIR, DISTRICT CHOIR, REGIONAL CHOIR, AND WORLD MUSIC CHOIR AS A JUNIOR. AS A SENIOR, STEPHANIE CONTINUED HER EXCELLENCE AS SHE LANDED THE LEAD IN THE SPRING MUSICAL.

STEPHANIE'S MUSIC CAREER BEGAN SINGING IN CHURCH AT A VERY YOUNG AGE. IN 5TH GRADE, SHE BEGAN STUDYING VOICE WITH IZZY CROCKER. HIS PROFOUND

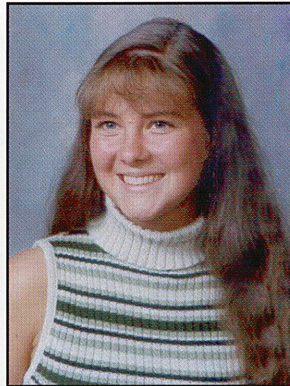

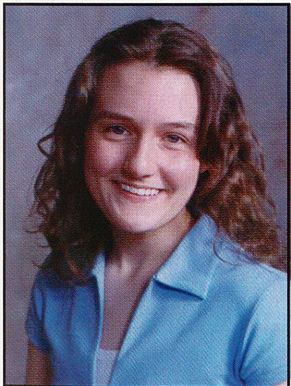

IMPACT ON HER LIFE LEFT STEPHANIE WITH GREAT INTEREST IN RECORDING.

MISS RIDDLE TOOK MUSIC THEORY CLASSES AT DUQUESNE UNIVERSITY CITY MUSIC CENTER DURING HER JUNIOR YEAR AND ATTENDED A RECORDING WORKSHOP THERE IN THE SUMMER OF 2003. SHE PLANNED TO STUDY MUSIC TECHNOLOGY AND SOUND RECORDING DURING COLLEGE IN PURSUIT OF A CAREER IN RECORD OR MUSIC VIDEO PRODUCTION.

DYNAMIC SENIOR PURSUES MARTIAL ARTS

NINE YEARS AGO, CHAD BEIGHLEY BEGAN HIS INVOLVEMENT IN MARTIAL ARTS. EVERY MARTIAL ARTS STUDENT HOPES TO ATTAIN BLACK BELT STATUS, AND FOR CHAD, ACHIEVEMENT OF THIS GOAL LIE WITHIN A FINGERTIP'S REACH. HE OFFICIALLY HELD THE TITLE OF A THIRD DEGREE BROWN BELT, THOUGH AFTER MUCH PREPARATION AND SELF-DETERMINATION HE TESTED FOR EXTREMES.

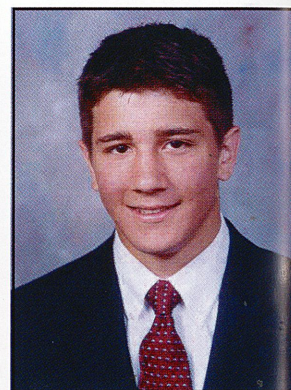

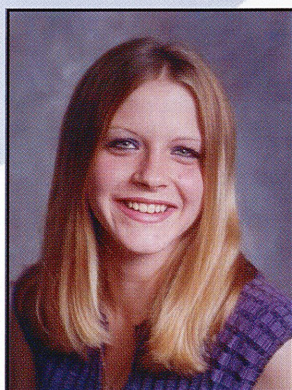

MANY TYPES OF MARTIAL ARTS EXIST

THROUGHOUT THE WORLD, BUT CHAD PRACTICED A DISCIPLINE MOST ACCURATELY DEFINED AS JEET KUN DO. DEVELOPED BY THE PROFESSIONAL MARTIAL ARTIST BRUCE LEE, JEET KUN DO TEACHES ITS STUDENTS TO UTILIZE MANY DIFFERENT TECHNIQUES FROM VARIOUS STYLES. ULTIMATELY, THE SKILL INCORPORATES A LITTLE BIT OF EVERYTHING, THUS DEFINING ONE'S OWN PERSONAL NICHE IN FIGHTING.

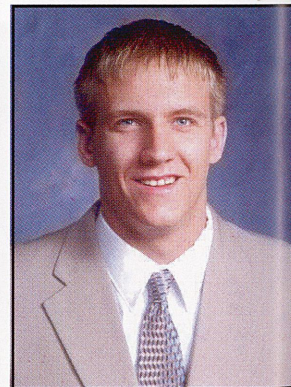

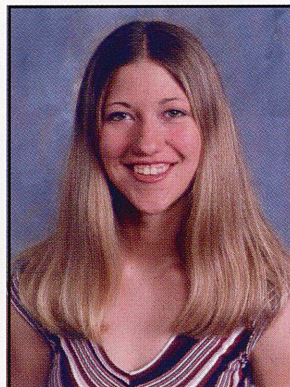

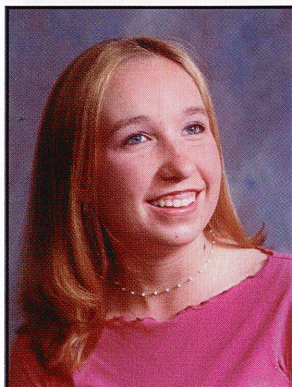

WHEN ASKED WHAT FIRST PIQUED HIS INTEREST IN THE SPORT, CHAD SAID, "THE TEENAGE MUTANT NINJA TURTLES." WITH THIS UNIQUE BEGINNING, HE DEMONSTRATED A LOVE FOR THE SPORT FROM A VERY EARLY AGE. CHAD PLANNED TO PURSUE JEET KUN DO WHILE IN COLLEGE, ALTHOUGH BY STUDYING ON HIS OWN RATHER THAN ATTENDING REGULAR CLASSES.

The
sheer numbers of Kiski
students seemed mind-boggling.
With a total of nearly 1500 students, approximately 1150 included juniors, sophomores, and freshmen. Each class carried something unique, yet all remained distinctly connected. Junior Pat Arabia enjoyed the bond he and his peers exhibited, "We hung out at the football games and other afterschool activities. It was a blast. We've never been more unvexed." Perhaps the camaraderie resulted from shared experiences over the years. Despite the continually changing faces of underclassmen at Kiski, the circumstances stayed the same. For once, "caught in the middle" seemed alright. Students received respect from adults, but still sometimes revealed the kids inside.
Responsibilities added to daily lifestyles, but not often overwhelmed them. The end of high school prowled ever closer, however, students made decisions that affected the rest of their lives. Parents, teachers and peers all held high expectations. Still, each young hopeful carried his or her own standards for what both Kiski and the world could offer. One could only imagine what each would offer
the world.

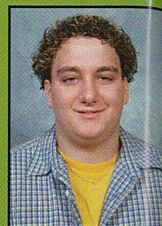

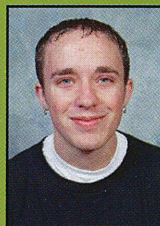

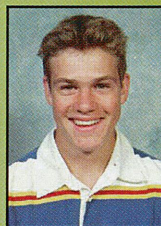

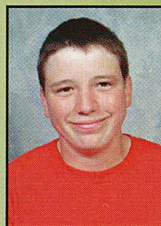

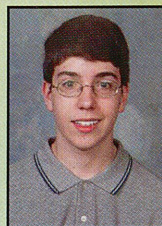

To await the future;
to look forward to;
to anticipate certain greatness.

Ambitious Apprentices Storm Capital

IN OCTOBER, THREE JUNIORS JOURNEYED TO WASHINGTON DC FOR THE NATIONAL YOUTH LEADERSHIP FORUM. THE FORUM SPONSORED SEVERAL DIFFERENT CONVENTIONS PROVIDING STUDENTS WITH HANDS-ON EXPERIENCE IN POTENTIAL CAREERS. RYAN BURNS DELVED INTO POLITICS AND DEMOCRACY WHILE KATIE TERRANA AND ASHLEY WOOLHEATER EXAMINED ASPECTS OF THE LEGAL PROFESSION. NYLF BROUGHT TOGETHER HIGH SCHOOL JUNIORS AND SENIORS FROM ALL OVER THE COUNTRY. STUDENTS LISTENED TO LECTURES BY EXPERTS IN THE FIELD, ORGANIZED DISCUSSIONS, AND PARTICIPATED IN

WORKSHOPS TO EXAMINE EACH FACET OF THESE PROFESSIONS.

DURING THEIR WEEK AT NYLF, STUDENTS RELAXED AT SOCIAL DANCES AND EXPLORED THE CAPITOL WHILE IN THE CITY, THE STUDENTS WITNESSED DEMOCRACY IN ACTION - AN ANTI-WAR PROTEST IN THE STREETS OF WASHINGTON DC. "THE PROTEST MADE EVERYTHING WE'D BEEN LEARNING SO MUCH MORE REAL" SAID MISS TERRANA. THESE MOTIVATED STUDENTS CERTAINLY POSITIVELY REPRESENTED THEIR GENERATION AND KISKI AREA IN THE NATION'S CAPITAL

BIG SHOT

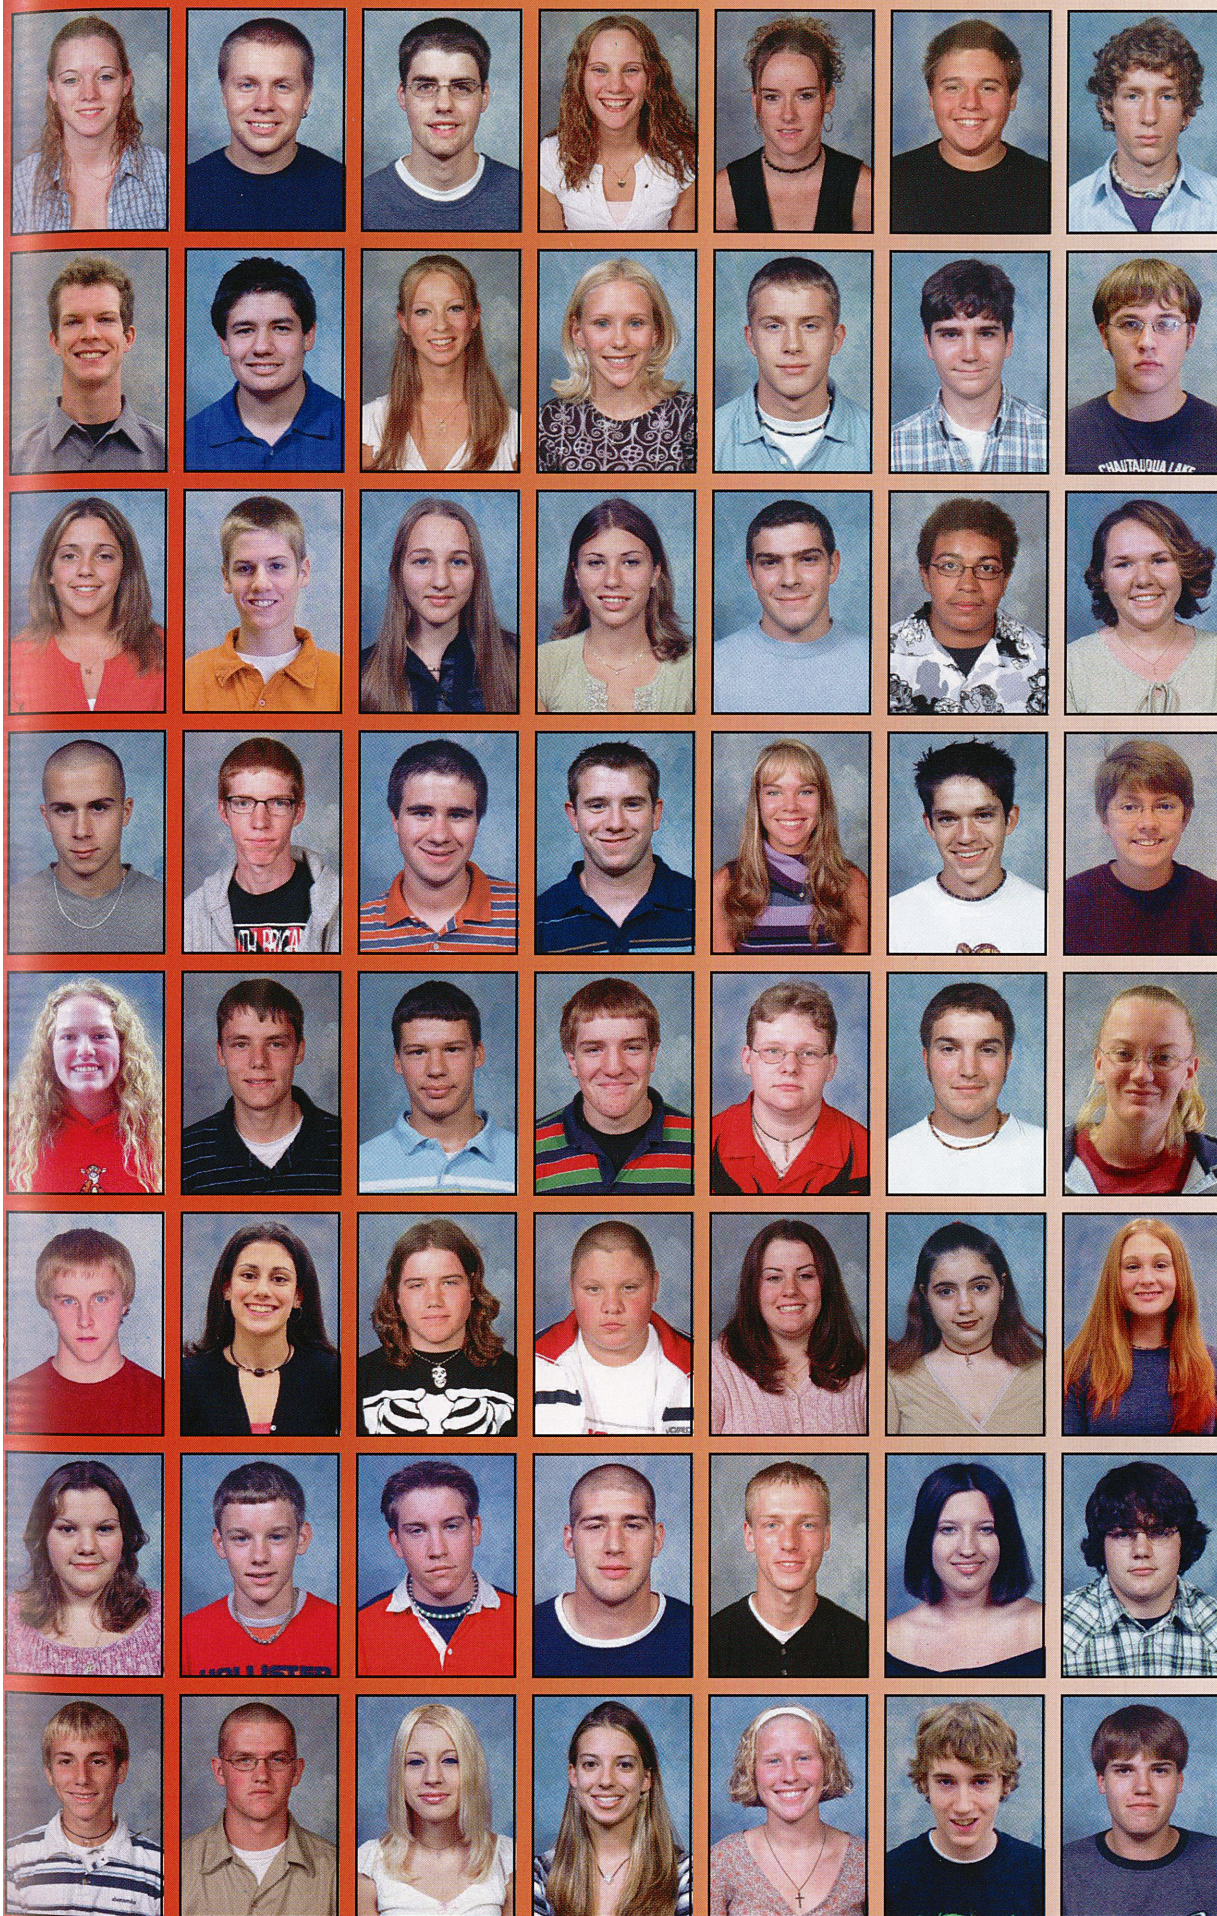

Armed But Not So Dangerous

JUNIOR BECKA MOHAN, KNOWN FOR HER EXTRAORDINARY HOBBIES, BEGAN CLAY SHOOTING IN SIXTH GRADE. THE SPORT INVOLVED THE SHOOTING OF SMALL ORANGE DISKS, ALSO CALLED CLAY PIGEONS, MECHANICALLY THROWN AT DIFFERENT ANGLES TO REPRESENT THE FLIGHTS OF VARIOUS GAME FOWL. AFTER LEARNING THE SPORT FROM HER FATHER, BECKA QUICKLY BECAME AN ACCOMPLISHED SHOOTER. SHE HONED HER SKILL TWO TO FIVE TIMES A MONTH AT THE IZAAK WALTON CLUB IN POLK COUNTY AND THE BUSTED FLUSH IN TITUSVILLE. THROUGHOUT HIGH SCHOOL, BECKA COMPETED IN FIRING

TOURNAMENTS RECEIVING THE HONORS OF PENNSYLVANIA STATE JR. RUNNER-UP, INDIANA STATE RUNNER-UP AND LADIES' RUNNER-UP. PLACING 16TH IN HER DIVISION AT THE U.S. OPEN DEMONSTRATED HER HIGH LEVEL OF SKILL AND DEDICATION TO THE SPORT.

BECKA, WHO ALSO PARTICIPATED IN HORSEBACK RIDING, TABLE TENNIS AND HUNTING, SAID THAT SHE ENJOYED CLAY SHOOTING BECAUSE HER "FOCUS AND CONCENTRATION WERE CHALLENGED ON EACH OF THE 100 TARGETS." CERTAINLY, IN BOTH SPORTING AND SCHOOL ACTIVITIES, BECKA HIT THE BULLSEYE EVERY TIME.

Bruno Takes Talent to Stage

REACHING THE CREST OF 30 THEATRE PRODUCTIONS, SOPHOMORE ALYSSA BRUNO ALLURINGLY SERENADED COUNTLESS FACES THROUGHOUT HER LIFE, LEAVING MORE THAN A FEW AWE-STROCK. WITH APPROXIMATELY SIX YEARS OF DANCE INSTRUCTION AT SANDRA LYNN'S DANCE STUDIO AND PRIVATE VOICE LESSONS WITH BRIDGET STEELE IN MONROEVILLE, ALYSSA MANAGED TO TAKE HER TALENTS TO GREAT HEIGHTS. "I ALWAYS RAN TO SOME SORT OF PRACTICE," SHE SAID, "BUT I'D TAKE SINGING OVER DANCING ANY DAY."

COLLABORATING BOTH FORTES, ALYSSA DEFINED THE CHARMING, INNOCENT LEAD IN THE PRODUCTION OF ANNIE QUITE WELL. THE SHOW

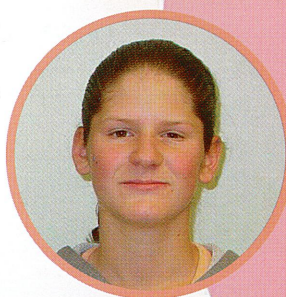

TOOK PLACE AT THE PALACE THEATRE IN GREENSBURG IN 1998. ALONG WITH THE PALACE THEATRE, ALYSSA ALSO PERFORMED AT FIVE OTHER LOCAL THEATRES, INCLUDING THE CASINO THEATRE IN VANDERGRIFT. "I PLAYED MARY LENNOX IN MY FAVORITE MUSICAL THE SECRET GARDEN. I LOVED IT. IF YOU LIKE THE BOOK THE SHOW IS TEN TIMES BETTER," SHE SAID. ALYSSA ALSO PARTICIPATED IN CHORALE, JAZZ ROCK AND KALEIDOSCOPE SHOW CHOR, ALL EARNING TIME IN THE SPOTLIGHT. "I DIDN'T CARE IF I WAS A FLY ON THE WALL. JUST BEING THERE ON STAGE, BREATHING THE AIR AND BEING WITH ALL THE PEOPLE IT WAS WONDERFUL."

DANCING QUEEN

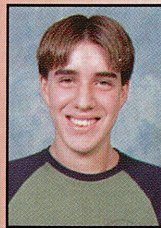

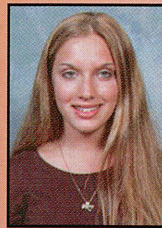

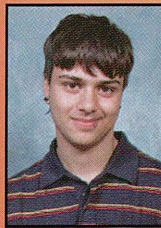

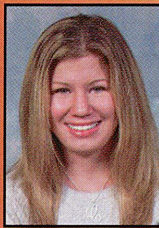

Sophomore Takes Sin City by Storm

WITH A GLANCE AT HER GOOD LUCK CHARM, THE CROWD ROARED IN ANTICIPATION. BRITTANY MARKLE ENTERED THE FLOOR TO PERFORM FOR THE SUBSEQUENT TWO MINUTES AND 30 SECONDS, GIVING OUT ALL HER HEART HELD. AT AGE 15 SHE HELD THE TITLE OF TEEN MISS DANCE OF AMERICA 2004.

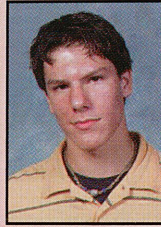

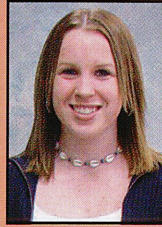

AFTER TRAVELING TO LAS VEGAS, NEVADA IN JULY 2003 AND HOLDING A THREE-MINUTE INTERVIEW WITH THE FIVE ASSIGNED JUDGES, BRITTANY PERFORMED IN THE TALENT PORTION OF THE SHOW. THE PERFORMANCE CONSISTED OF A JAZZ/MUSICAL THEATER ROUTINE AND AN AUDITION IN JAZZ, TAP, BALLET AND GYMNASTICS. BRITTANY WALKED AWAY WITH THE HONOR OF BEATING OUT 31 GIRLS FROM ALL

OVER THE COUNTRY. IN ORDER FOR BRITTANY TO KEEP HER TITLE AS WELL AS HER CROWN, BANNER, TROPHY AND $750 SCHOLARSHIP, SHE ATTENDED NUMEROUS MANDATORY CONVENTIONS FOR "DANCE MASTERS OF AMERICAN REGIONAL." SHE ALSO HAD TO SIGN A CONTRACT STATING THAT SHE WOULD KEEP NO OTHER TITLES DURING HER REIGN. AFTER DANCING FOR ALMOST 12 YEARS, BRITTANY PRACTICED FROM FOUR TO FIVE HOURS A DAY, FIVE DAYS A WEEK AND STILL MANAGED TIME FOR SCHOOL, FRIENDS AND FAMILY. "IF YOU WANT TO START DANCING AND YOU ARE SERIOUS ABOUT IT, GET READY. IT'S A TOUGH RIDE!" SAID THE TEEN MISS DANCE OF AMERICA 2004.

NIGHT LIFE

Freshmen Find Friday Freedoms

THE FRESHMEN GRUDGINGLY LEFT THE COMFORTS OF JUNIOR HIGH FOR A MORE STRESSFUL AND CHAOTIC HIGH SCHOOL ENVIRONMENT AS THE LITTLE FISH IN AN ENORMOUS POND OF PSSA TESTING, HOMEWORK AND RECONSTRUCTION. THE WEEKENDS HELD THEIR SOLE OPPORTUNITY FOR SOME WHOLESOME FUN. THE ONLY CATCH INVOLVED THE ALMOST UNBEARABLE RESTRICTIONS OF BEING TOO YOUNG FOR ADULT FREEDOMS. THEY COULD NOT DRIVE OR WATCH R-RATED MOVIES, PRIVILEGES THAT REMAIN COMMONPLACE FOR THE UPPERCLASSMEN. "IT WAS JUST A PART OF GROWING UP. YOU GOT USED TO IT," SAID JUNIOR ANGE PALERMO.

FOR MOST FRESHMEN, THEIR PARENTS AND SIBLINGS SEEMED SURPRISINGLY WILLING TO

SUPPORT THEIR SOCIAL LIVES. "MY PARENTS LET ME GO TO THE WATERFRONT WITH MY FRIENDS. THEY DROVE US THERE AND ONE OF THEM STAYED NEARBY IF WE NEEDED ANYTHING, BUT THEY WEREN'T WITH US," SAID FRESHMAN LOGAN ORANGE. SOME NINTH GRADERS FOUND CONTENTMENT IN A MORE LOCALIZED SCENE, ATTENDING FOOTBALL GAMES, HANGING OUT AT FRIENDS' HOUSES AND EVEN GOING ON THE OCCASIONAL DATE. "MY PARENTS LET ME GO ON DATES DEPENDING ON WHOM I DATED," SAID FRESHMAN ALY SZUCH. PARENTS WILLING, THE FRESHMEN FOUND ALTERNATIVE WAYS TO VENT THE STRESSES OF SCHOOL AND ENJOY THE FIRST OF THEIR HIGH SCHOOL YEARS.

OFF-ROAD FAME

Hilty Leads Motorcycling Pack

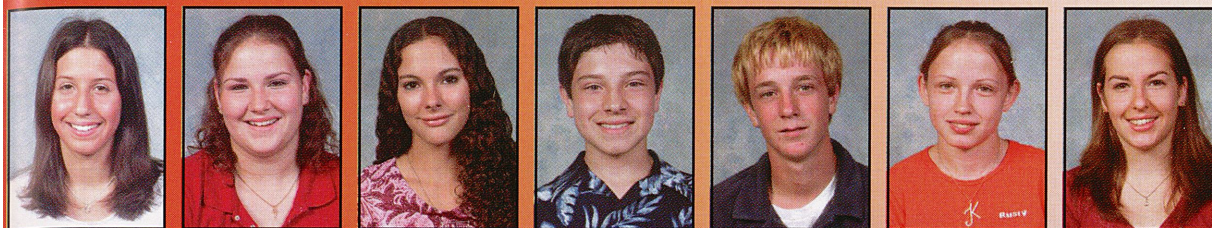

WHILE MOST HIGH SCHOOL FRESHMEN WORRIED ABOUT SCHOOL DANCES AND THE LATEST GOSSIP, ERIC HILTY CONTEMPLATED MOTORCYCLE MAINTENANCE AND UPCOMING RACES.

ERIC BEGAN RIDING MOTORCYCLES FOR FUN IN FOURTH GRADE, UPON THE SUGGESTION OF HIS FATHER, WHO ALSO RODE. SEVERAL YEARS LATER, HOWEVER, ERIC DECIDED TO TAKE HIS HOBBY TO THE NEXT LEVEL: COMPETITIVE RACING. HE ACCEPTED OFF-ROAD TRACKS AND CONSTANT DOWN AND DIRTY PRACTICE AS A WAY OF LIFE, DEDICATING EVERY SATURDAY AND MOST WEEKNIGHTS TO PERFECTING HIS RACING TECHNIQUES.

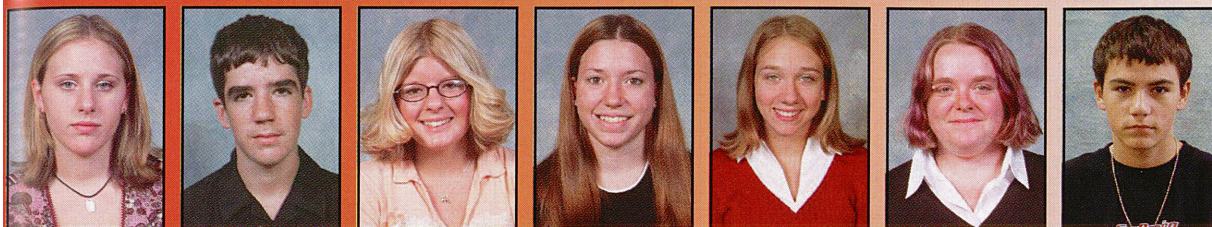

MOST OF ERIC'S COMPETITIVE RACES TOOK PLACE AT SWITCHBACK RACEWAY, ALTHOUGH HILTY SOMETIMES TRAVELED TO CONTESTS AS

FAR AS MARYLAND TO COMPETE. ERIC ZOOMED OFF ON A 2002 KX 100, WHICH HELPED HIM EARN OVER 20 FIRST- AND SECOND-PLACE AWARDS. HE ALSO RODE A 2003 RM 125 IN MANY OF HIS RACES. ALTHOUGH THE VEHICLES, MAINTENANCE AND CONTEST REGISTRATION ADDED UP IN PRICE, ERIC SAID, "IT WAS WORTH ALL OF THE EXPENSES BECAUSE IT WAS SO MUCH FUN." THE BIGGEST EXPENDITURE OF RACING, THE MOTORCYCLES THEMSELVES, HAVE COST ERIC UPWARDS OF APPROXIMATELY $4000, A GREAT PRICE TO PAY WHEN PRACTICE TOOK JUST AS MUCH TIME AS ANY JOB. AS FOR ERIC'S FUTURE IN RACING, HE HOPED TO MAKE A CAREER OUT OF THE SPORT. HE SAID, "IT WOULD BE AWESOME TO DO WHAT I LOVE AND GET PAID FOR IT."

For
over nine months each year, students faithfully endured Monday through Friday at beloved Kiski High. Although many enriched the experience by joining clubs and sports, the real reason for attendance involved, of course, education. For the past 42 years, Kiski students have achieved greatness. The administrators, secretaries, guidance counselors and teachers worked together each day so their students would feel prepared to move on to bigger and better things after high school. The school district also employed a large staff of custodians and sweepers to ensure the students a clean and safe environment throughout the year. Junior Tera Beatty gave Kiski much credit. "The education at Kiski helped to better prepare all the students for college," said Tera. The cooperation between students and faculty ensured a continuing and long standing tradition of academic excellence.

To show superiority; to have gone beyond;
to have surpassed good qualities.

District Receives Academic Overhaul...

From the Heart

Since the birth of Kiski Area School District, the administration served as the nucleus of the academic body. In the 2003-2004 school year, Dr. John Meighan earned a seat at the heart of Kiski's administration as Superintendent of Schools. "I really wanted to get my finger on the pulse of the whole district," said Dr. Meighan. With a job description which embodied the provision of a quality education for every student at Kiski, stewardship of community resources and consideration of taxpayer affordability, he has certainly gained a prominent position over the district's pulsation.

Dr. Meighan's top priority concerned promoting the idea of excellence in every program. He worked to reach various curriculum goals, perform technological upgrades and also improve public communication in methods varying from attending elementary school PTA meetings to reconstructing the administrative program. With his understanding and fresh ideas, Dr. Meighan visibly demonstrated the same degree of quality that Kiski's students and teachers have always maintained.

Office Talk...

Principal Scott Koter gathers pertinent information from secretary Jacqueline Davis about events of the school day. When asked about the role of secretaries in the office, Mr. Koter said, "Behind any great school you will find outstanding secretaries. They usually know more about the operation of a school than anyone else. Our secretaries were invaluable to my own effectiveness as an administrator." In addition to his roles as high school assistant principal, the most prominent instrumental experts considered Mr. Koter as one of the finest marching marching band show programmers in the world.

Very Observant...

Principal Anthony Nicholas monitors the teaching progress of one of his language instructors. When asked about the most rewarding aspect of his job, Mr. Nick said, "I always enjoyed putting a smile on a student's face when I helped them in some way." Prior to administering the high school as principal, Mr. Nicholas taught in the social studies department for many years.

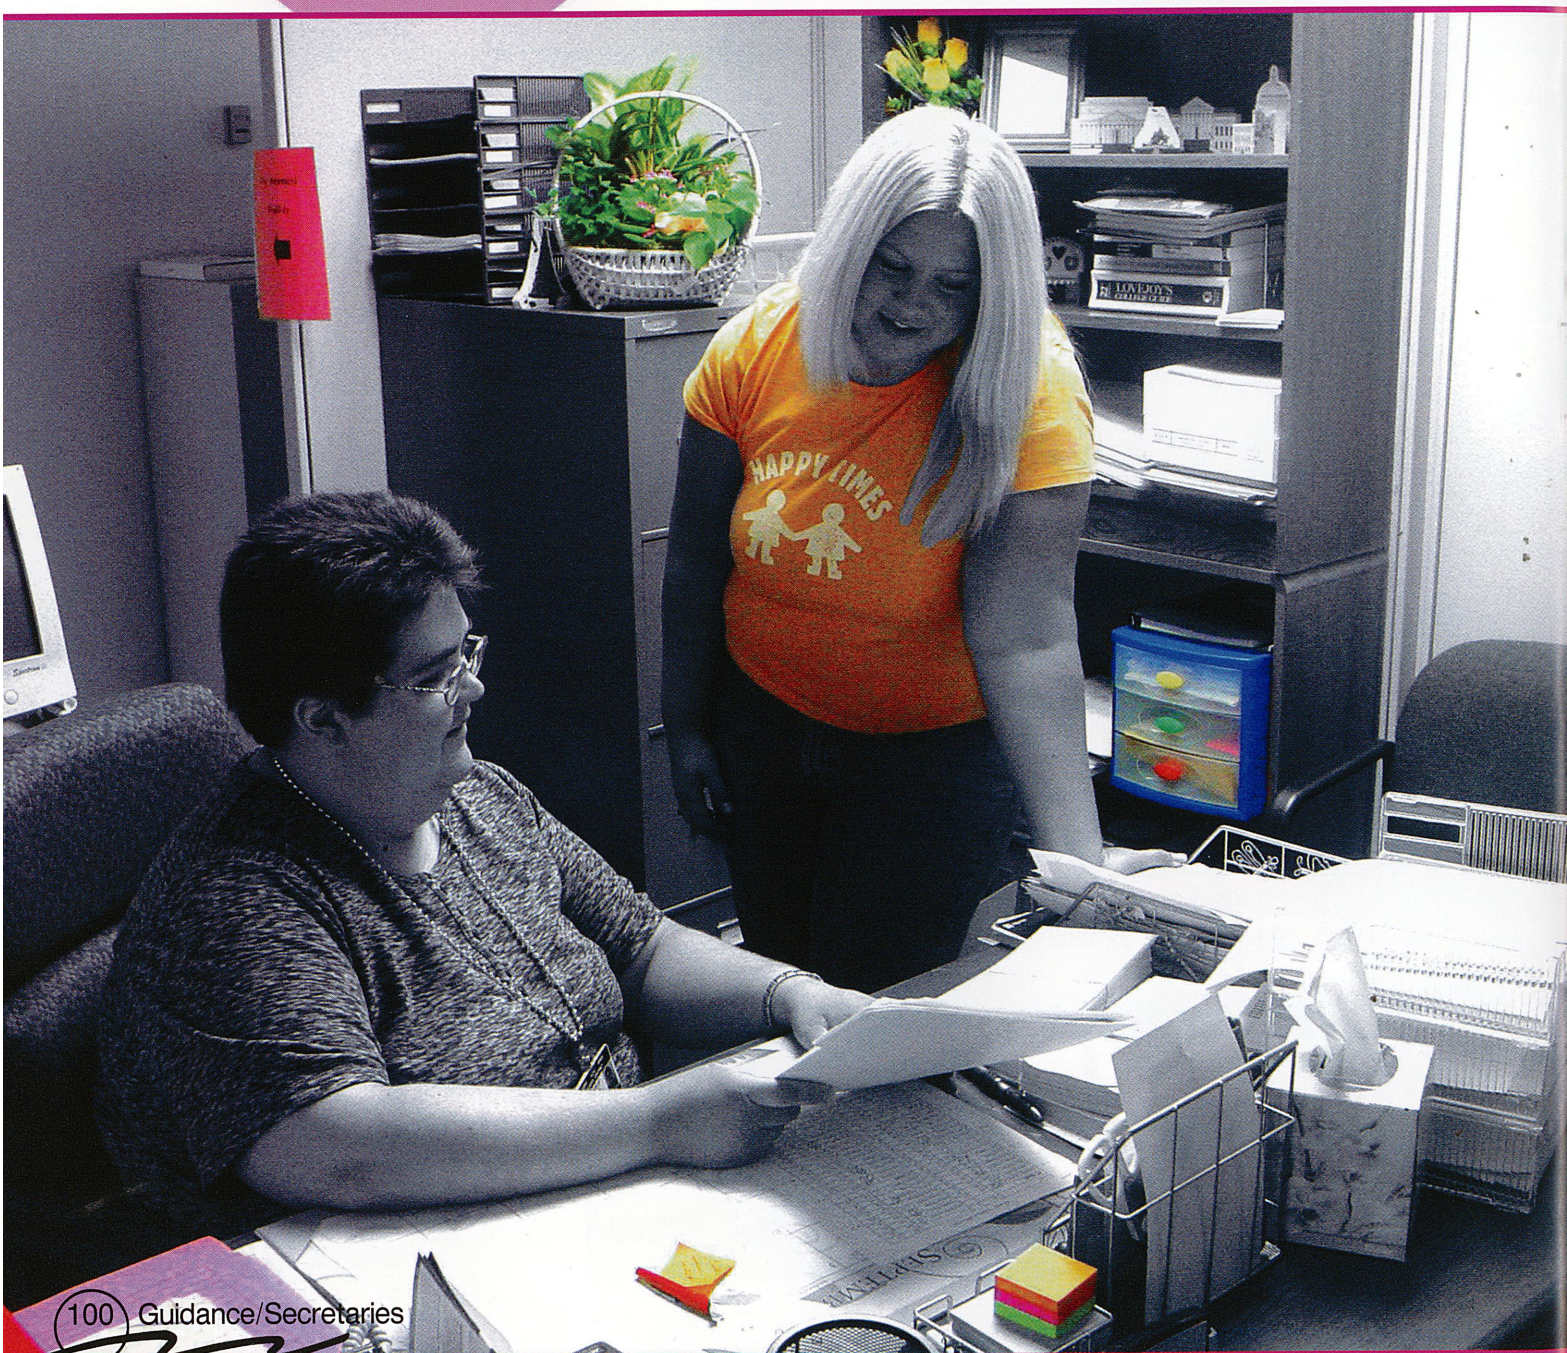

Perfect Records...

Mrs. Nix-Fantuzzo completes necessary paperwork before the big game. "Game cancellations were most challenging because of the amount of people I had to contact," said Mrs. Nix-Fantuzzo on the most difficult aspect of her job. The secretary has served the athletic department at the high school for 14 years.

Guiding Light...

Miss Reynolds offers her expertise to Amy Wylie about a scheduling conflict. When asked about what she missed most about teaching in the classroom, Miss Reynolds said, "I missed the daily interaction with the students." The district welcomed Miss Reynolds to the guidance department when Mrs. Balla opted to serve at the intermediate school at the beginning of the school year.

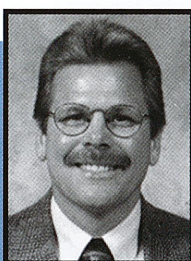

Once unmistakably blue and now noticeably missing, the office building that graced the courtyard for decades existed no more. In early spring of 2003, the administrators, secretaries and guidance counselors packed their belongings before the office fell victim to the first phase of renovations. Custodians spent only one weekend transporting everything to its current home by the library.

As with any change, adjusting to life in the temporary office proved quite a challenge. Miss Reynolds, a first-time guidance counselor, said, "The close quarters demanded a lot of cooperation." The limited space inconveniently forced the mailboxes and copy machine downstairs. With late arrivals and students rushing to see counselors or to receive other information in the office, "The mornings were very congested," said secretary Jacque Davis. Plans called for the new office to reside in approximately the same place as the original office.

Certainly, everyone seemed anxious for the end of the construction, especially Mrs. Carole Patterson, the attendance secretary. When asked how the second shuffle affected her, she said, "I'll have my own office again! I can't wait!"

Serving It Up...

Blair Saul sets up for the serve during a varsity home match. Blair's favorite part of the season included attending tournaments. "Our team had so much fun together and the food was great." The volleyball team played well, despite a losing season.

Members of the girls volleyball team exhaled more than just soulful breaths on the court. Spirit and pride captured each of the girls' inhalations, releasing a season full of life. Captains Allison McCartney and Courtney Seybert constantly motivated the team, providing for a strong foundation. A constant whisper awaited the pre-game events, "110%." Inspiring the girls to give it their all, "110%" and another of the team's mottos, "pride," inspired them to hold their heads high. The team also traditionally danced to the song 'Cotton Eyed Joe' before every home game. "The dance just got everybody pumped up to play the game and put everyone in a good mood, even if they had a bad day," said Angie Palermo. Battling schools such as Hempfield, Norwin, Indiana, Franklin Regional and Greensburg Salem, the team managed tournament level in locations as far as Florida. Unwavering support from family, friends and coaches remained even through their 2-13 record. Anticipating excellence in the upcoming year, the ladies continued playing with both great confidence and "pride" at the "110%" level.

Amanda Waner goes for the dig to save a point for her team. "Besides the games, I really enjoyed the long bus rides and trips," she said. "It gave me a chance to bond with my girls." Amanda actively participated in many clubs during her high school career, including student council and telethon committee.

Ready for Anything...

Cortney Seybert and Kelsey Enger concentrate on a return as the ball descends upon them. Although just a freshman, Kelsey actively contributed to the team against tough opponents, such as Hopewell. "That was my best game," she said. "I had several digs and felt that I really helped out my team." The Cavalier girls ended the year with high aspirations for the coming season.

Joe said, "I enjoyed spending time at Phil's house with the team and going to Buffalo Bills for wings." The group of seniors sparked the team to yet another winning season for the perennially strong running squad.

Legging it Out...

Phil Hartle and Zach Talmadge race toward the finish line at their home course in Northmoreland Park. Commenting on his role models, Zach said, "I admired senior Phil Hartle. I tried my best to mirror his work ethic and hair style." Zach's hard work led to vast improvement from the previous season.

eXtreme cross country

The changes due to construction struck again as the steadfast Cross Country team altered its traditional base of operations. The construction project at the high school forced the team to pick up their sports bags and head for the hills, the hills of Northmoreland Park.

"The move to Northmoreland Park made the course a lot harder, but practicing there made our team a lot better," said Junior Captain Callie Martin. Throughout some of the summer and most of fall, the members of the team darted over their new territory as they faced tough competition from other section teams such as Highlands and Greensburg Central Catholic.

Coach Schaeffer and Coach Karaszia, with help from Captains Adam Haag and Callie Martin, lead the team to adapt quickly to their new course. With effort from all involved, the Cross Country team did tremendously well on the homestretch to success, despite the change of venue.

Smooth Moves...

Captain Brad Seadler sets up a shot on goal. Brad and the team enjoyed many wins and fond memories. When questioned about one of his favorite things about soccer, he said, "Listening to Frank fly make up James Earl Jones stories was always entertaining." The team not only worked hard during the season, but also participated in many other leagues throughout the off-season.

Soccer gave a new meaning to the expression "Look, Ma, no hands!" This sport however required more than agile feet. The strength, endurance and aggression of its players have made soccer very dangerous. In one of the most memorable games of the season, senior Brad Seadler went up to head the ball and collided with an opponent. "You could just hear things breaking," said Seadler about the devastating blow that crushed five bones in his face. He further said, "It was the most awful sound!"

Concussions, sprains and breaks depicted an often-unseen side of this sport. Another trait unique to soccer, the boys and girls teams attended one another's games to offer support.

The boys' unexpected victory over Connelsville proved a tremendous success, setting in motion a six game winning streak. The girls also managed to defeat their biggest rival, Hempfield. "We definitely improved this season," said senior Sara Hrovoski. "We learned to work really well together."

The 2003-2004 Boys and Girls Golf Teams swung their way through an amazing season. Under the guidance of Coach Richard Mottura, the boys competed in 19 contests and compiled 14 wins, the biggest of which came on the road against Gateway. The team worked hard and had nothing but praise for their teammates' dedication and skill. "Jon Golembiewski almost single-handedly led our team to the playoffs with his great play at the end of the year," said senior Joe Intrieri. Junior Aaron Williams earned the distinction of Team MVP from his peers. The team flourished under mentor Coach Mottura's leadership.

Including only five members, the Girls Golf Team competed in 12 section matches and pulled a total of nine wins. The girls putt each hole under the aim and precision of Mrs. Nancy Gibson, their head coach. Expectations ran high among the eager team as they aspired to achieve a first-place spot in the section.

The determined group of girls never gave up when they fell short and still managed third place in the section. Four of the five golfers qualified for VPIAL competition, and Jena Talarom managed to golf her way to a VPIAL finalist position.

In a season that coupled talents of both boys and girls, the squads realized the Cavaliers as powerful contenders in the section. The standing records reflected the perfect putt in moving toward a "hole-in-one" season.

Natalie Caratelli eyes up a short putt during a meet at the Vandergrift Golf Course. When asked about her senior season, Natalie said, "I liked being able to play for free every day after school." Natalie also helped to lead the team to a winning record.

During the summer and fall of 2003, the Kiski Area Girls Tennis Team devoted many hours to practice and competition. Beginning in early August, the girls formed a bond that grew stronger throughout the season. Despite the frustrating record of 4-10, the team always regrouped to take on the next opponent by remembering that having fun mattered more than winning.

After one particularly tough match, junior Ashley Woolheater actually reduced her defeated opponent to tears. The team turned that single victory into fuel that catalyzed their spirit, beginning each game with a cheer of "K-I-S-K-! Beat'em Kiski, make'em cry!"

Their faithful parents and classmate Paul Braun, who always came to provide support, encouraged the girls to do their best. During the matches, Coach Antenucci gave the girls valuable advice to constantly improve their games. Lacking managers, the girls assumed the responsibilities and teammate Ashley Zalewski earned the nickname "water girl." Senior Janelle Kardos said, "Although we had some tough competition, the season was rewarding because it offered a great opportunity to make friends and memories." These incredible girls had fun through the good times as well as bad and realized that teamwork, sportsmanship and perseverance made their season worthwhile.

Taking Advantage...

Janelle Kardos follows through on a powerful serve. "Although we didn't have a winning season, it was a success in terms of individual progress," she said. Janelle's positive attitude motivated her team to do their best.

Students Literally Express Themselves...

Perfectly in Prose

Half of the student body would not have acknowledged Edgar Allen Poe or Robert Pinsky if they performed cartwheels on stilts down the hallways. However, anyone walking even slightly awake through the buildings recognized senior Luke Duriancik. Perhaps involvement in school activities played a big role in his noticeable character, but the Literary Magazine showed an honest, profound side of Luke. "Working on the Literary Magazine was really special. I got to reach deep within myself and pull out my true writing potential," said Luke.

Literary Magazine sponsor Ms. Columbus collaborated with her eighth period Creative Writing students to create the magazine's title, Unlocked: If you read, you will judge. Beginning the first week of school, the staff decided on the layout of the magazine, which included a journal setting where all entries showed the author's signature on lined paper. Class voting and also recommendations acted as part of the selection process. "It was a great learning experience because students were involved in every aspect of the magazine, from submission selection to advertising," said Ms. Columbus. She further said, "Now that I have more experience, I know how to better manage and produce a publication of this type. It took more work than I ever thought it would, so it was a must to start earlier in the year."

Horse of a Different Color...

Students in Mr. Berzonsky's second period class attentively accept his teachings on The Rocking Horse Winner by D. H. Lawrence. "Mr. Berzonsky was very receptive to questions from the class," said student Mileena Vergari about Mr. B's approach. In addition to teaching English, Mr. Berzonsky coached both the junior high cross country team and the varsity girls track and field team.

Just a Bit...

Ryan Retter displays perfect safety skills while working with the drill press in Manufacturing class. "I looked forward to working on this year's class project," said Retter. The Manufacturing class designed, built, and sold a new product annually.

Killer Line Up...

Members of the colorguard take their positions for the traditional pregame band tunnel. When asked about attending football games, senior Danielle Hooper said, "I loved hearing the crowd cheer at halftime for all our hard work." The band featured Danielle at the end of their ballad where Miss Hooper had to catch an incredible 5 rotation rifle toss.

Getting to the Point...

Mr. Jankowski excites his 2nd period Algebra I class in room 314 about order of operations. "His enthusiasm makes class alot more interesting," said student Kristi Marsili about her favorite aspect of Mr. J's teaching. In his third year at the high school, Zach also helped coach Kiski's highly successful varsity baseball team and also advised the award-winning Math League.

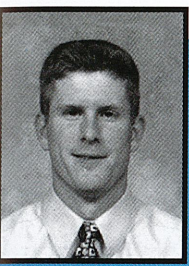

Mathematics Department Unveils New Additions... By the Book

Upon the start of the year the district Math Department unveiled a brand new line of textbooks. The previous books, encompassed with bent covers, torn pages and pencil marks, finally retired after six years. The mathematics teachers all seemed very excited about the opportunity to teach from an up-to-date text. During the spring of 2003, the mathematics educators attended presentations by five major publishers. They then selected the book that best suited their needs and correlated with state and national standards. Published by McDougal Littell and Houghton Mifflin, the textbooks contained more applications to technology and presented reality based situations in every section. In addition, students received the opportunity to borrow a CD-Rom, filled with many sample problems and tutorials. The math teachers also felt that the books had more examples and practice problems to choose from for homework assignments.

The new math series challenged students to perform beyond the basics and provided helpful PSSA and SAT preparation. The math faculty agreed with Mr. Toland, who said, "I felt the new textbooks gave the students a well rounded math experience. Students could use an up-to-date text along with computer technology to help them in the understanding of the course in which they were enrolled."

Student Store Opens Back Door... Behind the Selling Scene

It was great working in the student store. It allowed me to provide students with the things they needed for the school day," said junior Krystal Martin when asked why she enjoyed working on the student store staff. The Kiski Area Student Store finished up its 24th operating year reminiscing the first years and how far the store has come.

The establishment that started out with just notebooks, a small box of erasers and handfuls of white-out bottles has grown into a thriving mini-business. Stock included everything from gum and pom-poms to hooded sweatshirts. Every morning, students balanced cash drawers, stocked items, cleaned up from the previous days work and organized shelves in order to prepare for the bundles of students expected each day. Sponsors of the student store purchased clothes and supplies needed for the following school year from local businesses in May. Along with the store's necessities, all money earned went to various charities, both inside of Kiski's corridors and to other hardships cases throughout the community.

The Student Store opened not for profit, but to give the students real life experiences. Ms. Denise Manganello, who started the store on limited supplies and high hopes, said, "The support I have received from the administration, faculty and students was beyond anything I could have hoped for and I couldn't be happier with the way the student store has grown." Certainly, all who frequented the business agreed.

Hot Stuff...

Matt Boland, Catherine Martin, and Michael Dobbs amaze the class as they hold fireballs in their palms in Mrs. Thimons' 8th period AP chemistry class. Having recently moved to the United States, Michael said, "We don't do these things back in Australia." In addition to creating fireballs, students delved into the early history of chemistry and turned copper pennies into "gold" utilizing a metal-metal displacement reaction.

His Bark...Worse Than His Byte?

Mr. Schaeffer monitors the class on his all-knowing computer. When asked about Mr. Schaeffer's favorite saying, class member Jason Crighton said, "Delete, delete, delete." Mr. Schaeffer continually had his classes create advertising posters for clubs and classes to post around the school for various fundraisers.

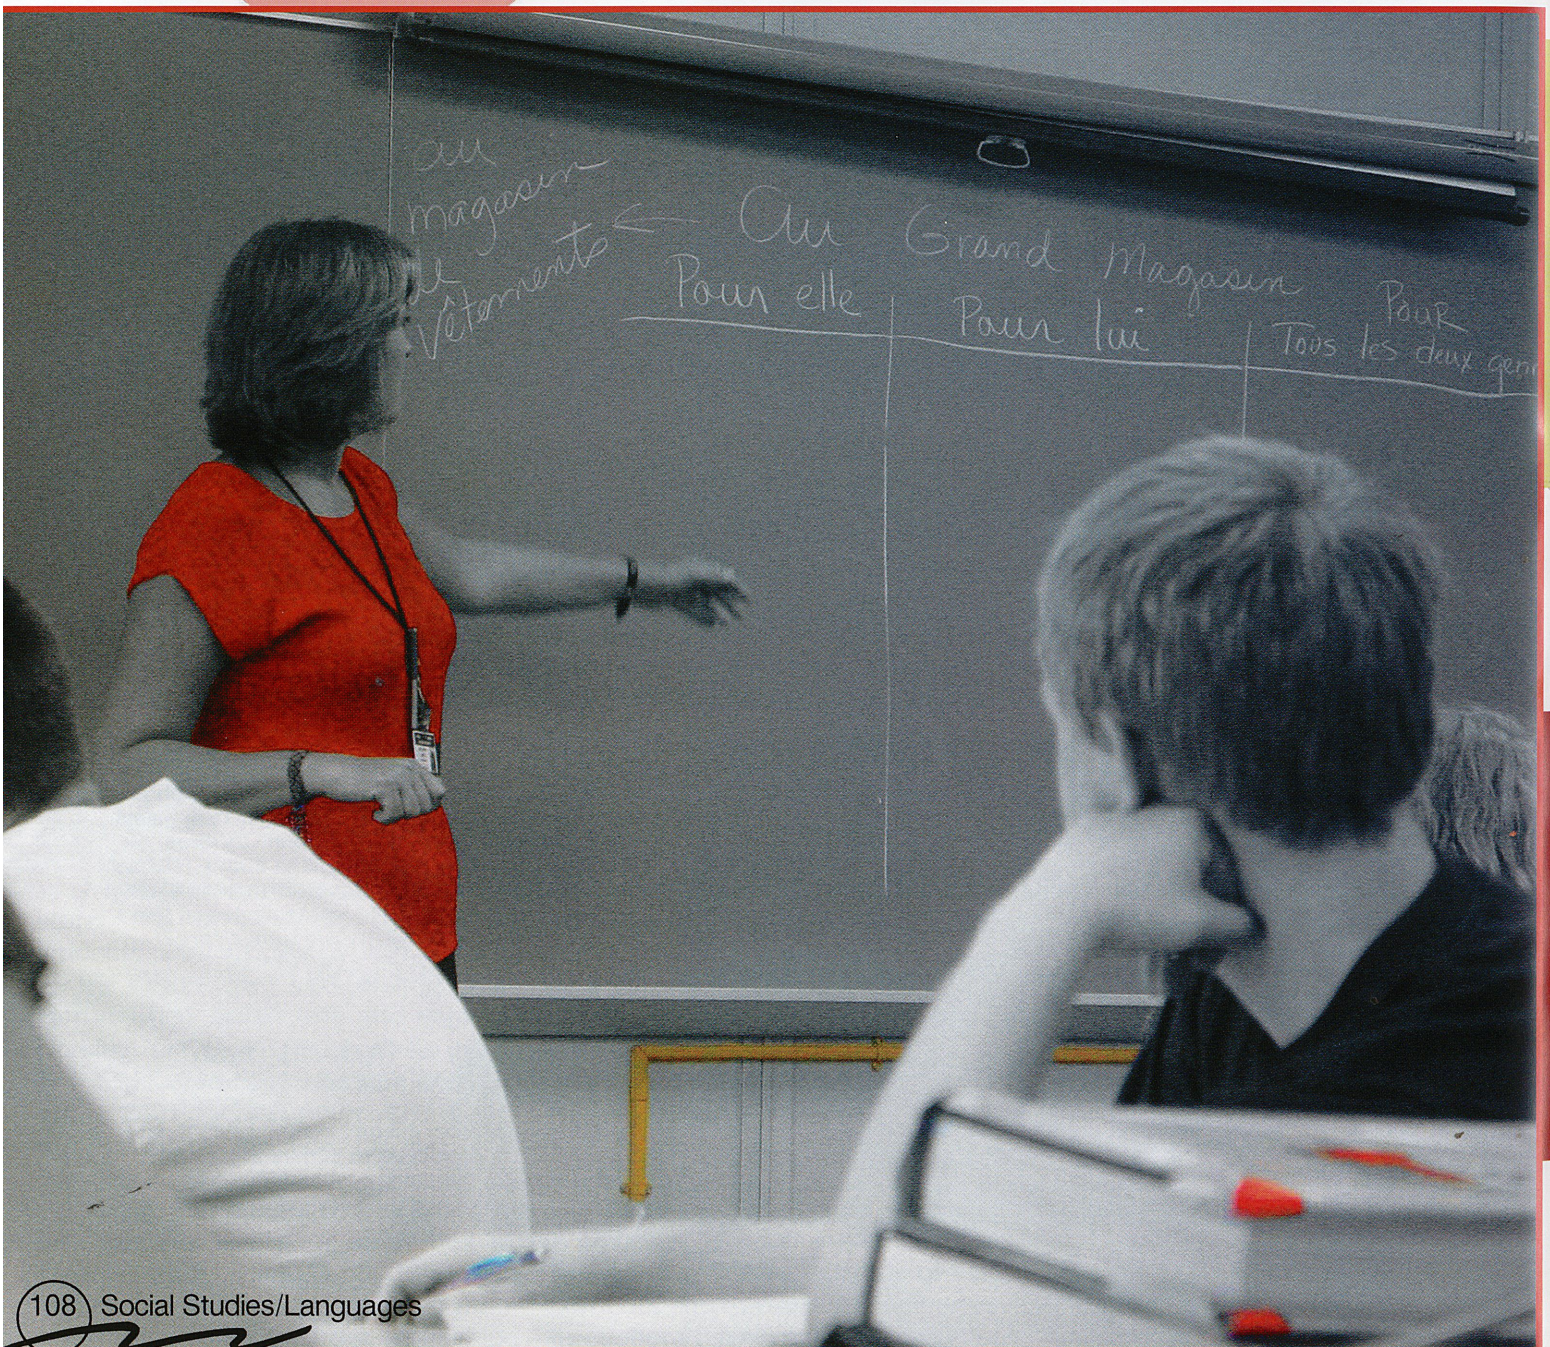

Words of Wisdom...

Mr. Intrieri delivers his knowledge of The Progressive Movement to his CD period class. When asked about his thoughts on his dad's career, son Joe Intrieri said, "The only reason he knew so much about the Roaring Twenties was because he lived through them." Mr. Intrieri had taught for 37 years in the Kiski School District.

Our French Connection...

Madame Brady and her class discuss various aspects of French fashion. When asked why Jacques Tarpay chose to take French as a foreign language, Jacque said, "I chose French because I was interested in European culture and I wanted to learn more about the French language." Madame Brady lived at home with her husband Dave and children, Ben and Lauren.

Big K Faculty Welcomes Many... New Kids in Town

Nearly every year, administrators have added a few names to the list of faculty. Two of the new faces included Ms. Shank and Mr. Snedecor. Ms. Shank taught Spanish, while Mr. Snedecor taught Social Studies.

Ms. Shank grew up essentially right down the road in Lower Burrell. She attended Penn State for undergraduate studies and the University of Pittsburgh for graduate school. Ms. Shank said, "Everyone always asked me who I rooted for. I was really a Penn State fan." Starting out, she hoped she could remain organized and encourage a successful beginning in mastering the Spanish language. Ms. Shank juggled around other hobbies, which consisted of attending youth soccer and baseball with her 8-year-old son, playing piano, reading and traveling throughout the school year.

Mr. Snedecor originally resided in the Dublin, Ohio region. He graduated high school at Dublin

Koffman High School and taught at Dublin Scioto High School for a year before transferring to Kiski. When asked how he felt about his first experience here, Mr. Snedecor simply said, "Happy." As a child, he yearned to play professional football for the Cleveland Browns. Mr. Snedecor's outside hobbies included of reading, playing sports and spending time with his wife, Cassie.

Classes Prepare Holiday Feast... Giving Thanks

Thanksgiving arrived early for Mrs. Daugherty's Foods II classes. The second year culinary students enjoyed a feast in the dining room between the two Home Economics rooms in mid November. The spread included turkey, gravy, mashed potatoes, stuffing, vegetables and dessert, all prepared by the students themselves. The thirty-year-old tradition has always included teachers and principals. As with previous years, the occasion remained the only time that the students did not have to wait on themselves. Mrs. Daugherty recruited students from neighboring study halls to serve the meal and to clean up after the students, giving the chefs a well-earned reward for their hard work preparing the feast. The students listened to a Thanksgiving poem before they began eating. Festive music also filled the comfortable atmosphere throughout the day. Various autumn inspired decorations complemented the music and food, and several comfortable couches contributed to the relaxed environment.

At the close of the day, the dinner ended, as always, a success. Students and faculty left with full bellies and lifted spirits. All the students and attendees agreed with Mrs. Daugherty when she said, "It was a good experience for everyone involved."

Dodge the Bullet...

Senior Joel Stanga eyes up his next victim in a friendly game of dodgeball. "I liked to play dodgeball with the underclassmen because I liked hitting them with the ball," said Joel on his favorite gym activity. Of all games played, most students agreed that they least liked spending time in the pool.

By the Book...

Librarian Mrs. Gero catalogues yet another book into the computer system. When asked about what she anticipated most about the new library, Mrs. Gero said, "I looked forward to the additional space and updated computer equipment." Surprisingly, the library held over 30,000 books.

Mr. Paul Fantaski

Teacher of the Year

Students Nominate Favorite Teacher... Fantaski or Fantastic?

Hero seems all too cliché throughout the crevices of the teenage mind today. From Superman to Captain Planet to even teachers, the word attains attention. Perhaps teachers break the aforementioned cliché barrier. "Teacher of the Year," Mr. Paul Fantaski, lived up to the role in more than one instance.

Subsequent to becoming a Kiski alumnus, Mr. Fantaski graduated from Edinboro University as a mathematics education major with a minor degree in music education. His favorite topic, mathematical integration, topped off his excitement of teaching Calculus to students.

Maestro of the Kiski choirs and voice of the nationally acclaimed Kiski Marching Band, Mr. Fantaski brought smiles across more than just the students' faces. Many claimed that they felt more at home upon hearing his voice grace the speakers during the away football game halftime shows.

Mr. Fantaski not only created memories for students at the high school, but also helped to preserve them. Teaching first at Orchard Hills Christian Academy in Apollo, he excelled in teaching many disciplines and mentored students in producing their yearbooks. Transferring to Kiski has allowed Mr. Fantaski to produce even more yearbooks - many that placed among the best in the entire nation.

A hero to many at the high school, Mr. Fantaski served as a well-deserved recipient of the "Teacher of the Year" award. Although x-ray vision and flying did not come with the territory of teaching, guiding others through the most difficult and confusing situations in life certainly made Mr. Paul Fantaski a hero in students' eyes.

Students Gain Lifelong Buddies... Learning Lessons for Life

I loved being a 'buddy' because it allowed me to work with an incredible group of students I wouldn't have normally been able to work with," said junior Laura Miller when asked how she enjoyed working with the Life Skills class. Not only did the Buddy program allow for friendship and interaction between peers, but it also taught the life skills students a variety of lessons. Students reviewed math, spelling, reading and writing skills through flashcards, educational games and computers, while also learning many other important abilities for everyday use. Budgeting money, setting tables, preparing meals and simple manners added to the various activities. High school students involved in the Buddy program volunteered their study hall time to work with the eager group of peers. Buddies helped the students with math problems, spelling worksheets and workbook lessons. Buddies also looked beyond the lessons and spent time interacting with the students by assisting in a wide variety of activities in gym classes. Students in the Life Skills program gained valuable friendships with their

Buddy counterparts - friendships that will last a lifetime. Additionally, the Buddy volunteers played a vital role in the education of some truly incredible students. Many of the Buddies expressed that working with Mrs. Leezer's students has truly made an impact on their lives. Some have even expressed the desire to enter the teaching field due to the experience. Certainly, the Buddy program has changed lives for the better.

It's Fun Gettin' into TROUBLE!...

Mrs. Leezer's life skills class utilizes board games as an educational tool. "I liked to play Trouble with Matt. Sometimes I won," said Brooke about having fun in class. Mrs. Leezer incorporated many enjoyable projects into everyday learning.

Lesson learned...

Junior Clyde Brown uses the computer to reinforce lessons taught in the classroom. "I liked to draw pictures on the computer then give the pictures to my friends," said Clyde about his favorite computer activity. In school, Clyde most enjoyed gym class and pep assemblies.

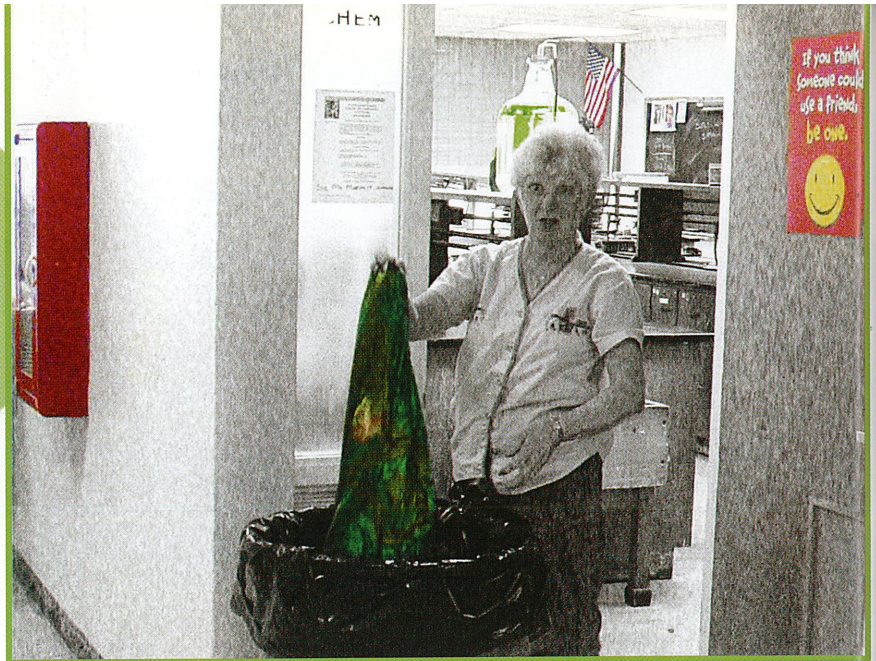

Taking Out the Trash ...

Carole Rupert, school sweeper, works tirelessly to prepare the senior building for the next day's classes. When asked how the construction affected her job, Rupert said, "It's horrendous - horrendously dirty." The custodial staff remained much appreciated in a year when dirt and debris existed everywhere.

Lunchtime Sweets...

Cafeteria worker Glenda Givens gives Becka Mohan and Katie Terrana a myriad of choices to satisfy the midday munchies. "There's nothing better than a cool carton of O.J. to wash down a good lunch," said Katie on her favorite choice in the alternative lunch line. The food service department aimed to provide students with healthy selections to provide the necessary nutrition to survive the second half of the day.

Kiski Sweepers Leave Marks... Behind in the Dust

ew actually stopped to consider the necessities of making the high school ready for students each day. Certainly, however, the custodial sweeping staff realized exactly how much work it required to prepare for the students. After talking to several sweepers, the magnitude of this task became quite evident. When asked which job demanded the most of him, Larry Resick, high school custodian, said, "We had to move thousands upon thousands of pieces of furniture just to get the year started."

Naturally, the renovations complicated the task of preparing for the entire year, especially opening day. One sweeper said, over the summer, the thickness of dust and dirt exceeded a quarter of an inch in places due to the construction. When asked if the renovations intimidated her, Nancy Gasbarro, an employee for the past thirty four years, said, "Somewhat, yes, but I did the best I could do, and will keep doing so." Nancy's comments reflected the same sentiments of all custodians and sweepers. The positive attitude exhibited by the hard-working employees showed that nothing worthwhile came easily, and through these difficult times, their dedication certainly proved insurmountable.

Kiski's
Vocational Technical program, offered through the Northern Westmoreland Career and Technology Center, undoubtedly planned for students' careers. Culinary Arts, Cosmetology, Masonry and Auto-Mechanics include a few of all available courses. Vo-Tech provided students with job - specific training to facilitate their entrance into the work force after high school. Students in Vo-Tech completed various projects throughout the year. Culinary students prepared lunches, baked and sold cookies and cooked food for Open House. Cosmetology students mastered hair cutting and styling, manicures, pedicures, facials and waxing.
Masonry taught teenagers techniques on how to string mortar and lay brick. In the Auto-Mechanics program at Vo-Tech students challenged themselves with such tasks as taking apart an engine and then reassembling it without help from instructors. "Vo-Tech helped me get a part-time job and was really a worthwhile experience," said senior Joel Allman about the benefits of the program. Students learn valuable skills for their future careers that they can only receive through the hands-on experience that Vo-Tech offers.

Rachel Kromka clicks away at the Outlook software on the computer. When asked about the benefits of the Computers program, she said, "Because of Vo-Tech, I have a job at Alcoa Technical Center." Aside from preparing for the future, Rachel loved listening to music with friends at her home in Washington Township.

Sparks Fly in Vo-Tech Welding Program

While most high school students participated in Art, Home Economics or another elective, some Vo-Tech students learned hands-on welding techniques at Northern Westmoreland Career & Technology Center. They completed specific projects throughout the year to learn the various types of welding and the safety precautions involved. The projects included building log splitters, vertical overheads and T-joints.

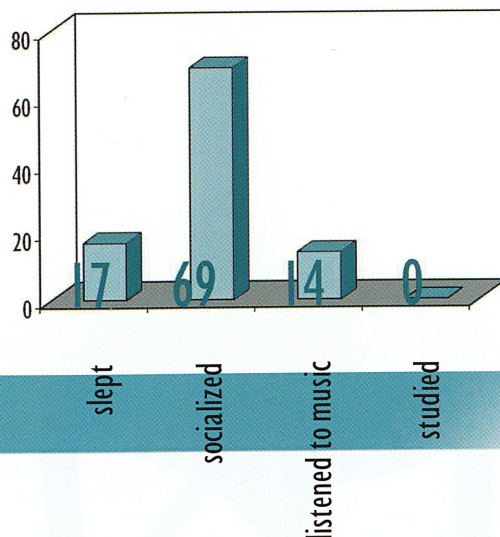

Eleventh graders such as Brian Alter also spent much of their time fine-tuning their welding skills. "I go to Vo-Tech for the experience," said Brian. "It's something I don't get to learn at home."

The Vo-Tech Program offered many advantages, one being that students received training that allowed them to enter the workforce directly following high school. After graduation, job opportunities included automotive body repair and pipeline work. While students enrolled in the welding program for various reasons, they all agreed that the knowledge they acquired would prove helpful later in life.

Hot Stuff...

Brennan McGowan uses a cutting torch to sever a piece of steel. When asked his thoughts on the program at Tech, Brennan said, "I liked working in the shop and being able to fix things." He further said, "Right after school, I should be able to easily get a job and enter into the union." Brennan lived in Vandergrift and enjoyed working on his dirtbike.

Building Blocks:

John Poney precisely levels a single brick in the wall. "My favorite part of the program is being able to get experience and to build different interesting walls," said Poney when asked about his masonry encounters. He further mentioned the profits brought in from the profession. John belonged to the Masonry Club and resided in Allegheny Township.

Opportunities Open New Doors

From the few minor splinters to the beautiful wooden masterpieces created, nothing stopped the students enrolled in the Vo-Tech Carpentry program. The setting involved preparing many aspiring young men and women for a future in the work force using a hands-on learning technique. Allowing them to complete various tasks throughout the year, the Northern Westmoreland Career and Technology Center also granted students the opportunity to add their own personal touch to the program in creating a solo project.

Several students caught an interest to join the carpentry program while working elsewhere. Senior Jonathan Ferrero received inspiration from his love for construction, while Corey Borello, junior, gained experience by working with a contractor. Many of the carpentry students did not know exactly where their careers would take them. Junior Michael Stasenکو said, "I would like to work with a company that builds housing plans and does roofing," while another student claimed that he would like to own a shop.

Every quarter-inch nail and 2x4 that sat on the carpentry floor fell into place as pieces of beautifully framed houses. The hands that constructed them doubled as the foundation builders of the future.

Brett Shaner adds a few finishing nails to a drawer for a cabinet in Carpentry class. "My favorite part of Vo-tech is that I got the chance to learn a trade that can always be used," he said. Brett belonged to VICA and enjoyed talking about cars with friends.

Strong as Steel...

Sophomore Ryan Bigley mig welds a piece of steel. "I enjoyed welding anything that involved something that I had designed and fabricated," said Ryan on his favorite welding experiences. Ryan also liked working on cars and riding quads.

Key to Success...

Marie Loaskie completes another tech assignment. When asked about her favorite part of the computer program at Vo-tech, Marie said, "I don't know, maybe playing games and learning about the computer." Marie enjoyed playing basketball and hanging out with her friends. Marie also lived in Avonmore.

Cheese if You Please...

Christina Sciuillo grates cheese for a lunch that she prepared. When asked why she liked Vo-tech Christina said, "Tech is great; the best part is making serving, and interacting with the public." She further said, "I loved making pies and cookies." Outside of school Christina enjoyed cooking and playing basketball.

98.6° Towards the Future

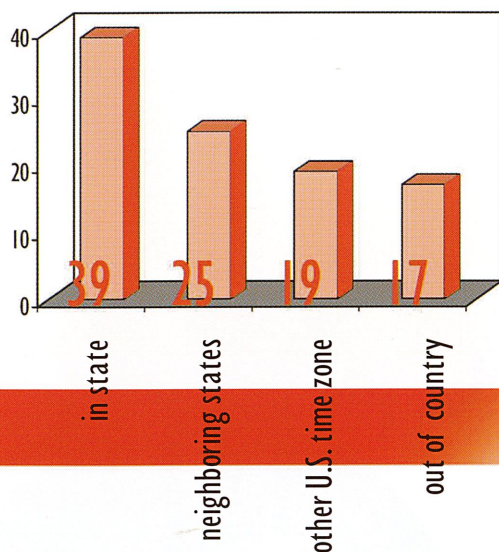

Hundreds of students a day participated in the Medical Assistance program provided at the Vo-Tech. The program offered a strong start on a solid future. "It's a great experience and a good way to start my career in the health field. I am even more thankful for this program since the health care field is booming," said junior Amanda Nelson. Although students did not complete many projects, many of the hands-on experiences gave the future doctors and nurses more practice in the field.

Performing blood tests, bed-making,

filling out patient history forms, taking temperatures and even down to the proper hand washing techniques, all of the students dealt with reality-based situations that worked up to the NOCTI test, given in their senior years. "The course really taught me how to interact with patients and perform the tasks," said sophomore Kristina Keller, "After dealing with my father's illness I knew I wanted to enter the medical field and this course would help me become more experienced for college."

Amy Sciuillo perfects her technique with the air brush during a class in commercial arts. "I love Vo-tech! I really like what the class does. My favorite things we've done so far was the plaster heads and air brushing," she said. In her free time Amy enjoyed attending Tae-Kwan-Do classes in her home town of Vandergrift.

Commercial Arts Program Prepares All

Ambitious young artists enrolled in the Commercial Arts Program at Vo-Tech to prepare themselves for future careers in the fields of graphic arts and design. Many career opportunities existed in this rapidly growing field. When asked of her prospective plans, junior Amy Lane said, "I plan on going into graphic design after finishing my Vo-Tech training."

Students completed several projects throughout the course of the year. In November, the aspiring artists completed a marker-rendering project. Taking two weeks to complete, this activity entailed shading and shadowing effects on a marker drawing using alcohol. Students also completed projects in airbrushing as well as formatting graphic arts works on the computer. Such a series of projects created future artists whose high school training prepared them for whatever work or direction their career took them.

Junior Jamie Russick practices her styling techniques on her mannequin head. Jamie left the school district in late fall to attend the Valley School District.

Students
at Kiski participated in 13 different sports ranging from cheerleading to wrestling throughout the school year. No matter the sport, the team members underwent vigorous training sessions and practices which involved running, weight lifting or drilling. When asked about his athletic aspirations, junior Wesley Kendle said genuinely, "I've played soccer for six years. It's all I know. Playing varsity soccer for Kiski is a dream of every young boy growing up in Bell Township. I'm living a dream." Attitudes like this, coupled with countless hours of coach and athlete cooperation, led Kiski to many victories during the year and in those past.
Enthusiasm, ardor and perseverance stood required at practice, game time and in their schoolwork. "Sports teach teenagers about teamwork, physical fitness and dedication; skills they will use the rest of their lives," said Mr. David Grimm, varsity football coach, proudly. Both on and off the playing field, Kiski

Spiritual Renewal...

Ed Newell takes a minute before the game to say a quick prayer with his teammates. Ed, who played a very complete season, said, "Franklin Regional was our biggest enemy. We always step it up a notch for them." He proved his competitive spirit by making key blocks and tackles on the opposing teams.

Going Long...

Adam Gunn hurls the ball downfield in hopes of a big gain. When asked about his worst game, he said, "The playoff game was the worst game because it was my last in high school. Everyone was in tears at the end of the game." Adam started at both quarterback and linebacker his senior year.

Faster Than a Speeding Bullet...

Running back Scott McKillop cuts his way through the opponent's defense. "I love the intensity of the game," he said. "Hitting people makes all the hard work worth while." Scott earned MVP honors for the second year in the 2003 season.

ex-treme football

For the second consecutive year, avid fans donned in artistic works of blue and gold eagerly awaited the first kick of the playoff season. Outscoring their opponents in the regular season by a total of 47 points, the Varsity Football team dominated any opposition. Intense victories against Indiana, Plum and Franklin Regional sparked the players into a fiery frenzy for the division title. An unfortunate loss in the early season against Penn-Trafford left the Cavs ranked as the third place finishers in a strong section.

Fueled by the endurance of players who served both offense and defense, the squad patrolled each passing yard line by means of "Iron Man" football. A powerhouse starting line of players such as Adam Gunn, Anthony Celitti, Robbie Plowman and Scott McKillop helped drive the team across an important competitive threshold into playoff territory. "A lot of times we were tired, but we had the heart to just keep plugging away," said senior Jim Young. With a thrashing battle against Mount Lebanon, the team may not have left the field with a seat in the successive battle but tackled that game and the entire season with wholehearted spirit.

- Miranda Bier & Amanda Peppler

Senior defensive lineman Zak Kennedy sets himself for another attack on the quarterback. When asked about his favorite part of the season, Zak said, "My most memorable moment came against McKeesport when I had a tumble recovery!" Zak contributed four years to the Kehl team and played both offense and defense.

Marshana Harris, Nicole Kotvas, Amber McCullough, Jessica Miller, Lauren Pangrazi (Captain), Ashley Petrouski, Ashley Schwarz, Rebecca Szarmach (Captain); Head Coach: Jessica Graham.

Go Team Go...

Kristina Moreth tries to rally support for the troops during a football game. "We had an awesome group of girls this year. We worked well together and it was an honor to be named a captain." Kristina helped to lead a young squad in the cheers at many Cavalier sporting events.

Gimme a K and Two More Is...

Amanda Kowalski leads the cheer as the Kiski student body roars. When asked about her favorite sport to cheer for, Mandy said, "I liked cheering for wrestling because a lot of people come out; it was very exciting." Mandy not only served as a cheerleader, but also brilliantly led the senior class as president.

exXtreme cheerleading

Beyond the shouts of joy, cries of anger and tears of disappointment from the crowd, the continuous and undying chants of support from Kiski's Cheerleaders filled the arenas. With a season that never really ends, the group acted as the heart of the school in keeping the entire student body's blood flowing and maintaining the well-known Kiski spirit all year. But just as they pumped up the audience, their own ritual brought a smile to each of the girls' faces. "We stood in a circle and did a chant called 'Down to the River.' It got everyone pumped up and we had so much fun doing crazy and stupid stuff in it," said junior Amanda Kowalski.

Like any team sport, the girls knew that practice made perfect. The varsity coaches, Bridget Tweten and Robin Laero, and junior varsity coaches, Jessica Graham and Jessica Berberich, held practices three days every week. Behind all the hours of extreme preparation, the squads still grinned knowing that they had the support of their biggest fan, senior Mike Madden. Without a doubt, the cheerleaders played one of the biggest roles in the school. Gracing every pep assembly, football game, basketball game and wrestling match with everlasting pride, the cheerleaders lifted more than just themselves to the top of the pyramid.

- Courtney Petrina

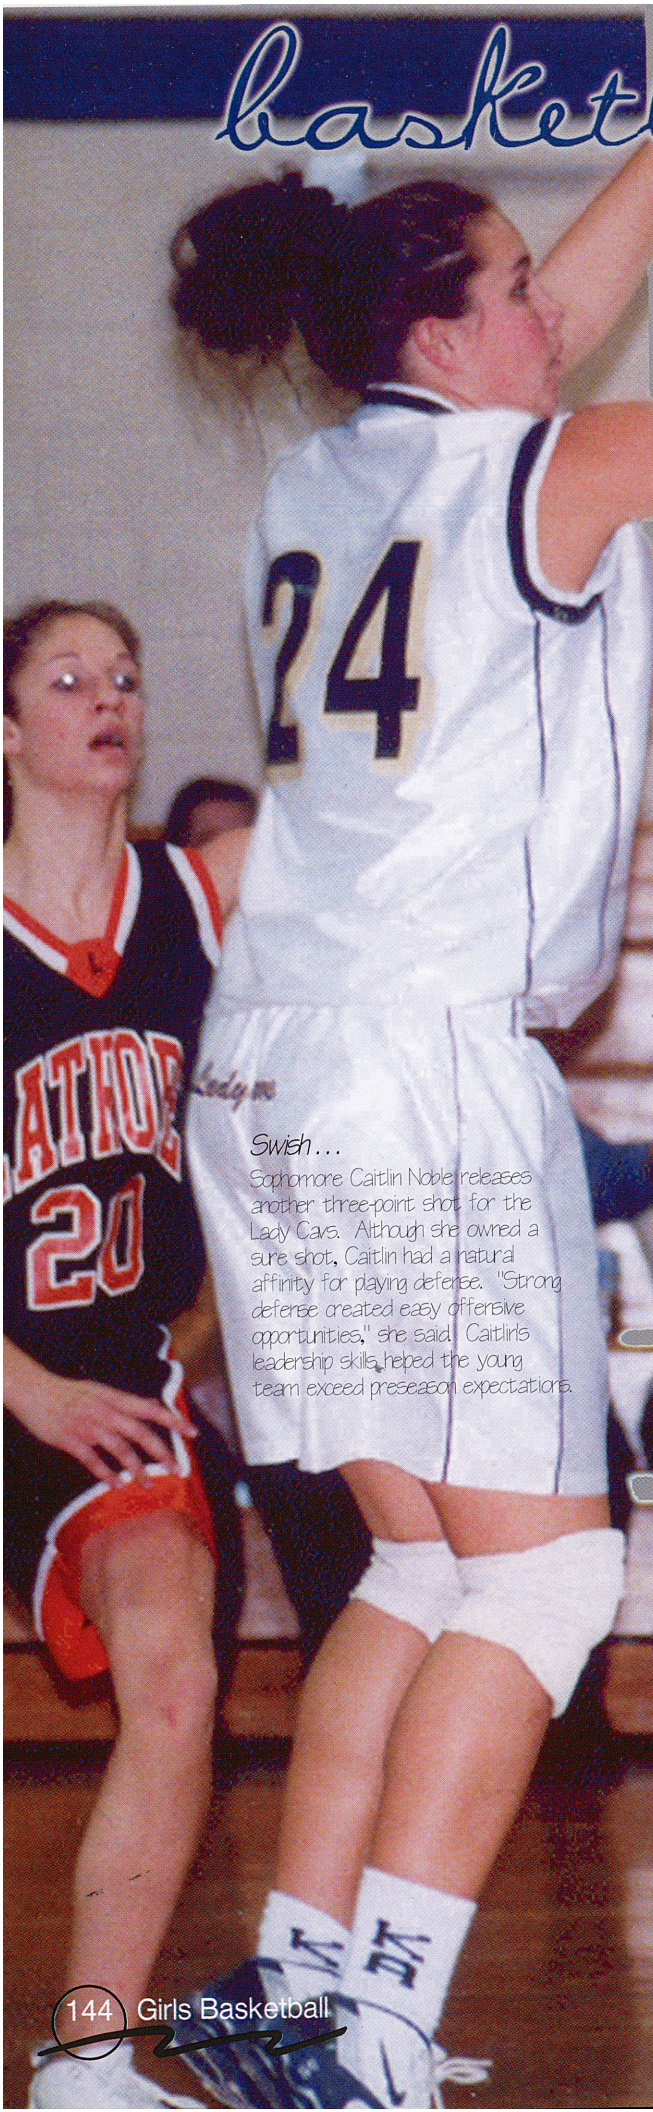

High Spirits...

Sam Gamble leads a cheer at a Friday night home football game. Sam said, "Don't mess was my favorite cheer because you didn't mess with the cheerleaders!" Sam, along with the other girls, always did their best to raise the level of school spirit.

basketball

ex treme

Reflecting the sentiment of Disney's popular Nemo, the Girls Basketball Team "just kept swimming." The girls spent endless hours training to improve their performance. "The team practiced everyday excluding the days they played," said Coach Pipkins. Losing only two seniors from the previous year, the remaining squad had only to refine their already polished skills. The team also benefited from the knowledge of two new assistant coaches. For the first time in many years, a female assistant coach aided the team.

Swish...

Sophomore Caitlin Noble releases another three-point shot for the Lady Cavs. Although she owned a sure shot, Caitlin had a natural affinity for playing defense. "Strong defense created easy offensive opportunities," she said. Caitlin's leadership skills helped the young team exceed preseason expectations.

To comment on her most rewarding game of the season, senior Natalie Caratelli said, "The best game was against Latrobe at home. We were behind by 15 points at the half and ended up winning." Led by Captains Lindsey Kuruc, Allison McCartney and Jennifer Rodgers, the team learned many important aspects of basketball. With a "beat yourself-not the opponent" attitude, the team stomached the coiling competitions between rivals Franklin and Hempfield, their major opposition. Even though the girls' season record escaped perfection, the participation on the squad allowed the girls to partake in a game that they adored.

On the Run...

Senior Jerry Rodgers leads the Lady Cavaliers' offensive attack. When asked about her favorite part of the game, Jerry said, "I loved competing, winning games, and hanging out with my teammates off the court." Jerry has participated in the Cardier basketball lineup since ninth grade.

Blocking the Opponent...

Forward Lauren Golembiewski stands in the lane ready to intercept an errant pass. Last season, Lauren learned many lessons. "I realized that the team must work together. Being unified was the most important thing when playing basketball," she said. Her tough, physical play near the basket gave Kiski a solid foundation for their team.

extreme basketball

Although most sports came to an end during the cold winter months, the Kiski Area Boys Basketball season sprang to life. Losing a few of the previous year's starting seniors would have crippled some teams, but the Cavs persevered. They managed to stay strong with the help of their experienced coaching staff and excellent captains. Some said the secret of their success had to do with their ability to work as a team. Coach Larry Rupert said, "Every good team has great chemistry, and this year our team had exactly that."

The chemistry surely played an important role in many of the team's victories. "Our most gratifying game experience was probably beating Alderdice in double overtime," said senior Joe Intrieri. Conversely, the team least enjoyed playing Hempfield, as the Cavalier members disliked their coach. Regardless of whom they played, the hoopsters truly proved that a bunch of guys donned in blue and gold apparel could master the court.

- Ashley Urik

Take It to the Net...

Senior point guard Anthony Cellitti makes a move on his defender in an attempt to score. "I loved to penetrate to the basket and then dish to my teammates for an easy two points," he said. Anthony actively participated in the Kiski basketball program for more than ten years.

swimming and diving eXtreme

The swimming and diving teams submerged themselves in the competition of the 2003-2004 season as their members waded in a sea of victories. Mr. Ron Ruggeri, Mr. John Mazurek and Mr. Jim Scott wholeheartedly led a cavalry of 32 swimmers against such renowned rivals as Penn Trafford, Norwin, Oakland Central and Hempfield. Despite its status as underdog of the section, Kiski went to extreme lengths toward surfacing triumph. "We had a great season. We really came together! I don't think the team ever got along this well and hope the next captains continue to lead the team down this path," said senior Captain Sarah Moore.

The swimming and diving teams' nautical notoriety not only depended on an undertow of practices but also on its upbeat personality. For instance, prior to each home meet senior Jacob Yundt grilled hot dogs and hamburgers on his George Foreman Grill to both nourish and psyche up his fellow teammates. "I really liked when Jake brought his grill to school," said freshman Blair Woolheater. "It livened things up, and the food was good." From the grill to the lanes, the Kiski Area swimming and diving teams dished out only its best, leaving the opposition stuffed to the gills.

Head First...

Junior diver Ashley Woolheater straightens out from a pike position just before entering the water. When asked if she had any advice for new swimmers, Ashley said, "If you are ever on the pool deck, don't touch the drains!" Each meet, the diving team jump-started the charge for the girls.

Senior swimmer Jacob Yundt perfects his freestyle during swimming practice. "Being captain was really fun, I got to throw freshmen in the water if they didn't do what I told them," said Jacob. This summer, Jacob attended the Pennsylvania Governor School for Information Technology at Penn State Main Campus.

Springing into Success...

Senior Lena Tobin prepares herself in mid-air for an incredible entry into the water. Lena said, "My front two and a half somersault is my hardest dive because its hard to work up enough speed to rotate that many times!" In addition to diving, Miss Tobin claimed the homecoming crown from graduate Becca Ehlt in the fall.

Matt Kopchak, who plays right wing for the Cavaliers, battles for position near the net. When asked about his most memorable game, Matt said, "Last year against Shaler, I scored two goals in nine seconds." The Cavaliers relied on Matt's combination of scoring and defense for their success.

Playing Safe ...

Adam Galmoff circles back to collect the puck from his goalie in the defensive zone. Commenting on the team's season, he said, "We had a few guys on the team that could be considered all-stars. Thanks to them, we won a few games." The Cavaliers depended on Adam to lead the team in crucial games.

hockey

Clad in blades and pads and armed with nothing less than sticks, the members of Kiski Area's Hockey Team bludgeoned their rivals in many a brutal contest to win and command a mere rubber disk. The 2003 - 2004 season produced a great challenge for the team members and coaches. With an increase in player sign ups, the team divided to form both a Varsity and Junior Varsity under coaches Mr. Marty Bradley and Mr. Jeff Horvath, respectively. Despite the journey onto thin ice, both Kiski teams defended not only their goal territory, but also their Cavalier pride against notorious opponents like Fox Chapel, Plum and Penn Trafford. "Our team has performed above most people's expectations," said varsity senior Tom Melvin.

Above and beyond, the Cavs displayed tenacity and resiliency in contests even when considered serious underdogs. As a result, Kiski earned a reputation as a team which simply did not quit. With a talented roster and hardworking players at the developmental levels, Kiski Area demonstrated the potential to become a powerful contender in the years to come.

- Amanda Peppler

Spraying Ice...

Adam Bowman displays his agility with a sharp turn away from the boards. "My favorite part of the season was when our assistant coach fell off the bench when we scored a goal," he said. "It was hilarious. Both teams were cracking up." Adam had a brilliant hockey career at Kiski and contributed to the team's success.

wrestling extreme

On the heels of a landmark year of spectacular victories, Coach Tursky and his wrestling team hoped to capture once again the magic that carried them to state finals. The team felt inspired to make their mark on the mats as well.

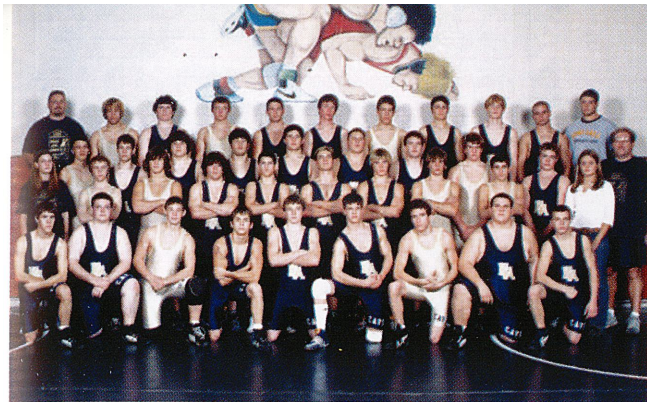

The breathtaking journey through the previous year encouraged wrestlers to embrace power, defiance and perseverance. These qualities caused other teams to dread matches against the unstoppable Blue and Gold.

The team's coach seemed every bit as impressive as the team itself. As Coach Tursky celebrated his 300th career win, he said, "I have a lot of people to thank for the 300th win. I have one of the best coaching staffs and hundreds of athletes who believed in me. I never would have made it to 300 without the sacrifices and hard work these people have given to make Kiski the wrestling power that it is." The wrestlers and their fearless leaders pinned down a great combination of winning spirit and unity.

Ready for the Pounce...

Senior 189-pounder Andrew Joseph prepares to grapple with an opponent. "This year was a tough season because we had such a young team, but we were able to pull together to succeed," he said. Andrew served as a mentor for the younger members of the team.

Ready for Action...

John Roman stands ready to strike as his Kiski fans look on. He said, "We have a very young team, but with the great coaching we are still proving to be a dominating force." John helped to teach the younger wrestlers how to produce a winning season.

Going in for the Kill...

Eric Jeffries manhandles his Cornelsville opponent in a match early in the season. "The Cornelsville match was the toughest of the year," he said. "I was tired from weight loss and the kid I wrestled was tough." Eric's hard work benefited the team as they earned yet another winning record.

In Control...

Tyler Oravec controls the action in yet another home wrestling match. He said, "We all had many problems to face, but we accomplished the toughest and most important one, learning to wrestle as a team." Tyler, along with many other underclassmen, upheld a long-standing Kiski wrestling tradition of excellence.

ex^{track} treme and field

Envision a frosty winter day, the soles of tennis shoes beating consecutively on the salted pavement, as groups of enduring athletes gather to push themselves toward a successful year. Pre-season practices followed by many months of grueling after-school training certainly distinguished the Kiski Track team from the many other schools. The boys and girls teams both wrapped up their seasons with rather honorable records.

Contrary to popular belief, track required more than just speed to participate.

Long jump, hurdles, triple jump, shot put, high jump and javelin rounded out the sport. Each of the competitive activities called for many hours of unrelenting practice, patience and a cooperative attitude.

"One unique thing about track was that it was an individual sport as well as a team sport. It gave you the opportunity to improve upon your own personal records each time you competed—times, distance, etc. Track also kept you focused on goal setting, which was a valuable asset in life," said Coach Mrs. Melissa Schaeffer. The track team set high standards and pushed themselves beyond ground level.

— Kelly Rudd & Miranda Bier

Leap of Faith...

Senior Andrea Berger races toward the finish in the 100 meter hurdles. Working hard all season, Andrea said, "I tried to improve on both my footwork and speed over the hurdles." In the off-season, Andrea applied her athletic ability to the ski slopes.

baseball *ex*treme

Freshly cut grass and hot dogs... these smells seemed to go hand in hand with baseball. At Kiski, however, sweaty socks represented a more familiar stench according to junior Joel George who said, "Some people wouldn't wash their game socks until we lost." This good luck ritual's success obviously affected the team as it progressed deep into the playoffs. The large number of returning seniors contributed to the team's success as well. With so many talented young men on the team, senior Brad Garrone said, "Being named Most Valuable Player was a huge honor."

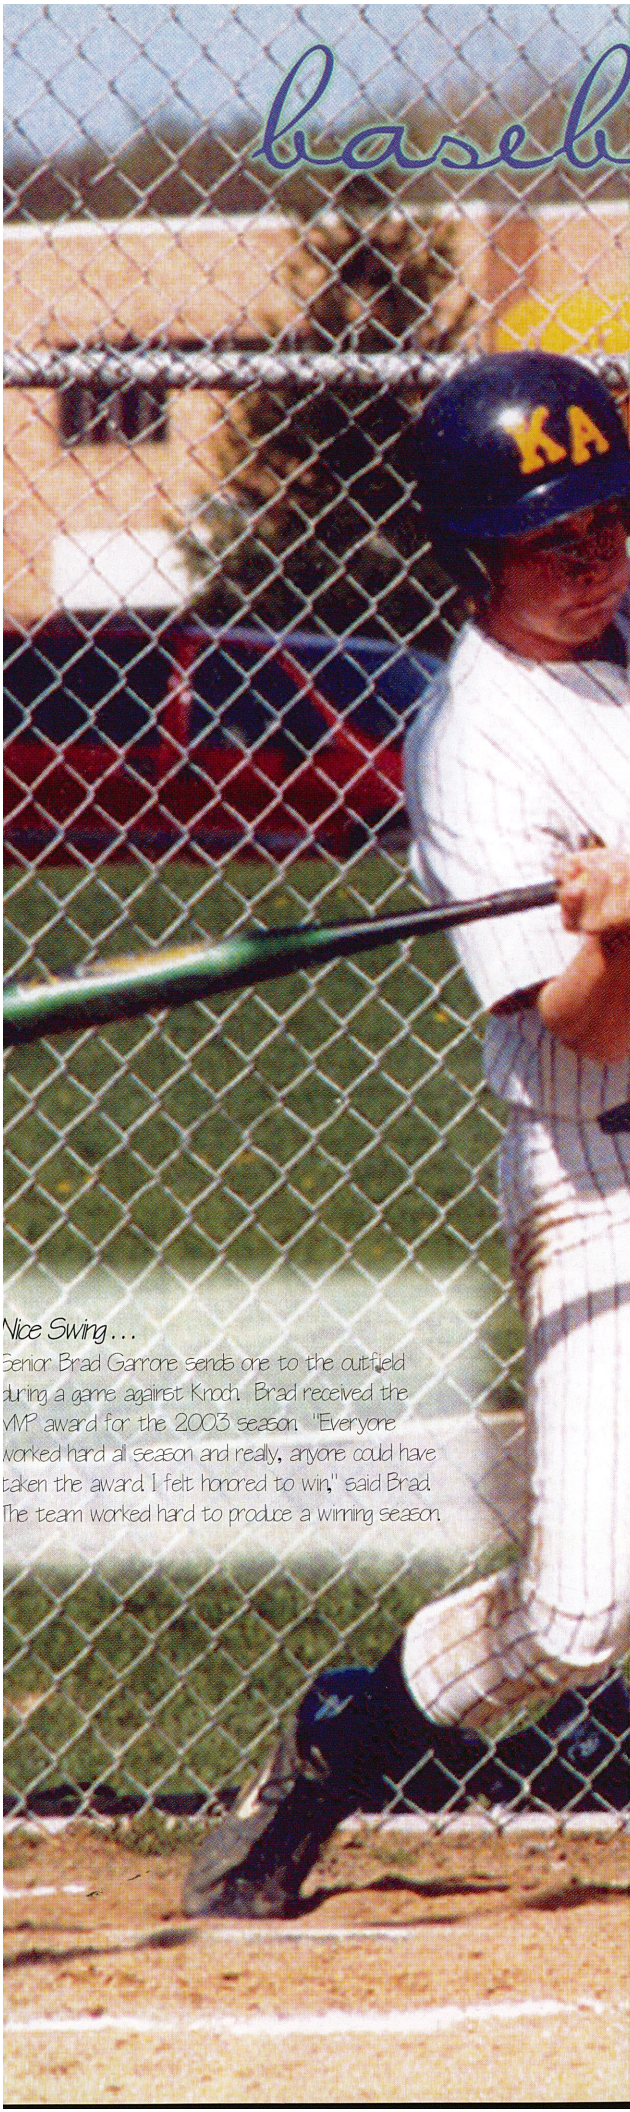

The boys saddled up to take on the Plum Mustangs, their biggest rival, in the upcoming season.

"We beat them last time we played, and we're ready to do it again," said Joel. With such positive attitudes, the team will certainly continue its winning ways for many years to come.

- Samantha Trimmer

Nice Swing...

Senior Brad Garrone sends one to the outfield during a game against Knoch. Brad received the MVP award for the 2003 season. "Everyone worked hard all season and really, anyone could have taken the award I felt honored to win," said Brad. The team worked hard to produce a winning season.

Senior Derek Scalzott makes his way into the outfield to prepare for another inning of play. When asked why he enjoyed baseball so much, Derek said, "When it got down to it, there was no physical activity like playgirl ball. It was our greatest game." All of the other players agreed with Derek. During the summer, ball players from all over the district came together to play for fun.

Coming Home...

Outfielder Jon Ferrero rounds third and trots home after hitting another long ball. "In my best game last season, I had a homerun and two doubles," said Ferrero. As the season progressed, the varsity team's offense continued to improve.

On the Move...

Ashley Haag trots toward the dugout after another defensive stand. The softball team enjoyed many victories. "Our best game was when we played number one ranked Norwin and beat them," said Ashley. Miss Haag brilliantly covered center field for the Cavaliers.

Batters Up...

Junior Haley Gearhart wisely lets a low ball pass by her feet. "This year I've learned that all of us have the potential to do anything we want if we work hard enough," she said. Haley contributed to the team on both offense and defense.

Like the stitching of a faithful glove, the Varsity Softball players bound together no matter what came at them. For instance, construction at the high school resulted in a change in normal practice conditions. Practices often took place on either Allegheny Hyde Park's baseball field or in the high school gym. Coach Dianne Haney noted that regardless of where the team trained, its spirit and unity never faltered.

Each team member did her part to promote a comfortable setting, despite the impending competitions. "When we had away games, Rhiannon Mondale would put on concerts on the bus," said senior Jenny Rodgers. "Those were always interesting."

Recalling a rather satisfying victory, Miss Rodgers also said, "The first time we played Latrobe, they held first place in the section and we lost. But, the second time, we beat them. We ruined their Senior Night!" The team may not have possessed the best record for 02-03, but exited the field grasping great memories and even stronger friendships. The 2002-2003 Varsity Softball team provided a new insight on the cliché "running like a girl!"

- Kelly Rudd & Miranda Bier

Bring It On...

Defensive specialist Shayla Knight crouches low and anticipates the next hit. "The greatest game of the year was our 11-inning victory against Latrobe. It was a great win because they were undefeated and first in our section," she said. Shayla's work in the field made her a staple in the Cavalier's starting lineup.

trainers

eXtreme

As the fall weather breezed toward a brisk winter and then on to a cool spring, the numerous athletes that dominated the high school swapped their previous sports uniforms for the newest attire. As a staple in the athletic program, the trainers stood behind all the fashion and season changes, serving the teams in countless ways. From sprinting dozens of bottles of water across the playing area to wrapping bandages around the many sprained ankles, the trainers had the opportunity to participate in a number of different sports simultaneously.

"It was really awesome that we actually had the ability to help the players," said junior Kristin McGranahan. Serving as a trainer allowed the students to become certified in CPR and first aid, and also granted them the experience to portray emergency room nurses, doctors and even physical therapists. Behind the scenes, the trainers acquired the skills needed to help others and even save lives. On the field, they themselves put on their game faces and set out for another success, namely safety.

- Miranda Bier

Clean Sweep...

Trainer Stephanie Yanup wipes up a mess during one of the many home wrestling matches. Although Stephanie trained for the wrestling team, she said, "I liked training for football the best because I liked to be on the sideline during the games." All of the Cavalier athletes appreciated Stephanie's service throughout the year.

The training team attends one of the numerous pep rallies. When questioned about why she trains, Liz Wright said, "The most rewarding aspect was seeing the players return to the field." The staff remained a supporting staple for all the sports teams throughout the year.

Ready to Serve...

The girls on the training squad prepare to take water to the thirsty players during a Friday night football game. "The most devastating injury that we saw was a lacerated liver," said senior Jocelyn Koyro. The girls witnessed and treated various other injuries throughout the season.

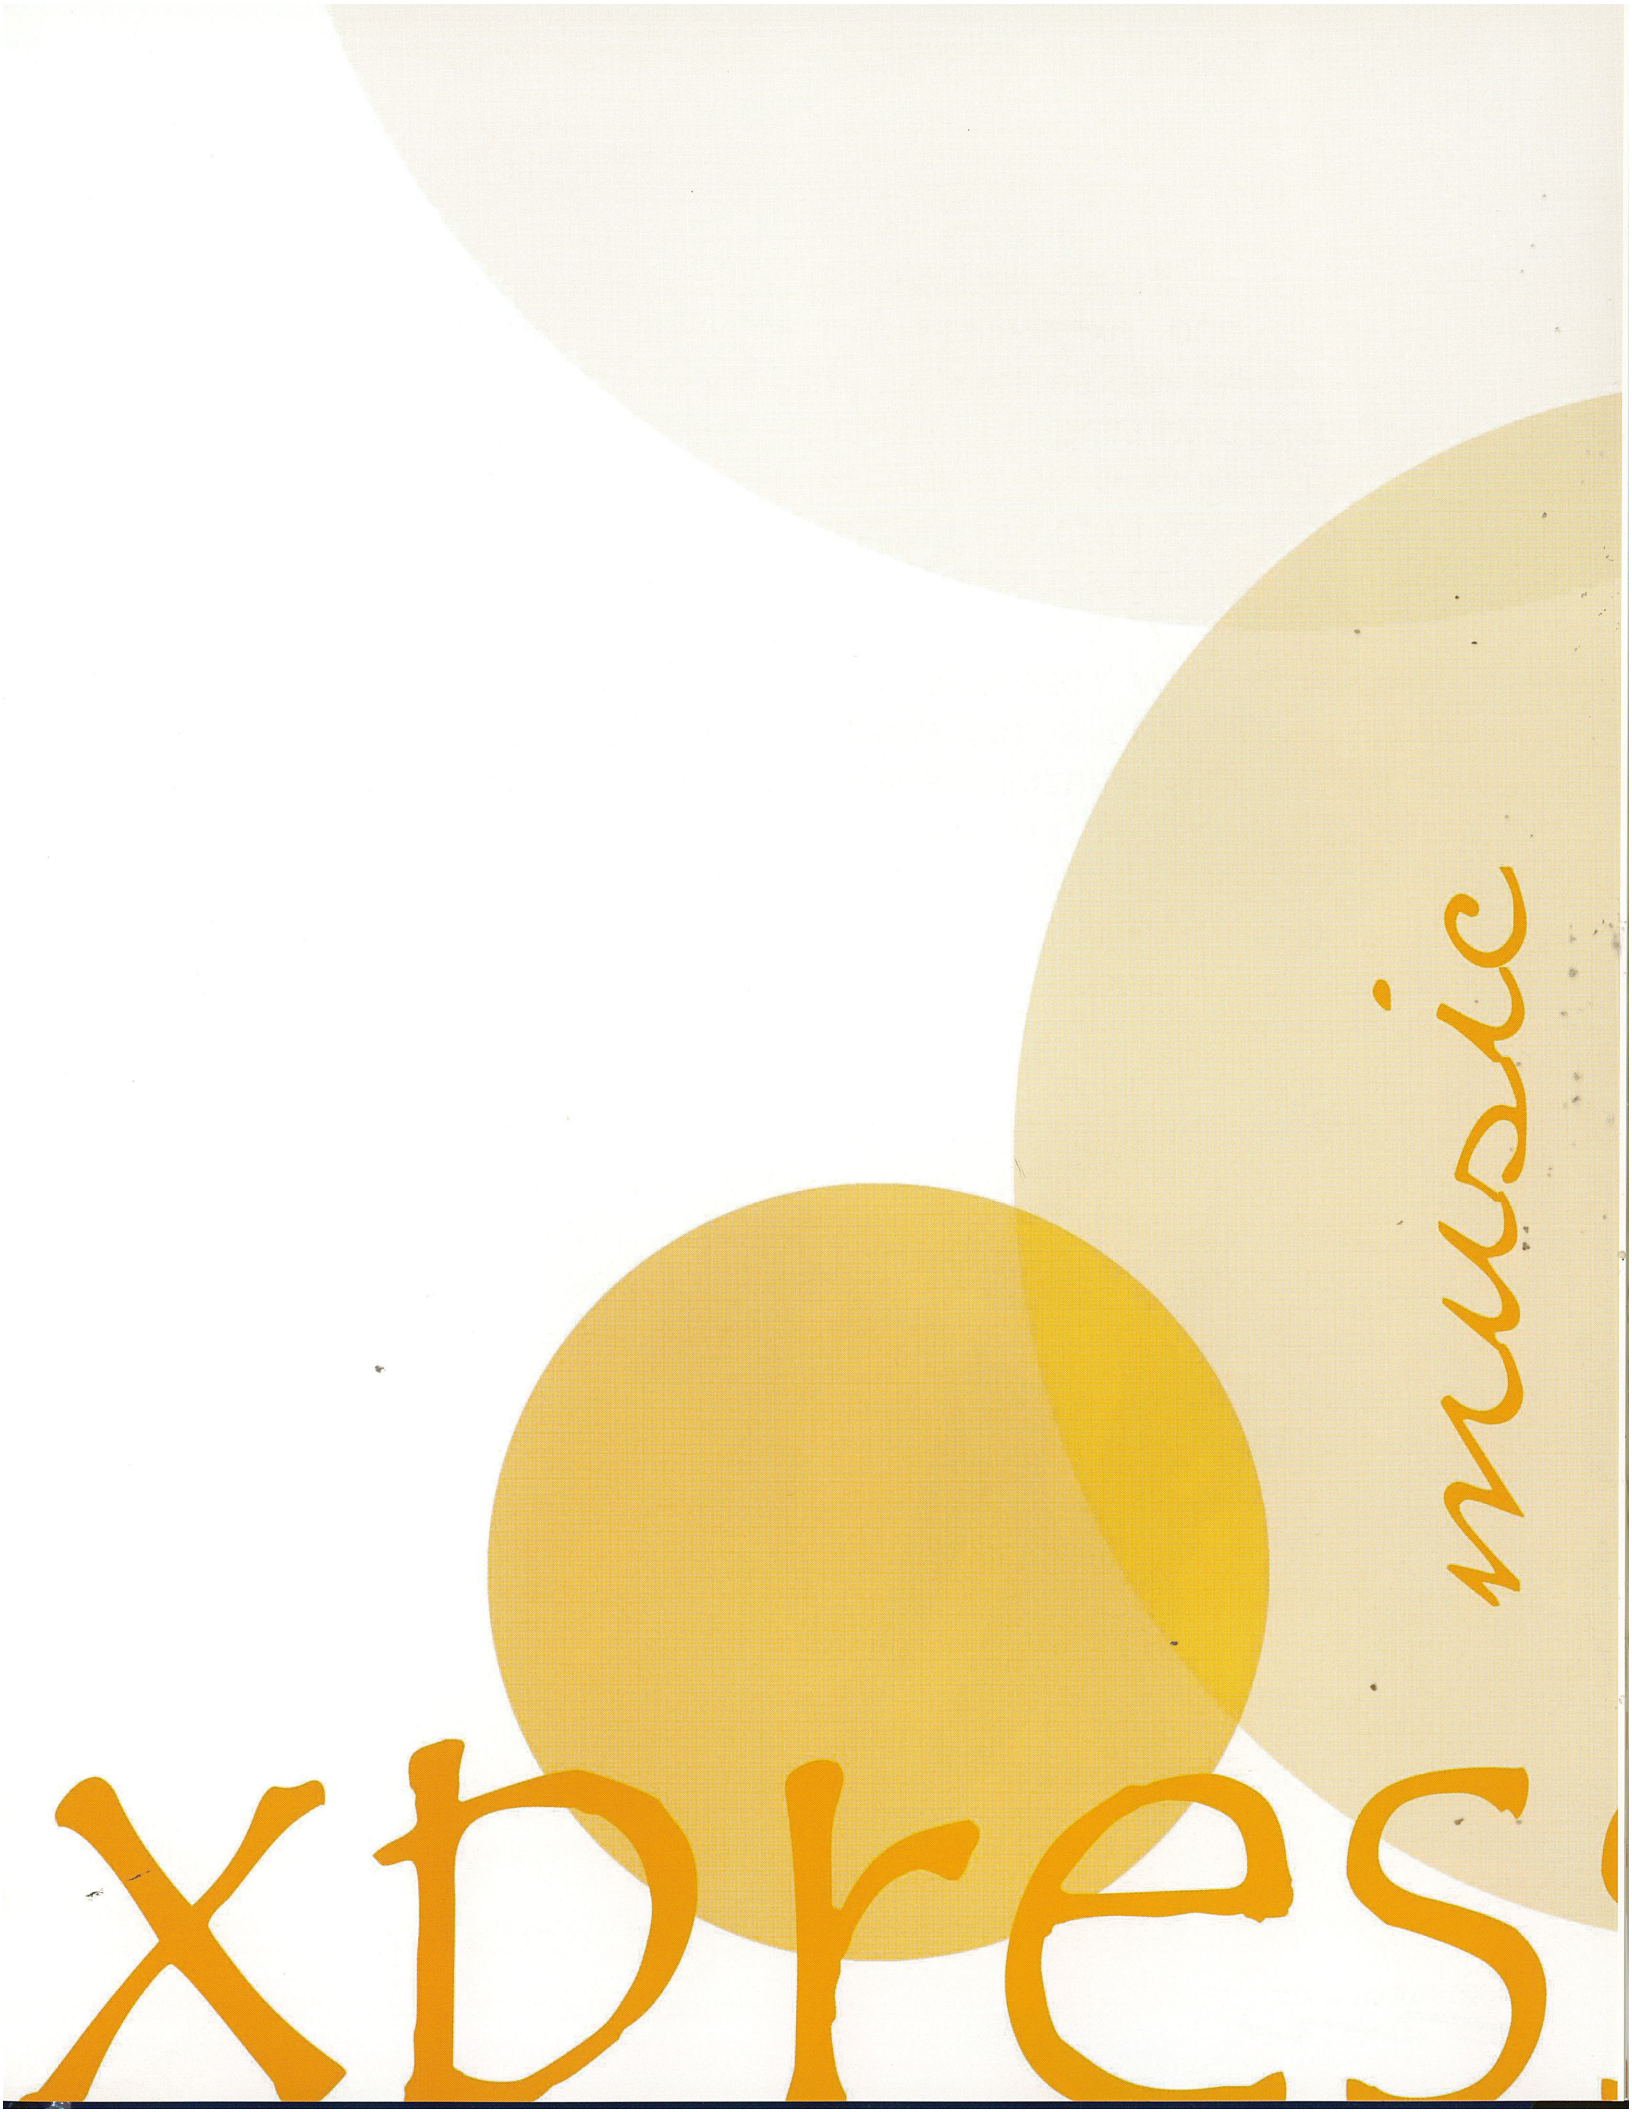

On the Mend...

Trainer Lisa Anderson applies her medical expertise to an injured soccer player. "I supervised all of the sports at Kiski," said Head Trainer Donna Rife. "My favorite was football because of all the action." Donna has mended the injuries of Kiski athletes for fifteen years.

Our school offered several bands and choirs, both as classes and extra-curricular activities. Musical brilliance seemed a tradition at Kiski. The award-winning marching band voyaged to Indianapolis in November challenging approximately 90 other bands from all over the country. The band received an outstanding score of 90.50 out of 100, which secured them a Top 7 finish. In May, approximately 200 students traveled to New York City with Mrs. Ellen Rupert to compete against other choirs and show choirs. "The choir trip to NYC was absolutely amazing," said senior Miranda Bier. "The various cultures displayed throughout Chinatown and the other districts made the trip wonderful." Mr. Shawn Pityk, symphonic band instructor, believed, "Working here at Kiski for me was wonderful. The kids were great, and so many supported the program which made my job more fulfilling." The music department acted as an integral element of Kiski's charm, and shaped the character of each participant. "Hours of practicing difficult pieces of music paid off," said junior Mike Geffel about his music affinity.

Music's power affected everyone. It had the ability to both connect people and express their deepest feelings.

The highly acclaimed colorguard and wind members accent the hand portion of the finale. When asked about her thoughts on performing in the dome, Christyna Rumbaugh said, "The experience was one that words could not describe. The feeling you got coming off the field was something you will never forget, knowing that you gave everything you had." The Class AA ensemble placed higher in finals than any other band in their class.

On the 13th of November, nearly 175 eager musicians, staff, and boosters traveled down Route 66 to compete in the most prestigious marching venue, the BOA Grand Nationals in Indianapolis. For the ninth time, Pennsylvania's best hope for the title of "Best Marching Band" in the nation competed, this time armed with "Heads, Hands, and Feet." While extremity body parts comprised the show, the band's heart definitely shined through the most.

The ensemble's preliminary performance earned them the right to compete against the top 32 bands in Semi-Finals. Even with a disappointing draw to perform early, the regiment fell just minutely short for the National AA championship to the Tarpon Springs Band from Florida. Still, Kiski's Semis performance represented the strongest show of the year. "The band's Semi's performance was by far the best performance musically and visually in my four years with this elite program. The final outcome suddenly lost its importance to the exhilaration of an outstanding performance by every single member," said Senior Ryan Retter.

Setting the crowd on its feet, the Cavaliers performed their final show as the 6th band to perform among the nation's top twelve in the Saturday evening competition. Outscoring former national champions such as Marian Catholic, Center Grove, Lake Park, Plymouth Canton, and Lawrence Central, the Kiski Band earned the best AA score in the United States, beating Tarpon Springs by five placements and three whole points. Former director and principal Scott Koter said, "I had the pleasure of watching the band work to detail and improve their program all year. It was an honor to witness their final performances. There was no doubt that every audience member saw that the outer body was only the vehicle used to communicate what was most important in life - one's mind, heart and soul."

marching band conquers nationals

The facade of dimmed crimson and evergreen spotlights radiated down through the gaps between the choral risers. Aromatic poinsettias adorned the faithful stage, and nervous, yet fervent kids graced the auditorium and its surrounding corridors. Parents, grandparents, brothers, sisters and alumni from previous decades joined to watch, center stage, the Kiski Area Choirs of 2003-04. Choral group after choral group, the spectators' eyes fixed on the lines of beloved young adults that streamed through the doorway. Each member of the Cavalier Choir slowly made his or her way to the stage, anticipating a moment in the limelight.

Following the heavenly sounds of the separate choir performances, the Cavalier Choir left the audience awestruck. Presenting the magnificent medley Rejoice!, arranged and orchestrated by Mark Hayes, the harmonious group mastered the various tones and rhythms in four traditional holiday carols. "It was so wonderful having the entire group together, allowing us to produce such a nice piece," said senior Cara Badac.

As a striking finale to the 14th annual Sounds of the Season Christmas concert, the traditional Hallelujah Chorus, composed by George Frederick Handel, resounded throughout the entire auditorium. The many alumni and vocalists reuniting on stage captured the true essence of Christmas and proved the Cavalier Choir as one note, one melody and one heart above the rest.

Since Kiski's first days, its students have found many different reasons to join clubs. "I thought Pride Club was great because it got students to show support at sporting events" said junior Chelsie Linkes when asked about her motivation for participating. Kiski offered a great number of clubs relating to academics, hobbies, sports, and other interests.
From the prestigious National Honor Society to the dedicated Key Club and the newer Car Club, everyone fit in somewhere at the Big K. Most clubs assembled bi-weekly during scheduled activity periods throughout the year, and several also had meetings after school and on weekends. Stephanie Riddle, Key Club president said, "It took up a lot of your free time. I don't think most people realized how much effort went into having a successful club." Although each club's agenda seemed different, they all contributed much to Kiski's atmosphere.
Fundraisers, dances, yearbook, the telethon, and many other activities simply would not have happened without clubs. Participating enhanced the high school experience overall. Clubs offered a new perspective. For many, they provided a chance to glimpse the world, and allowed students to explore their otherwise undetermined talents.

Finding the Angle...

journalistic excellence

The 2004 Campus Yearbook Staff expanded its creativity and developed a prism of multiple effect, where the resulting spectrum held within its colorful lengths a whole new spread of challenges. Mike Nigra, 2003 literary editor, first envisioned the 'Ex-' theme for the 2004 book, and his idea proved the onset to a true page-turner. At the annual yearbook competition in Seven Springs, the collaborated efforts of 2004 editor-in-chief senior Erin Bargerstock, senior Editor Lindsey Spang, junior editor Samantha Trimmer, junior editor Robert George and 2003 editors Rebecca Ehalt and Renee Alsberry embellished upon Mike's theme to produce a yearbook in full color - and a first place overall from the judges at the convention. "One of the reasons we did so well this year was because we not only used all color but also implemented it with the advanced effects of Photoshop technology," said Erin. "This really created a lot of excitement for the book."

The generated enthusiasm helped the staff overcome every barrier along the way to a successful product. From lost film to the tedious sizing and alteration of pictures, the staff and its sponsor, Mr. Paul Fantaski, conquered each obstacle and ultimately surpassed even their hopes for the book's outcome. Their efforts did nothing less than launch an explosion of hue as they expressed the tone of Kiski Area in a most EXquisite masterpiece.

Life Lessons

"Never open the refrigerator when you're bored."

The many staffs that contributed months of their time toward creating the Campus Yearbook each year continually followed certain guidelines, allowing Kiski Area's memories to dominate and receive honorable national awards. With such restrictions as using no forms of "be" in text and writing stories in past tense and in third-person point of view, the Yearbook Staff produced books that virtually astounded the judges. However, this tiny remnant among the dozens of other memoirs included in "Ex-" may seem quite different from the norm.

When talking about our time on staff you may have heard numerous amounts of "We had the worst year in yearbook history!" and "Yearbook Staff is cursed." Quite simply stated, our year stood just as those quotes read - challenging. Nonetheless, throughout all the lost film, picture retakes and strenuous deadlines, we all left room for some sort of smile.

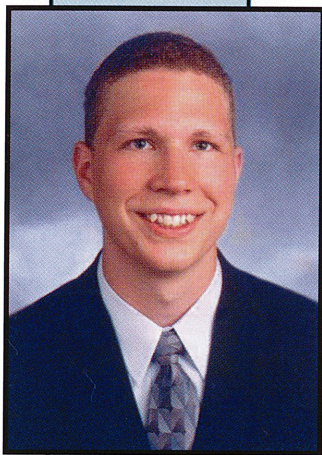

This page marks our moment trapped in time, our world inside the SAR and each of our individual journeys throughout this stage of our lives. Each editor that made up the Kiski Area 2003-2004 Yearbook Staff invites you to witness our year through a kaleidoscope. Thumb through the pages that reveal a part of your history and open your mind to the wide spectrums of assorted clubs and sports. We urge you to examine your true colors and let them shine through, as we have had the opportunity to do so all year.

- the Editors

editors of the year

It truly amazed me that we actually finished this book. The 2003-2004 year shall forever reign as the "Campus-Cursed Year." Still, due to the unprecedented efforts of a diligent staff, we managed to produce the phenomenal book that you now hold. Hence, the decision for Editor of the Year became more difficult than in previous years. Certainly, all staffs and individuals rose to meet the incredibly difficult demands.

I have selected three individuals that went well beyond capabilities to ensure that Kiski realized an unbelievable yearbook - one for incredible housekeeping, one for incredible insight, and one for incredible heart.

I first had to thank Christopher Shuss for his flawless record keeping. In a year where crises arose for every deadline, I never had to even slightly worry about finances of this book, because of Chris's efforts. Furthermore, for the past three years, I have aspired for Kiski to become one of the first high schools in the state to have an all-color yearbook. However, I never had a business leader that could truly make it happen, until Chris entered editorship of the book last year. Chris has brilliantly raised the additional $15,000 to realize an all-color book. Most importantly, I never thought twice about trusting Mr. Shuss with the near $60,000 needed to finance this book. Hence, I found Chris to rank among the most honest, trustworthy and moralistic students that I have ever had on staff. The Class of 2004 should forever thank Christopher Shuss for preserving their high school years in a spectrum of color.

I next had to recognize the unprecedented talents of Lindsey Spang. On the heels of losing phenomenal Michael Nigra, I knew that I had to create an editor's position that could launch the "Big K" into the forefront of American yearbook creation. Hence, on Mike's suggestion, I opened up a technology position in the hopes of finding someone who could at least come close to his genius. Fortunately, Lindsey entered the scene and eventually single-handedly pulled this book out of financial ruin. Spending more time in the yearbook room than her advisor, Miss Spang managed to digitally save over 200 unusable underclass photographs. Her efforts surmounted to a savings of nearly $10,000 for the 2004 Campus book. More importantly, no other book in Kiski's history had the spectacular effects as this one. From the fire on page 107 to the bar graph on page 124, and from the morphing on page 40 to the split-action effect on page 152, Lindsey brainstormed and created them all. Thank you Miss Spang for raising the Campus book to those among the best in the nation.

Lastly, I had to offer thanks to Miranda Bier for her incredible heart. No other editor spent as much time at home preparing this book that Miranda. From correcting stories to rewriting them completely, Miss Bier certainly gave all she had to make sure that the 2003-2004 Campus displayed excellence in writing. Miranda wrote with a style that remained absent from previous books. In her poetic manner, Miss Bier not only wrote with exceptional grammar, but she brought her words to life. Coupled with Amanda's style and Samantha's instinct, I will definitely judge all future books against this one. Still, this quality record did not simply appear. Excellence surfaced only because the editors truly cared to make this book better than all its predecessors. In my opinion, I found Miranda to care just a bit more than the rest. Thank you for your incredible "hard work and dedication."

Life Lessons

"Never leave fun to find fun."

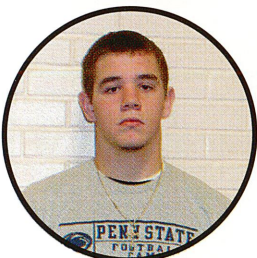

With the holiday season right around the corner, students and faculty alike accepted a slightly different autumn color into their wardrobes. Pink ribbons adorned each of the caring individual's clothing who contributed five dollars to profit a prospective cure for breast cancer. The Key Club, a smaller organization affiliated with the Kiwanis, sold the pink ribbons to students and faculty, permitting the faculty to wear jeans for one day. Raising over $900 for breast cancer, the club kept its honorable reputation for charitable events.

January 16th marked yet another major event sponsored by the Key Club. Ranging from kindergarten forties to multitalented seniors, the 2004 Talent Show revealed a truly entertaining way to spend a Friday night and help a valuable cause. The first through third place acts at the high school included an exquisite solo by Amanda Waddell, a comical duet between senior Bethany Bollinger and junior Nick Artman and a beautiful vocal collaboration of seniors Lindsey Spang and Amy Tweten, respectively. "I loved working behind all of the talents at the show. It was really enjoyable," said junior Robert George.

Thanks to the efforts of Mrs. Haney and her diligent staff, Key Club aided many admirable causes in the community. In a society where most organizations aimed to profit for themselves, Key Club proved that giving truly surpassed receiving.

Preparing the Case...

Frank Ily reads the details of the crime during a Mock Trial meeting. When asked about his favorite part of the club, Frank said, "I enjoyed going to the mock trials. At the courthouse, teams like Greensburg Salem taught us a lesson or two about debate." Frank actively participated in Mock Trial for the last two years of his career at Kiski.

The Mock Trial program aimed at transforming a jury-sized group of teenagers into a mass of courtroom lawyers. Each year, the team received a case from the Pennsylvania Bar Association and split into two groups for approximately three months to prepare for a professional presentation. However, a change in leadership provided for major modifications in the Mock Trial team's average routine.

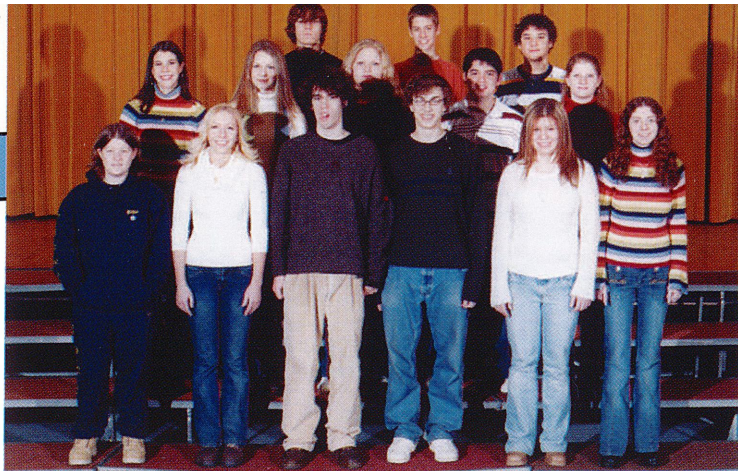

Dr. Pipman took on the enormous challenge of coaching the team, which proved quite a challenge when gaining the numerous skills needed to advise an award-winning debate.

"When I joined Mock Trial, I was not expecting to work so hard," said new member sophomore Steve Lucas. Practicing up to three times a week, participation in Mock Trial certainly involved a great commitment. With an intricate case including a mentally handicapped person, the team proved itself quite worthy of its prosecution skills when the judges adjourned the court.

No matter the amount of snow and cold temperatures, winter could not officially arrive at Kiski until the annual Christmas Telethon commenced. During the week of December 15th-19th, 2003, the Telethon Committee spent countless hours at the Casino Theater and High-Vision Studio, both in Vandergrift, and the Leechburg K-mart filming promotions and collecting donations.

Telethon proceeds benefited The Salvation Army and St. Vincent DePaul Food Bank. The Telethon Committee set its sights high for 2003, with a goal of $20,000. Although outside donations contributed greatly to the Telethon's funds, most of the money raised came from activities organized by Student Council. The bake sale, auction, 50/50 raffle and Battle of the Bands got the entire student body involved and proved successful fundraising tactics for this wonderful cause. The class challenge started out slow. However, the prospect of Mr. Pugliese, the Student Council sponsor, shaving his infamous goatee motivated the students into a frenzy, making 2003 the highest grossing Class Challenge ever. "I promised to shave my goatee when the students raised $3000 and keep it off two more days for every $100 over that goal," said Mr. Fran Pugliese about his naked chin. The charitable event warmed many hearts this frosty holiday season.

"I really liked being in the Wrestling Club. It was something that I loved to do, and I was proud to be a Kiski Area wrestler," said Scott Joseph, a sophomore wrestler. When asked his opinion of the club, Charles Tursky, who started the club five years ago said, "I started the club to have kids do something that they enjoy." Theater has elicited many emotions, including fear, joy and sorrow, each of which provided inspiration to the Drama Club. Miss Halterlein, Miss Slater and Miss Jacobs sponsored the club and guided the members from an ordinary written script to an artistically aesthetic performance. Initially, those who chose to participate in the Drama Club took interest in the opportunity to showcase their talents in the club's annual fall performance. However, while the candy fundraising played on and the bonds between the aspiring actors and actresses grew, the club members proved that they could display more than just an audience awing performance. The Drama Club collaborated with the TST and other various teachers to create the technical, physical and internal aspects of the show. The hard work of students and teachers culminated in a most memorable and successful drama.

The National Honor Society, one of Kiski Area's most distinguished clubs, stayed true to its community-based roots. In addition to delivering food for Meals on Wheels and the Westmoreland County Food bank, NHS members also sponsored peer tutoring on both the high school and elementary levels.

At the high school's Open House in October 2003, NHS members provided refreshments to weary parents and volunteered as guides to assist in navigating the sometimes complicated building. When asked about his thoughts concerning the event, club member Chris Lucas said, "The parents were really glad to have us there. One dad said that he never would have been able to find his way around without us."

Such an event illustrated each member's character, service and leadership ability - the three founding principles of this prestigious organization. The activities that NHS sponsored over the course of the year brought out the best in each member, a feat most clubs can only strive to accomplish.

All Smiles...

Officers McKenna Snyder, Jacob Yundt, Erin Bargerstock, Adam Haag and Cara Badae pause for a picture at the National Honor Society induction ceremony. "NHS members participated in a number of activities to help out their community and friends and still managed to keep their grades up," said President Adam Haag. NHS's weekly involvement in Vandergriff's Meals on Wheels program helped provide food to the area's elderly population.

Brightening Mornings...

The morning announcements team woke up the students of Kiski each morning of the school year. "The positive energy jump started the morning schedule and got everyone informed about the day's activities," said reporter Sarah Brill. In addition to KAE-TV, Sarah belonged to French Club, SADD Club, Environmental Club and the Broadcast Club.

Each early morning, music flowed from the intercoms around the school's half-litened corridors, signaling the start of Good Morning Kiski. College scholarships, sports activities, side-notes about clubs and even the lunch menu aired over the broadcasting system that reached over 1500 students daily. Missions of maintaining microphones, light settings and camera backdrops remained the responsibility of the behind-the-scenes crew.

Anchors spent the early morning hours pre-reading through the news items to correct any information that would come across as misleading, while the camera operators perfected the many views and angles for the day. Music operators chose the appropriate songs to awaken the students before attending first period class. According to junior anchor Lindsey Yost, "Being on staff gave me a different outlook on things. It made me realize that things weren't as easy as they looked. It also showed me that when you work with a group of people, it was crucial that everyone did their part." Members of the Good Morning Kiski Program provided the high school with vital information that kept students on track every day.

The Winterguard embarked on an emotionally stirring show in 2003 and 2004 as it shed its usual fast-paced and upbeat routine for a more dramatic and somber performance that touched both audience members and judges alike. The show, a work entitled "Rain" by Patty Griffon, presented a significant challenge for the Winterguard members. "It was hard to perform with facial expressions that get the message across to the audience," said junior Alissa Cochenour.

The girls reached their dynamically expressive presentation with the aid of out-of-state choreographer Mr. Jeff Sacktig, who has prepared a few past shows as well. Ms. Denise Azarri, Ms. Andria Kirshbaum, Ms. Kristie Yalch and Mr. Jim Schaefer further enforced Mr. Sacktig's work throughout the season. With such unceasing support and training behind each girl's facial expressions and intricate motions, the Winterguard executed a touching show of award-winning magnitude.

store finds sweet success

While many students often visited the Student Store in need of a pencil, candy or a sweatshirt, four dedicated students gave up every activity and homeroom period to manage the business. Supervised by Ms. Manganello, juniors Heidi Held, Krystal Martin, Kristen Daniel and senior Nicole Carney operated the store each morning. Highlights included decorating at holidays and spending time with friends instead of sitting in homeroom.

AirHeads Extremes, Swedish Fish and Twix bars topped the popularity charts outselling all other items. Additionally, selections included redesigned hoodies, shirts and various sweets. The managers have planned even more changes and surprises for next year. "We were looking forward to moving into the brand new Student Store at the beginning of the 2004-2005 school year," said Heidi. No matter where the store resides next year, the students will certainly visit it for everything from an extra pencil to a mid-afternoon sugar rush.

embodied so much more than a high school. It extended throughout a great amount of land, affectionately nicknamed "Cavalier Country." All felt very privileged to become a part of such a remarkable area. One sometimes forgot that the same teachers and students seen everyday also functioned as family members, consumers, and neighbors. "Mr. Mayer stops in once a week at Shop 'N Save just to see me. We are good friends in and out of school," said junior Jeremiah Berta. Kiski Area never would have reached its current prominence without support from parents, the community and area businesses. Teachers and students involved in Key Club, for example, budgeted their time carefully in order to better the public via volunteer work. "In addition to teaching at school, I felt it was important to, in some way, support the community. You have to prioritize time. Otherwise, you cannot achieve your true potential," said Mrs. Dianne Haney, teacher and Key Club sponsor. Kiski High remained proud to serve in a community with so many caring and loving hearts.

From the adorable seven year-old to the beautiful seventeen year-old, we have watched you grow. You went from an ambitious freshman to a yearbook editor. You brighten our days with your beautiful smile. These last four years have flown by and we enjoyed every minute of it. You will do wonderful things and we look forward to the many memories and many more smiles.

We
love
you.

In 1985, a beautiful little girl was born ~ and a very special girl. As the year passed and 18 years later, she grew into a beautiful and most remarkable woman. With a heart of gold and a beautiful personality, you have made us very proud. Turn around and we will always be there for our little girl.

Love Dad, Mom and Frank

Britainy,

The years have gone so quickly ~ from kindergarten to your senior year! How you have grown into a beautiful young lady with a love of music. You have always been willing to work for the goals you have set.

Continue to play to the music of your dreams; the notes will bring you joy. The future is yours ~ anything is possible. Go for it! You are such a blessing to us ~ May God richly bless your life.

Love,

you is that all your dreams become a reality and you never are satisfied with less.

Love, Mom and Dad

For the many times we have looked at you, hearts in our throats, smiles on our faces, we want to say.....

Unique? How about irreplaceable, invaluable, & miraculous! So, Rhiannie, let music move you, let every exciting moment take you, sing that kamoke song, dance in the middle of the dance floor, jump off the high dive, swing at every pitch & ALWAYS take a chance!

Oh yea, we love you!

God has blessed us with double the fun and double the love and for that we are truly grateful. The daily stories, the impersonations and activities you have both shared with us over the years, we will surely miss.

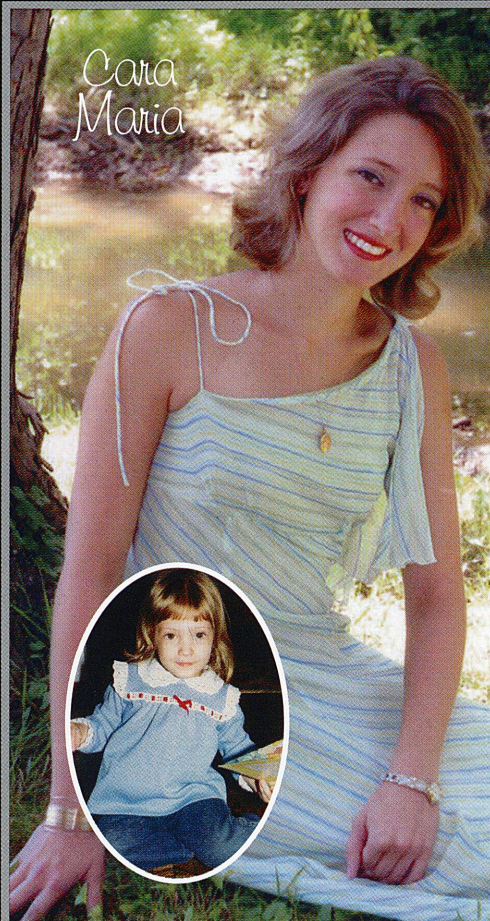

However, we know that you are about to experience bigger and better things. You both have made us proud and you continue to fill our hearts with joy and happiness. "Thank you for all the memories"

All our love and prayers for a bright future

Mom and Dad

Cara Maria

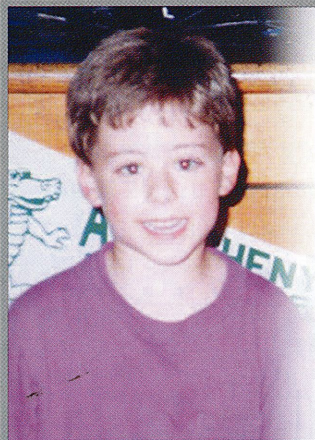

You have made us so proud through the years. With your drive and determination, you have proved that nothing is beyond your grasp. Remember, your life is filled with God's blessings, your dreams are filled with blessings yet to come!

All our love, Mom, Dad, Krista, Brett and your Grandmas.

To Joe,

Congratulations! We are so proud that you have completed your first major lifetime achievement! You have worked so hard over the years, both in school and on the baseball field. While this is the end of your high school career, it is the beginning of a new phase of your life. Many opportunities will knock on your door and we know that with your hard work and dedication, you will be a success! Your future brings the promise of possibilities and we wish you everything wonderful that life has to offer: laughter, love, hope, faith and achievement. We will always be here to support you as you face the challenges life offers. May God always bless you and always remember these three things: Love life, be happy and believe in yourself - We do!

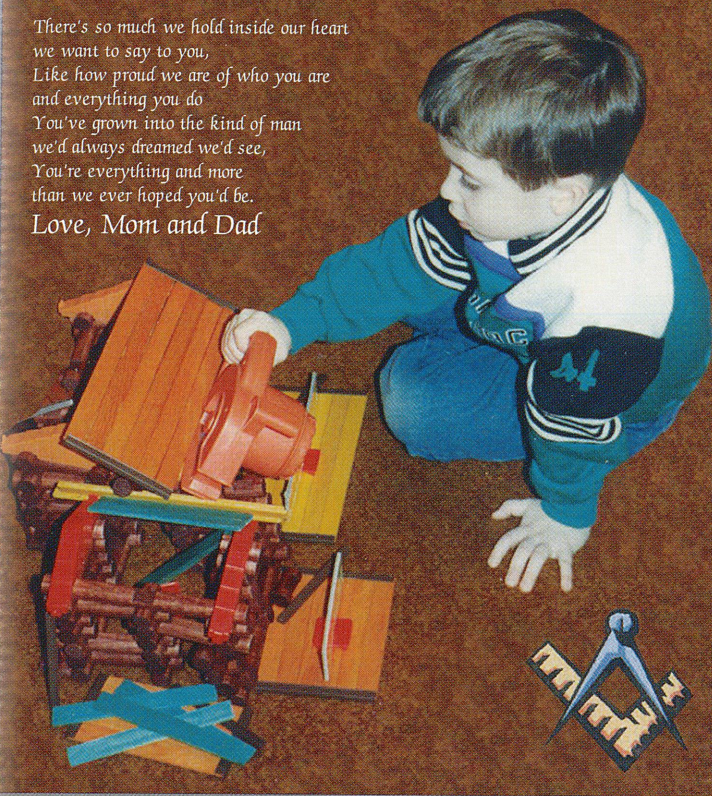

With all our pride and love, Mom, Dad and Aaron

Dear Steve,

There's so much we hold inside our heart
we want to say to you,
Like how proud we are of who you are
and everything you do You've grown into the kind of man we'd always dreamed we'd see, You're everything and more than we ever hoped you'd be.

Love, Mom and Dad

Brad ~

Don't ever change.
There is definitely no
one else like you in the entire world, and the world needs you in it.
You're the best!

Love, Bruce and Judy

PS: Things won't be the same without you.
I'll miss you.

Good luck - Jesse

You're the best big sister! You have always loved me and taken care of me.
Congratulations! The sky is the limit now!
Love, Ian

Mileena

I'm so proud of you!
You've brought joy to all the lives you've touched in the eighteen years of life so far; it can only get better!

Love, Mom

To Our Baby, Chad

We've always loved you best because while endings are generally sad, you are such a joy. You readily accepted the milk-stained bibs, the rickety crib, the toys with missing parts, the baby book that had nothing written in it. You are the one we held on to so tightly, you are the link with our past, a reason for tomorrow. You quicken our steps, square our shoulders, restore our vision, and give us a sense of humor that security, maturity and durability can't provide. When your waistline expands, your hairline recedes, and when your own children tower over you, you will still be our baby.

Love you always, Mom, Sean,
Dad, Jessica, and Heather.

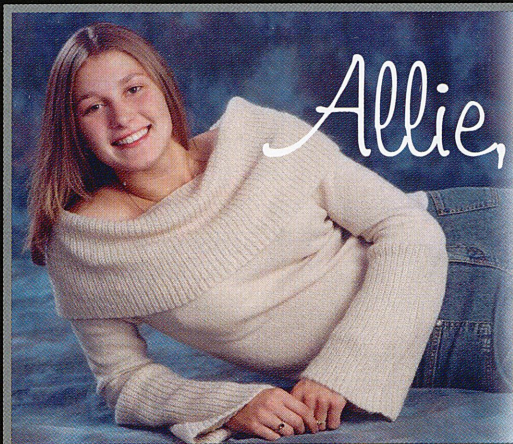

Laura,

We are very proud of the young woman you have become and wish you success and happiness
in the future.

Love,
Mom, Dad and Jeanine

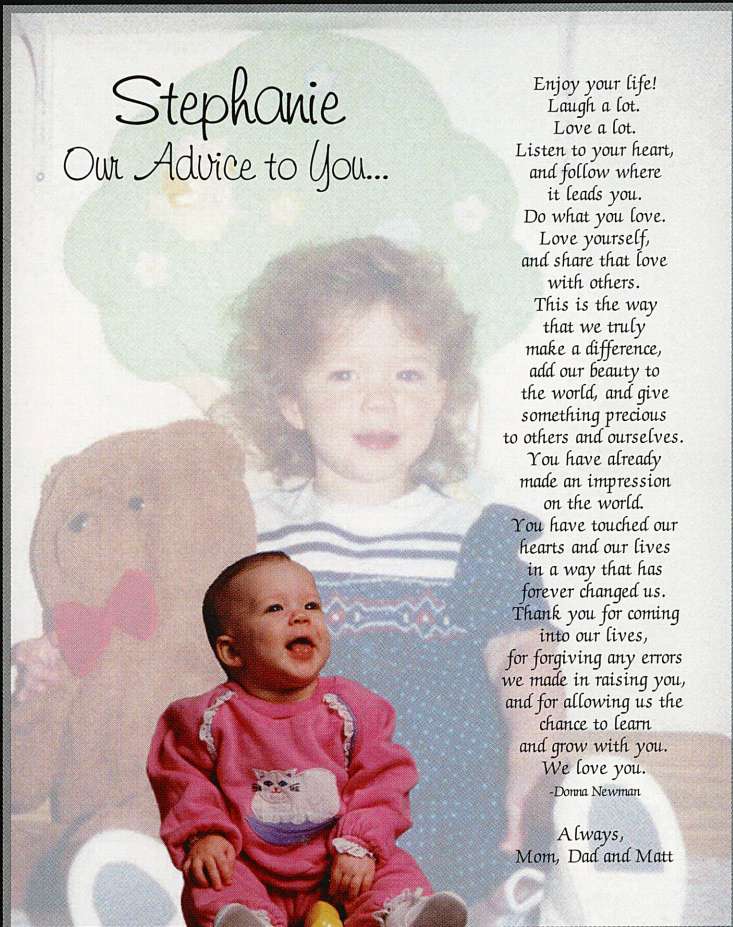

Allie

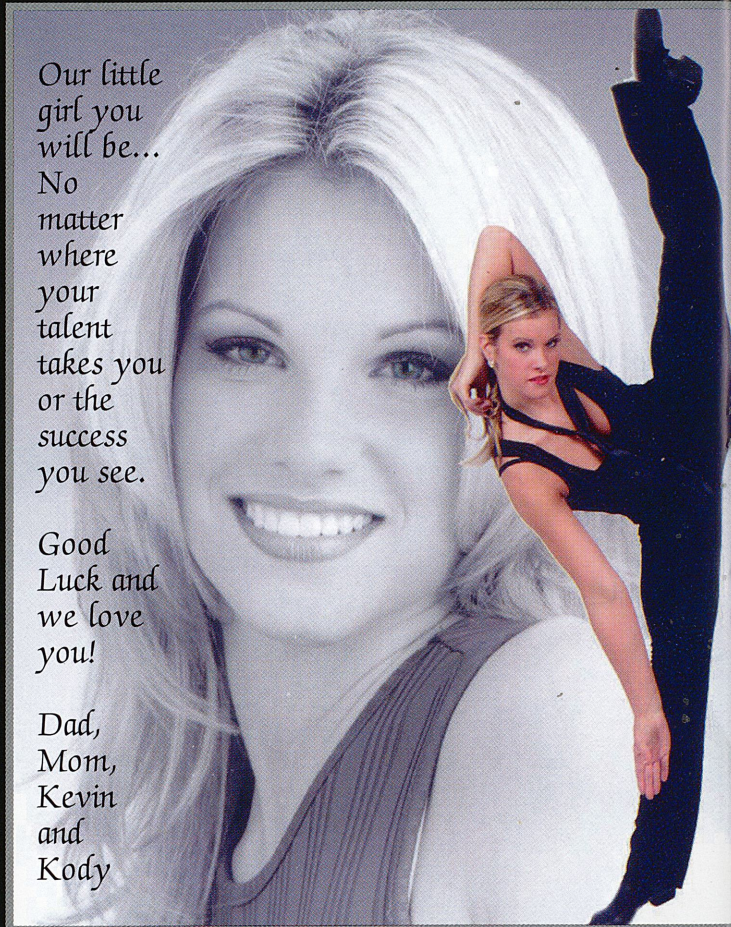

When I think back, it seems like yesterday you were born and now you are a senior. Over the years, I have watched you grow into such an incredible young lady. I am very proud of all your accomplishments. I love you so very much and I am honored to say that you are my daughter. Keep smiling and continue to keep your direction. I love you.

Mom

Enjoy your life!
Laugh a lot.
Love a lot.
Listen to your heart,
and follow where
it leads you.
Do what you love.
Love yourself,
and share that love
with others.
This is the way
that we truly
make a difference,
add our beauty to the world, and give something precious
to others and ourselves.
You have already made an impression
on the world.
You have touched our hearts and our lives
in a way that has forever changed us.
Thank you for coming into our lives,
for forgiving any errors
we made in raising you,
and for allowing us the chance to learn and grow with you.
We love you.

Congratulations Jessica

It seems like just yesterday when you were our little girl and today you have turned into a beautiful young woman. We are very proud of you. Good luck in all you do.

We Love You
Mom & Dad

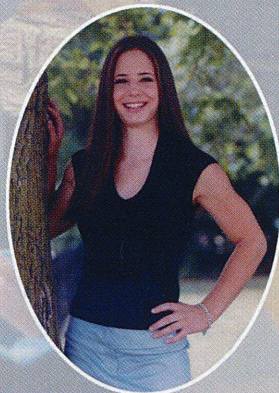

Danielle

I can't believe how fast the years have flown by! You have grown from an active, carefree child into a beautiful, caring, intelligent and talented young woman. You constantly amaze me with your many talents, athleticism and achievements. I have cherished every minute of it. Your greatest attribute is your ability to see good in others; you accept people for who they are and are compassionate to everyone.

You are a joy and I am so proud. My wish for you is that you find happiness and fulfillment in anything you do. Go after what you want, give your best effort and don't settle for less. You will make a positive impact on the world. You are a wonderful daughter and I love you very much.

Mom

Amanda~

You worked hard and didn't let life's setbacks and heartaches get you down. You moved forward and stayed true to your values.

We admire your strength and determination. You don't realize what an amazing young woman you are. We love you and know you'll be a success in whatever you choose to do in life. Always remember your family, from parents and brother to grandparents, aunts and uncles, are here to support you.

We love you,
Mom, Dad and Chris

P.S. Grandma & Sarah are up there cheering you on, too.

Bethany,

We're very proud of you and we take great delight in everything you do. You have kept us busy since you were born and we have always loved watching you perform.

You are multitasking, kind, and sweet. With hard work and dedication your dreams will be complete.

We love you,
Mom, Dad, Jenny,
and Davie

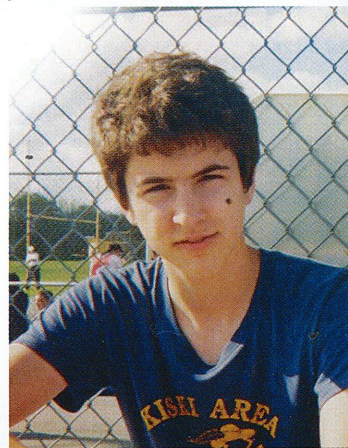

From the first day of kindergarten when your head barely peeped from the bus window, to all the exciting memories that your Track and Cross Country meets have brought us - We have been so very proud of you.

Clayton

You have never been afraid to stand out and be yourself. Continue to follow your dreams.

All our Love,
Mom, Dad, Chase
Bub & Pap

For 18 years now,
as long as it seems,
we've watched you grow
we've heard your dreams

We can't express enough
how proud of you we are,
from a newborn baby girl
throughout the years this far

Your new life begins now
a whole new journey to see too,
we'll always be there as a family;
remember we LOVE you!

Dad, Mom & Jerica

Dana

Brittany,

The day you have waited for is finally here. We have enjoyed watching you grow from an adorable child going off to preschool, to the beautiful young woman you are today. We are so proud of you. Our wish for you is a future filled with happiness and all the things dreams are made of.

You are so special to us,
Love you,

Mom, Melissa, Grams,
Bryan, Dudley and Elizabeth Rose

You have always strived to be the very best. Now you come to the end of one road and the beginning of the next. We have no doubts that you will strive for the best in the next step of your future.

Michael Jonathon

Remember the best is yet to come. You make us proud that you are our son.

I would be proud of you, could I attend ~ Would I know now the things I'll never know,

Could I have watched you come to comprehend ~ the wonder of the world in which you grow.

Do not think I did not think of you ~
Imagining the beauty of this day,

For I was at your graduation, too ~
Though long ago, and in a different way.

Linds,

Life can be full, no matter short or long ~ As long as love can fill it with its grace.

And I have felt such pride, and love so strong ~ That you will live your life in my embrace.

So of the pride today I claim my share:
Though I am not, I know that I am there.

Love, Dad

As this door closes a wonderful new one is about to open.

The past was just a brief moment in time that has shaped you into the wonderful, kind, strong and caring person you have become.

Your future holds great promise, adventure and a meaningful career.

Your dad, brother and I know that you will excel in whatever you choose to do, that's the FABRIZI way!

Good luck at IUP.

See you in the sunshine on the golf course!

We love and support you always...

Our deepest pride to you...

Dear Kelly,

This is a moment of pride and accomplishment that you will remember forever. Be proud of the challenges that made you stronger and your determination to work hard and never give up.

Ahead of you lies a journey we all must travel. A journey whose length is not as important as the footprints you will leave behind for others to follow. Whichever path you take, whether it's the easy path or the one rarely traveled, you have the ability to make an impact upon this world. Believe in yourself and always keep your dreams, and faith in God, alive.

We're so proud of you, Jelly Bean!

J.P.

I am so proud of the fine young man you have become. You have accomplished so much in 18 years, and as you begin a new chapter in your life at IUP, you will accomplish even more. You are truly a gift from God. I am so thankful that you are my son. Thank you for always being here for me. Never lose your sense of humor. It's priceless. Congratulations. I love you.

Mom

Janelle,

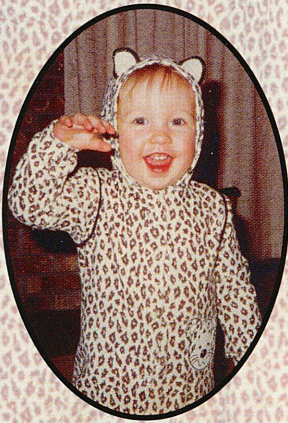

How do we choose just one picture, memory or phrase to sum up the 18 years leading up to this special moment?

It is IMPOSSIBLE - there are so many memories and so many ways that you have made us extremely proud in everything you do - from the moment you were born, through all of your "First" achievements...first tooth, first steps, first words, first birthday, first friends, first day of school, first Holy Communion, first date, first dance, first love, etc.

God has truly blessed us with our "First" born child, and may He continue to bless you and watch over you. Always keep your faith in God and He will keep His faith in you as you begin the biggest challenge so far...The First Day of the Rest of Your Life.

- You deserve only the best -
Love Always and Forever,

Liz,

We watched in awe you
morph from helpless
babe to beautiful, confident woman. It happened in a twinkle of an eye and now the sad/joyous time is near.

We will always love you and be there for you.

Keep your dreams in focus and have fun.

Love,
Mom, Dad and Jim

A rose blossoms on its own hour, waiting for the perfect moment to arrive. It turns into a beautiful flower.

Splendid beauty is obvious to the eye. It is exposed to harsh weather, yet there it is extending tall with pride. It does not remotely wither.

My child, you are like a rose blossoming on your own time. Your magnificent beauty glows. Blessed I am that you are mine. As much as I want to safeguard, you will be exposed to harsh days.
Take every lesson to heart. Keep standing tall now and always.
You have a purpose in life, it will reveal itself
in time.

Love,

Graduation is a time
For feeling very proud,
For thinking lots of lovely thoughts
And saying them out loud.

And so we are so very proud of you
For being who you are,
For making something of yourself,
For making it this far.

Congratulations Brianna,
for all you've done and for all you're capable of.
May your future fulfill all of your dreams and wishes, as you have fulfilled
all of ours.

COLOPHON

The 2003-2004 Campus Yearbook staff chose "Expand" as the theme to reflect the renovations at the high school. We aimed to incorporate the prefix "Ex" into all sections of the book.

The 2004 Campus yearbook represented the 42nd for Kiski Area High School, 200 Poplar Street, Vandergrift, PA 15690, telephone (724) 845-8181. The staff ordered 1075 books from Taylor Publishing Company, 10365 Railroad Drive, El Paso, TX 79924. This book employed a Smythe type binding with 100# enamel paper inside. The yearbook staff utilized EliteVision, Taylor's premium yearbook creation program, to produce the book. Additionally, Taylor chose this book to overrun as national samples - an honor bestowed to approximately 200 among thousands of organizations per year.

Larry Parker from Deglau - Portraits by Larry, 502 Main Street, Latrobe, PA 15650, telephone (724) 537-8211 provided all of the club, sports team, musical ensemble, and student panel pictures. Surprisingly, nearly 5000 man hours helped to create the 2004 Campus.

Campus related prices for the 2003-2004 school year included:

- Book: $50 (if on time)
- Waiting List: $60
- Business Ads: 1.8 pg.: $45, 1/4 pg.: $60, 1/2 pg.: $90,
Full pg.: $120,

the year viewed through the eyes of poetry

Sounds of celebration left fading in the distance
The beckoning golden glow of completion
Still miles out of reach
The darkness so complete it seemed,
An echoing absence of the sun
But foundations always have to be laid in the dark
And just the time we didn't know if we'd ever
Feel the ground beneath our feet
We realized that we were the ones who had to put it there.

Time passed, labor passed....
Vibrant, quiet silence, like a snowfall,
Covered the strength encased in memories
A pathway, brick on brick, held together
With a mortar of bridges crossed, softened with tears -
Expanding, exploding bright
Across the long, grey landscape,
Restless like an arm reaching out for tomorrow
Fingers spreading like a flame,
The flame we carried through the ebony night.

We were the ones that expressed,
That experienced; explored,
That exceeded:
That watched the tangerine life of the morning
Spill itself across an absent sky...

We were the ones who built the doorway
Only, for some of us, just in time to step through it
And glance over our shoulders,
To watch the sunlight rush past us,
Filling the frame of a new beginning.

2004 class
may you find joy, health, love, success and happiness all through your lives
